Proposal for License Stations Is Defeated

Williams Says Majestic's Idea Would Cost County $50,000, Notes Mail Way

A proposal to establish seven sub-stations in Ulster County for issuance of automobile license plates was defeated by a 19 to 13 party vote Thursday by the board of supervisors.

Supervisor George Majestic, (D), Gardiner, contended that Ulster County has lost revenue from the sale of automobile license plates "because many people find it more convenient to get their plates in neighboring counties rather than go to Kingston and wait on long lines."

Names Areas

He moved that the county clerk establish sub-stations within the townships of Wawarsing, Saugerties, Shawangunk, Shandaken, New Paltz, Marlboro and New Paltz, to be operated by town clerks on a fee basis.

Majority Leader Peter Williams (R), Saugerties, said such a system would cost the county $50,000 in fees, rental, insurance and other costs. He said Ulster received $80,000 state aid and 35 cents per plate for cost of issuance. Presently a four-cent stamp takes an application to every car owner in the county and it costs about 22½ cents to ship the plates out. Anyone who does not want to come to Kingston and stand in line can mail in the application and have his plate in 48 hours. There is no need for the sub-stations, Williams said, and that system would be costly.

County Gets Credit

Supervisor Banyo (R), Ulster pointed out that fees paid in other counties are credited to the county where the applicant resides and the only fee lost is the 35 cents per plate which is allowed for shipping and issuing. He also pointed out that many town clerks are busy and would not have the time to issue plates. He cited the convenience of a mail application.

Supervisor Gaffney (D), Lloyd, said many farmers would appreciate it. In order to get a farm truck license at 80 per cent of the regular cost, a farmer must fill out a slip which is not included with the application blank now sent out. This necessitated coming to Kingston to get the slip and fill it out.

Tells of New System

It was suggested that the slip be included in the letter with the application blanks.

Chairman McHugh noted that he had ascertained there would shortly be a change in license procedure, that a permanent plate would be issued for a three year period and that the present policy of licenses all expiring at one time would be eliminated and issuance would be grouped throughout the year.

The resolution was defeated.

28 Perish In German Mine Blast

HEESSEN, Germany (AP)—A coal mine explosion took 28 lives here today, mine officials reported.

Two other men are missing, a mine spokesman said. Eight miners were injured.

Only Few Working

The explosion in the state-owned Sachsen Mine occurred just half an hour before the morning shift of 2,200 was due at work. A spokesman said the casualty toll was relatively low because only skeleton night crews were working.

The explosion occurred just 30 days after a fire-damp blast in the Luisenthal Mine in the Saarland to the south took 299 lives.

The mine spokesman said all miners appeared to be accounted for and the death toll was not expected to rise unless some of the injured men did not survive.

Didn't Start Fire

He said the explosion occurred in a horizontal tunnel connecting various mining locations more than 3,000 feet underground. He reported the blast was apparently caused when blasting ignited a pool of methane gas or fire-damp which had collected in the tunnel.

The explosion did not start a fire, and men not directly struck by the blast were not endangered.

Cost to County $6,200 in '61 for Requested Leaves

A careful study will be made of future applications by county employes to attend schools, conventions and conferences.

This item has been on the increase over the past few years. In 1960 the approximate cost to the county was $2,000. In 1961 it rose to $6,200 and is approximately $1,300 already this year. In 1960 the requests numbered 17, in 1961, 53 and already in 1962 there had been 11.

In the future all such applications must be made to the Committee of the Board of Supervisors concerned with the office or department in question.

Action Deferred

At the February meeting of the board several requests were received and action on them deferred. The matter was referred to committee.

A resolution was offered by

Florida Democrats are giving a fund-raising dinner — at $100-a-plate — at a Miami Beach hotel Saturday night, in honor of Sen. George Smathers. Civil Defense Gets Storage Space in Cornell Building

Use of the controversial Building on Ferry Street again came up before the board of supervisors Thursday night when Civil Defense sought permission to use space in the building to store medical equipment, supplies and other materials necessary to the Civil Defense plan for Ulster County.

An attempt to confine the use to the two vacant stores in the building so as not to hamper use of "valuable office space", a Democratic proposal, was defeated by a 19 to 13 vote. CD was granted permission to use the premises for warehouse storage.

No Remodeling Required

Supervisor Joseph Turck (R), Fourth Ward, offered a resolution to grant the request of the Civil Defense officials. The resolution cited the fact that storage within Ulster County of various items would "enhance the Civil Defense effort to be available for emergency use by the residents of the county in connection with Civil Defense requirements". It was pointed out in the resolution that the request was from the director of Civil Defense and no alterations or modifications would be required at the site.

A Democratic sponsored motion to amend the resolution and limit use to two stores so the office space would not be jeopardized was lost by a vote of 20 to 12 and the original resolution was adopted.

Thinking About Flooding

Supervisor James T. McCardle (D), Ninth ward, said he would hate to see the building turned into a warehouse and said it was bad practice to store Civil Defense items in one place. He also cited that in case of emergency there was danger of "flooding."

This brought mirth from the Republicans who have long contended the building is unsuited for office use and is subject to floods.

Chairman McHugh noted that there had been government approval of the site as a storage place for CD materials.

36 Dead, $165 Million Damage

6-State Area Begins Mop-Up; U.S. Aid Due

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Residents and authorities of the six-state area battered by the big storm, bolstered by prospects of massive federal aid, have begun mopping up operations after a three-day rampage of wind and water.

The death toll stood at least at 36, with a number of persons missing. Property damages have been estimated at well over $165 million.

Declared Disaster Zones

The coastal sections of New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina have been declared disaster zones by the Small Business Administration, which grants special, long term loans to property owners.

Outright federal grants must come by proclamation of President Kennedy.

These grants would go to state and local governmental units for the repair of roads, bridges, schools and other facilities.

The governors of New Jersey, Delaware, Virginia and Maryland already have asked the President to declare their stricken sectors disaster areas.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York has asked Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to petition for designation of stricken sectors as disaster areas.

Additional federal aid was announced Thursday by the Department of Agriculture, which said emergency food supplies were being distributed to storm victims through state and local agencies.

Estimates by States

Damage estimates by states: New Jersey and Delaware, $50 million each; Virginia, $30 million; New York, $25 million; North Carolina, $3 to $5 million; and Maryland "many millions."

Pestilence and starvation menaced survivors, with practically all food supplies and sewage facilities wiped out. Acceptable drinking water constituted a major problem in many areas.

In North Carolina, Gov. Terry Sanford flew over the distressed area.

"I thought it was going to be bad, but it is much worse than I imagined," he said.

H. Mat Adams, New Jersey conservation commissioner, said the damage in his state was worse than anything in a generation.

State emergencies have been declared by Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey and Gov. Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware.

Carvel estimated that between 1,000 and 3,000 homes have been

Rebels Strafed By French Craft, Talks Continue

ALGIERS (AP) — Rocket-firing French planes today strafed Algerian rebel artillery firing at French positions along the Tunisian-Algerian frontier for the third straight day.

French and Algerian nationalist delegates met for their third session of peace talks in the French resort of Evian outwardly unmoved by the flareup of shooting in eastern Algeria.

Show Steady Progress

One informant said the talks were making slow but steady progress toward a full agreement, including a cease-fire, to put Algeria on the road to independence.

A French communique minimized the rebel artillery bombardment and said it was a harassment and not an attack. It added that the artillery duel had not affected movement of some French troops from the frontier region toward the cities in the west.

The French said the French plane in difficulty over the frontier was abandoned by its pilot. Army sources said the plane was a U.S.-built Skyraider fighter.

The communique said the Algerian bombardment had killed two French soldiers and wounded 13, and killed eight Moslem civilians and wounded more than 30.

Not Angry With Kaye, Says Adams

Alderman Frank Adams of the Fifth Ward today issued a statement taking exception to a page one headline in Wednesday's Freeman referring to an incident in which he did not see eye-to-eye with Alderman-at-Large Harold Kaye.

Adams' statment said:

"In the Wednesday night edition of the newspaper we read a story on the front page which was titled 'Adams has argument with Kaye.'

"Before Sam Perry and his Republican friends try to make political mud of this, it should be made clear that I was not then nor am I now angry with Mr. Kaye. We had lunch together Thursday. I merely disagreed with Mr. Kaye. I have before and will probably disagree with him in the future, when it is believed that his decisions are not in accord with mine.

Like Newlyweds

"Mr. Kaye would be the last person to muzzle an Alderman, but the first to tell the Aldermen they are out of line. Our disagreement in the Council would be similar to a disagreement between newly weds. After the smoke and fire has settled, love blossoms as before.

"For me this is a period of adjustment. It must be remembered that our disagreement came after 5½ hours of meetings. It was about 1 p. m. in the morning when the dispute arose and after a full day of work. At this time most people would be short tempered and I was.

"Instead of headlining this most inconsequential event, it would have been more in the public interest to headline the fact that in the past two weeks 300 people have been injured because of the terrible job of snow removal and the poor condition of our City streets. The headline should have been "MAYOR SCHWENK IGNORES POOR STREETS." Only recently the editorial page of the newspaper carried comments about the poor condition of the streets. This was a true act of public service.

"The poor snow removal is the

Favored $109,913 for Planning Coming From Federal Government

Reported misunderstanding of technical and formal procedure by the Common Council in legislating Tuesday night on a reported uptown urban renewal project is dealt with briefly by Council Majority Leader Frank C. Sass in a statement released today.

A few, said Sass, who is also chairman of the council's urban renewal committee, appear to believe that the city has allotted or banked $109,913 for the survey and planning phase of the project. Instead, he indicated, it is only earmarked and with the city through the asking, as have been other sums from time to time since the city has been dealing with urban renewal as far back as 1959.

Explanation of Vote

Here is what the council voted for in part (not included in Sass's statement:)

"Whereas, under Title 1 of the Housing Act of 1949 as amended (herein referred to as Title 1) the Housing and Home Finance Administrator is authorized to extend financial assistance to local public agencies in the eliminating and prevention of the spread of their slums and urban blight through the planning of urban renewal.

"And whereas it is desirable and in the public interest that the City of Kingston make surveys and prepare plans presently estimated to cost approximately $109,913 in order to undertake and carry out an urban renewal project of the character contemplated by Section 110, Title 1 in that area proposed as an urban renewal area situated in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, State of New York, which is described as follows:

Area Involved

The description is one of an area involving Washington Avenue in the viaduct area, Taylor and Murphy Streets, parts of North Front Street, Clinton Avenue, Green and John Streets.

The resolution notes that "The financial assistance available under Title 1 is needed to enable the City of Kingston to finance the planning and undertaking of

People Selected Have Experience In Fields Relating to Education

Five to Meet With Four Named by Governor in Near Future; Majestic Votes Negative in Poll of 31 to 1

With several Democratic supervisors objecting to the "high-handed" method by which the Community College Committee had arrived at appointment of trustees for the Ulster County Community College, and amid Democratic charges of deviation from bi-partisan practice, the Board of Supervisors Thursday night named five trustees who will serve with the four named by Governor Rockefeller.

The vote for adoption of the resolution offered by Supervisor Roy Webber (R), Marbletown, chairman of the Community College Committee, was 31 to one, Supervisor George Majestic (D), Gardiner, voted against the adoption.

Selected as Trustees

Named by the board were:

Dr. Ina Craig Sartorius, Accord, one year.

Macdonald DeWitt, Kingston, three years.

Kenneth Davenport, Stone Ridge, seven years.

Fabian L. Russell, Saugerties, nine years.

The resolution also provides that the official name of the college shall be "Ulster County Community College."

Linked to Education

DeWitt, prominent New York attorney and resident of Governor Clinton Hotel in this city, some time ago offered a $100,000 grant toward the capital cost of the proposed college here. DeWitt is president of the DeWitt Revolving Fund Inc., which is set up to provide loans to deserving students requiring funds to attend college.

Whalen is general manager of International Business Machines Corp., Kingston, and prominent in civic, business and other community activities.

Davenport is president of Walter Davenport Sons, Inc., High Falls, and also prominent in community activities.

Russell is president of F. L. Russell Corp., paper products manufacturing firm in Saugerties, and active in Saugerties and county civic endeavors.

Dr. Sartorius is a former school teacher and has devoted her life to education. She possesses many degrees and has done professional work in education in Connecticut on a state level and internationally.

The five trustees named by the board of supervisors will serve with the four recently named by Governor Rockefeller. They are: Harry Rigby Jr., Kingston, two year term; Elizabeth M. LeFever, Town of Ulster, four years; Bernard A. Feeney, Kingston, six years and Louis Berger, Ellenville, eight years.

Following naming of the five trustees Thursday evening, Jesse McHugh (R), chairman of the board stated that the next step would be for a meeting of the trustees and he expressed an opinion that this meeting would be held "very shortly".

Not Against College

In voting against the resolution, Supervisor Majestic said he was not opposed to the Community College or the persons named as trustees, but said he felt the "southern tier" should be represented on the board of trustees.

Several other Democratic members also noted objection to the "method" used by the "majority members of the committee" in making selections.

The two Democratic members of the Community College Committee did not sign the committee report. They were Supervisor John J. Gaffney of Lloyd and Supervisor Roger Mabie of Esopus. Republican members of the committee who did sign were Roy Webber of Marbletown, Alexander J. Banyo of Ulster, Abram Molyneux of Woodstock and James A. Rapp, First Ward, Kingston.

In its report the committee stated that it had received "a vast number of recommendations from various organizations and individuals. These lists have been carefully studied and the qualifications of the persons recommended given particular consideration. Most of these recommend, in our opinion, are qualified."

The committee then recommended the five persons be appointed for their respective terms, effective July 1, 1961.

Mabie Objects

As a member of the committee Supervisor Mabie (D), Esopus, objected to the "methods" taken by the committee and said none was named from the southern portion of the county "south of 209" where a large percentage of the population of the county resides.

He said those named were an "excellent choice" but he objected to the "high-handed manner" in which the committee had taken final action following a caucus by the Republican members of the committee. He said since the beginning the Community College had been considered a bi-partisan proposition but he called the action of the majority member of the committee "cold, knuckle-headed" procedure. The people named are "well qualified," Mabie said, it was the method of arriving at the selection that he objected to. He said "we need a college in a hurry" and he supported the resolution.

Replying Supervisor Banyo (R), Ulster, also a member of the committee, said no inquiry

Pennsy Disagreement Blamed

House Kills Measure To Boost Membership

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proving that some of the best-laid political plans can come a cropper, the House has killed a bill to increase its membership from 435 to 438.

A voice vote returning the measure to a committee pigeonhole Thursday climaxed one of the most hectic and confused House sessions in years.

McCormack Withdraws

The bill would have given Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Missouri one more House seat than they will be entitled to under 1960 census figures.

The measure suddenly lost so much of its carefully arranged support that backers couldn't even muster the 80 votes needed for a rollcall.

Just before the final action, its one-time champion, Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, disavowed his support because of an amendment that would have forced the calling of special sessions of the legislatures in the three states to redistrict their congressional seats. Failure to call such a session or to enact redistricting laws would have required all House candidates from the three states to run on a statewide basis.

The amendment was offered by the bill's author and floor manager, Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., and it caught friends and foes by surprise although it had been discussed in previous committee sessions.

Walter, who said that the bill was dead as far as he was concerned, told reporters he offered the amendment because he made a commitment to Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

Would Salvage Seat

The commitment, which Halleck acknowledged, was that a new redistricting law in Pennsylvania would salvage the seat of veteran Ivor D. Fenton, Republican, whose re-election was in doubt under a redistricting law already passed in Pennsylvania.

It was to help Fenton that Halleck rallied GOP support for the bill. The purpose of the amendment was to make certain that

Bixby Contradicts Stratton, Says Thruway Future Bright

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The financial stability of the State Thruway Authority has "never been stronger...its prospects for the future never brighter," says its chairman.

R. Burdell Bixby said Thursday criticism of the Thruway's finances by Rep. Samuel S. Stratton was "so utterly false and potentially harmful...that I consider it necessary to reassure the people who have invested nearly $1 billion in the bonds of the Authority."

Stratton's Charge

Stratton, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, charged last month:

"There's an awful lot of hanky-panky going on in the Thruway when they call for a $12 million bond issue to take care of ordinary year-to-year maintenance work the same time the Thruway is handing over a $41 million cash repayment to the state as one of the fiscal gimmicks the governor needed to balance his 1962 budget."

Bixby said $72 million in bonds had been sold Feb. 27 by the Authority, instead of $12 million, but none of it will be used for maintenance.

Explains Use

The Authority will pay the $41 million state loan, Bixby said, then use the balance of the bond money to build the North Grand Island Bridge, pave shoulders along the Thruway, build drainage facilities and complete several construction projects on the cross-state superhighway.

Repayment of the $41 million is a major item in Gov. Rockefeller's plan to balance the $2.6-billion 1962-63 budget. Prosposed expenditures total $140 million more than anticipated income. The budget has been approved by the Legislature.

Decision Is Made to Restore Most of Money for School TV

By MICHAEL KEATING

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Republicans have decided to restore all or nearly all of the educational television funds they cut from Gov. Rockefeller's 1962-63 budget.

The State Board of Regents had complained that the cut — from $1.2 million to $454,000 — would doom the state's educational televisions program, including aid the state planned to pay to communities developing or expanding such television systems.

The Regents said the cutback came at a time when educational TV was attracting more and more interest and support across the state.

The planned restoration was the highlight of several state government developments Thursday. Others included:

Libraries — A statewide system of research libraries was proposed. Under the legislation, five or more regional libraries would be set up to draw on the specialized libraries of area colleges, universities, courts, businesses and industry. Eventual cost — $8 million a year.

Dairymen — The Assembly passed 123-2 a bill to give dairymen in the Buffalo - Niagara Frontier and the Rochester milk marketing areas additional protection from non-market dairymen. Dealers who imported milk from outside the markets would have to pay compensation into the market pools, from which the market dairymen are paid. The bill went to the senate.

The slash in the educational TV portion of the governor's budget was evidence of hostility to the program among a segment of the legislators. This group considered the program to be a "frill" that would continue to become more expensive.

The Regents, however, consider educational TV's future promising, especially for extending the influence of a gifted teacher, reaching a larger number of students inexpensively, and extending cultural opportunities for adults.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino—the two Republicans who have final say in the Legislature—let it be known that the TV funds would go back in the budget. This was to be done when the Legislature passes a supplemental budget before adjourning.

Adams' statment said:

"In the Wednesday night edition of the newspaper we read a story on the front page which was titled 'Adams has argument with Kaye.'

"Before Sam Perry and his Republican friends try to make political mud of this, it should be made clear that I was not then nor am I now angry with Mr. Kaye. We had lunch together Thursday. I merely disagreed with Mr. Kaye. I have before and will probably disagree with him in the future, when it is believed that his decisions are not in accord with mine.

Like Newlyweds

"Mr. Kaye would be the last person to muzzle an Alderman, but the first to tell the Aldermen they are out of line. Our disagreement in the Council would be similar to a disagreement between newly weds. After the smoke and fire has settled, love blossoms as before.

"For me this is a period of adjustment. It must be remembered that our disagreement came after 5½ hours of meetings. It was about 1 p. m. in the morning when the dispute arose and after a full day of work. At this time most people would be short tempered and I was.

"Instead of headlining this most inconsequential event, it would have been more in the public interest to headline the fact that in the past two weeks 300 people have been injured because of the terrible job of snow removal and the poor condition of our City streets. The headline should have been "MAYOR SCHWENK IGNORES POOR STREETS." Only recently the editorial page of the newspaper carried comments about the poor condition of the streets. This was a true act of public service.

Favored $109,913 for Planning Coming From Federal Government

Reported misunderstanding of technical and formal procedure by the Common Council in legislating Tuesday night on a reported uptown urban renewal project is dealt with briefly by Council Majority Leader Frank C. Sass in a statement released today.

A few, said Sass, who is also chairman of the council's urban renewal committee, appear to believe that the city has allotted or banked $109,913 for the survey and planning phase of the project. Instead, he indicated, it is only earmarked and with the city through the asking, as have been other sums from time to time since the city has been dealing with urban renewal as far back as 1959.

Explanation of Vote

Here is what the council voted for in part (not included in Sass's statement:)

"Whereas, under Title 1 of the Housing Act of 1949 as amended (herein referred to as Title 1) the Housing and Home Finance Administrator is authorized to extend financial assistance to local public agencies in the eliminating and prevention of the spread of their slums and urban blight through the planning of urban renewal.

"And whereas it is desirable and in the public interest that the City of Kingston make surveys and prepare plans presently estimated to cost approximately $109,913 in order to undertake and carry out an urban renewal project of the character contemplated by Section 110, Title 1 in that area proposed as an urban renewal area situated in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, State of New York, which is described as follows:

Area Involved

The resolution notes that "The financial assistance available under Title 1 is needed to enable the City of Kingston to finance the planning and undertaking of

People Selected Have Experience In Fields Relating to Education

Five to Meet With Four Named by Governor in Near Future; Majestic Votes Negative in Poll of 31 to 1

With several Democratic supervisors objecting to the "high-handed" method by which the Community College Committee had arrived at appointment of trustees for the Ulster County Community College, and amid Democratic charges of deviation from bi-partisan practice, the Board of Supervisors Thursday night named five trustees who will serve with the four named by Governor Rockefeller.

The vote for adoption of the resolution offered by Supervisor Roy Webber (R), Marbletown, chairman of the Community College Committee, was 31 to one, Supervisor George Majestic (D), Gardiner, voted against the adoption.

Selected as Trustees

Named by the board were:

Dr. Ina Craig Sartorius, Accord, one year.

Fabian L. Russell, Saugerties, nine years.

The resolution also provides that the official name of the college shall be "Ulster County Community College."

Linked to Education

DeWitt, prominent New York attorney and resident of Governor Clinton Hotel in this city, some time ago offered a $100,000 grant toward the capital cost of the proposed college here. DeWitt is president of the DeWitt Revolving Fund Inc., which is set up to provide loans to deserving students requiring funds to attend college.

Whalen is general manager of International Business Machines Corp., Kingston, and prominent in civic, business and other community activities.

Davenport is president of Walter Davenport Sons, Inc., High Falls, and also prominent in community activities.

Russell is president of F. L. Russell Corp., paper products manufacturing firm in Saugerties, and active in Saugerties and county civic endeavors.

Dr. Sartorius is a former school teacher and has devoted her life to education. She possesses many degrees and has done professional work in education in Connecticut on a state level and internationally.

The five trustees named by the board of supervisors will serve with the four recently named by Governor Rockefeller. They are: Harry Rigby Jr., Kingston, two year term; Elizabeth M. LeFever, Town of Ulster, four years; Bernard A. Feeney, Kingston, six years and Louis Berger, Ellenville, eight years.

Following naming of the five trustees Thursday evening, Jesse McHugh (R), chairman of the board stated that the next step would be for a meeting of the trustees and he expressed an opinion that this meeting would be held "very shortly".

Not Against College

In voting against the resolution, Supervisor Majestic said he was not opposed to the Community College or the persons named as trustees, but said he felt the "southern tier" should be represented on the board of trustees.

Several other Democratic members also noted objection to the "method" used by the "majority members of the committee" in making selections.

The two Democratic members of the Community College Committee did not sign the committee report. They were Supervisor John J. Gaffney of Lloyd and Supervisor Roger Mabie of Esopus. Republican members of the committee who did sign were Roy Webber of Marbletown, Alexander J. Banyo of Ulster, Abram Molyneux of Woodstock and James A. Rapp, First Ward, Kingston.

In its report the committee stated that it had received "a vast number of recommendations from various organizations and individuals. These lists have been carefully studied and the qualifications of the persons recommended given particular consideration. Most of these recommend, in our opinion, are qualified."

The committee then recommended the five persons be appointed for their respective terms, effective July 1, 1961.

Mabie Objects

As a member of the committee Supervisor Mabie (D), Esopus, objected to the "methods" taken by the committee and said none was named from the southern portion of the county "south of 209" where a large percentage of the population of the county resides.

He said those named were an "excellent choice" but he objected to the "high-handed manner" in which the committee had taken final action following a caucus by the Republican members of the committee. He said since the beginning the Community College had been considered a bi-partisan proposition but he called the action of the majority member of the committee "cold, knuckle-headed" procedure. The people named are "well qualified," Mabie said, it was the method of arriving at the selection that he objected to. He said "we need a college in a hurry" and he supported the resolution.

Replying Supervisor Banyo (R), Ulster, also a member of the committee, said no inquiry

Pennsy Disagreement Blamed

House Kills Measure To Boost Membership

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proving that some of the best-laid political plans can come a cropper, the House has killed a bill to increase its membership from 435 to 438.

A voice vote returning the measure to a committee pigeonhole Thursday climaxed one of the most hectic and confused House sessions in years.

McCormack Withdraws

The bill would have given Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Missouri one more House seat than they will be entitled to under 1960 census figures.

The measure suddenly lost so much of its carefully arranged support that backers couldn't even muster the 80 votes needed for a rollcall.

Just before the final action, its one-time champion, Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, disavowed his support because of an amendment that would have forced the calling of special sessions of the legislatures in the three states to redistrict their congressional seats. Failure to call such a session or to enact redistricting laws would have required all House candidates from the three states to run on a statewide basis.

The amendment was offered by the bill's author and floor manager, Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., and it caught friends and foes by surprise although it had been discussed in previous committee sessions.

Walter, who said that the bill was dead as far as he was concerned, told reporters he offered the amendment because he made a commitment to Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

Would Salvage Seat

The commitment, which Halleck acknowledged, was that a new redistricting law in Pennsylvania would salvage the seat of veteran Ivor D. Fenton, Republican, whose re-election was in doubt under a redistricting law already passed in Pennsylvania.

It was to help Fenton that Halleck rallied GOP support for the bill. The purpose of the amendment was to make certain that

Bixby Contradicts Stratton, Says Thruway Future Bright

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The financial stability of the State Thruway Authority has "never been stronger...its prospects for the future never brighter," says its chairman.

R. Burdell Bixby said Thursday criticism of the Thruway's finances by Rep. Samuel S. Stratton was "so utterly false and potentially harmful...that I consider it necessary to reassure the people who have invested nearly $1 billion in the bonds of the Authority."

Stratton's Charge

Stratton, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, charged last month:

"There's an awful lot of hanky-panky going on in the Thruway when they call for a $12 million bond issue to take care of ordinary year-to-year maintenance work the same time the Thruway is handing over a $41 million cash repayment to the state as one of the fiscal gimmicks the governor needed to balance his 1962 budget."

Bixby said $72 million in bonds had been sold Feb. 27 by the Authority, instead of $12 million, but none of it will be used for maintenance.

Explains Use

The Authority will pay the $41 million state loan, Bixby said, then use the balance of the bond money to build the North Grand Island Bridge, pave shoulders along the Thruway, build drainage facilities and complete several construction projects on the cross-state superhighway.

Repayment of the $41 million is a major item in Gov. Rockefeller's plan to balance the $2.6-billion 1962-63 budget. Prosposed expenditures total $140 million more than anticipated income. The budget has been approved by the Legislature.

Decision Is Made to Restore Most of Money for School TV

By MICHAEL KEATING

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Republicans have decided to restore all or nearly all of the educational television funds they cut from Gov. Rockefeller's 1962-63 budget.

The State Board of Regents had complained that the cut — from $1.2 million to $454,000 — would doom the state's educational televisions program, including aid the state planned to pay to communities developing or expanding such television systems.

The Regents said the cutback came at a time when educational TV was attracting more and more interest and support across the state.

The planned restoration was the highlight of several state government developments Thursday. Others included:

Libraries — A statewide system of research libraries was proposed. Under the legislation, five or more regional libraries would be set up to draw on the specialized libraries of area colleges, universities, courts, businesses and industry. Eventual cost — $8 million a year.

Dairymen — The Assembly passed 123-2 a bill to give dairymen in the Buffalo - Niagara Frontier and the Rochester milk marketing areas additional protection from non-market dairymen. Dealers who imported milk from outside the markets would have to pay compensation into the market pools, from which the market dairymen are paid. The bill went to the senate.

The slash in the educational TV portion of the governor's budget was evidence of hostility to the program among a segment of the legislators. This group considered the program to be a "frill" that would continue to become more expensive.

The Regents, however, consider educational TV's future promising, especially for extending the influence of a gifted teacher, reaching a larger number of students inexpensively, and extending cultural opportunities for adults.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino—the two Republicans who have final say in the Legislature—let it be known that the TV funds would go back in the budget. This was to be done when the Legislature passes a supplemental budget before adjourning.

After Tanker Broke in Two

Ships Near Port With Rescued 34

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A luxury ship and a Navy destroyer neared port today with 34 crewmen of the tanker Gem who were rescued on the stormy Atlantic after their vessel snapped in two.

Only one man aboard the Liberian tanker—her first officer—was lost when she broke apart in the pounding seas Thursday 110 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C.

Twenty-seven crewmen were removed from the wallowing stern of the Gem by the destroyer Stribling. Seven others, including the captain, were plucked from the bow by the luxury cruise ship, Victoria.

The Stribling and an accompanying destroyer, the Huntington, were expected to put into Mayport, Fla., about noon today. Sometime later in the day the Victoria was expected to reach New York.

The Coast Guard buoy tender Jonquil was due to take the Gem's stern section in tow, heading for an as yet undisclosed port. No one was aboard the derelict, which the Coast Guard pronounced a menace to navigation.

The Stribling reported all those she saved were in good condition.

Other ships, too, were endangered by the heavy seas off the Virginia and North Carolina coasts.

The Navy cruiser Northampton was standing by the Chinese ship Chun Lee, which reported it was drifting east of Cape Hatteras with its hold flooded and five of her crew injured. A tug was en route to the scene.

The Chesapeake Lightship, damaged Wednesday night, was proceeding slowly toward the Hampton Roads area under escort by the Coast Guard cutter Cherokee.

Kolbe Condition Remains Same

The condition of Michael Kolbe, 17, of Palenville, who was a passenger in a car involved in the highway death of James W. Abbott, 61, of Saugerties last Saturday, remains unchanged today at Benedictine Hospital.

Hospital authorities termed his condition as guarded and serious.

Kolbe was a passenger in a car operated by Douglas B. Freese, 17, of Saugerties, which according to state police, was in collision with the Abbott vehicle on Route 32 near the Fawn Road in Quarryville. Troopers John F. Salters and Donald Cole reported Kolbe suffered severe lacerations of the head, a possible concussion and multiple lacerations and contusions.

Freese, issued a summons as an unlicensed operator, because his license does not permit him to drive at night, paid a $10 fine Wednesday when he appeared before Town Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers.

Kolbe was one of four Saugerties area youths injured February 4 in another highway mishap when the car in which he was a passenger turned over several times after leaving the Mt. Marion Road. Kolbe was discharged at that time, a few days after the accident.

Rocket Destroyed For Veering Off Course, Army Says

POINT MUGU, Calif. (AP)—The Army says a Nike-Zeus antimissile rocket was destroyed on purpose because it veered off course after launcing.

The firing here Thursday was planned as a test of the rocket's key third stage—the one designed to seek out and destroy enemy ggg etaoin shrdlu cmfwyp mfww missiles in space.

An Army spokesman declined to say whether the unsuccessful test would delay two forthcoming tests—the planned nuclear blasts in the Pacific next month and the Kwajalein Island Nike-Zeus tests planned for later in the spring.

Boy, Dad Burned

CASTLETON, N.Y. (AP)—A 2-year-old boy was burned critically and his father suffered serious burns today in an early-morning fire that ate through their four-room house.

Howard Hutchings Jr., 21, and his son Brian were taken to Memorial Hospital in Albany. Mrs. Hutchings, also 21, escaped with singed hair.

Hutchings rescued the boy from a flaming crib, while Mrs. Hutchings ran for help.

Fire Chief Gustave Bittner said he believed a defective heater in the living room had caused the fire.

Enlists in Navy

Two young men from Sullivan and Columbia Counties enlisted in the regular Navy Wednesday. They are: William C. Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kelly of 281 West Lake Street, Liberty, and Theodore R. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Taylor of Berkshire Turkey Farm, Craryville. They were immediately transferred to the U. S. Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill. for 10 weeks of recruit training. Upon completion of training they will be granted 14 days recruit leave to rturn home and visit their parents. Both men enlisted at the Navy Recruiting Station, Kingston.

the proposed project." In voting for the resolution, the aldermen thereby gave initial approval of the amount mentioned.

Also emphasized is that "filing of the application is hereby approved," and "the mayor is hereby authorized and directed to execute and file such application with the Housing and Home Finance Agency to provide such additional information and furnish such documents as may be required by the administrator and to act as the authorized representative of the City of Kingston."

Advance Requested

Sass in his statement today also notes that with the application "is also the request for funds to accomplish this planning survey. It was recommended by Raymond & May (city planning consultants) "that this would require the above stated amount. Since we have approved their figure, we have now requested an advance of $109,913 from the federal government."

This amount, he said, "will appear in the total cost of the project, if the finished plan is approved by the local government." It "actually amounts to an eighth of the cost of the project. However, in the event the plan is rejected by the city, this planning phase will not cost the city anything."

Long Recess on Matter

Sass notes approval of "their figure" meaning Raymond & May Associates apparently, and this took some doing in a long recess at Tuesday nights meeting before majority party members approved the sum for which formal application is expected to be made soon.

Procedure in dealing with urban renewal, all along, has been at first to approve earmarked sums in the "to get" or "apply for" phase, then to make formal application, and finally to vote to accept the sums and authorize expenditure. The aldermen virtually authorize the sums involved in their initial vote on the applicatioin. Final approval deals mainly with acceptance.

Formal application for the $94,350 earmarked for the downtown "Broadway East" project was made in September, 1961. Final action on it was taken recently. Majority party members, in the long recess Tuesday asked explanation of the fact that the survey and planning sum was higher for the uptown project, and were told that salary money is involved.

Mayor John J. Schwenk, in his letter to the aldermen on the proposal, noted that a resolution dealing with it was "requesting from the Housing and Home Finance Agency the financial assistance available under the Title 1 program to enable the city to proceed with the planning and undertaking of the uptown urban renewal project."

Heavy Agenda, Long Caucus Drag Out Supervisor Meeting

Numerous routine matters were discussed by the Board of Supervisors at its March meeting Thursday night when a new procedure was put into effect by Chairman Jess McHugh (R), Shawangunk.

The session was called to order promptly at 8 p. m. and the agenda progressed to the point of "resolutions" when a recess was taken to permit caucuses to be held.

Republican members caucused for a short time but the Democratic members were still in caucus at 11 p. m. when Chairman McHugh pounded the gavel and called for resumption of the session. The minority party members joined the meeting shortly after 11 o'clock.

It was later suggested that in the future the recess be called for a specific time, a half hour or hour, for caucuses and then resume.

Ask Dog Quarantine

The Izaak Walton League, Ellenville Chapter, noted the killing of deer by dogs and asked that a "quarantine" be put on dogs for a five month period while young deer were unable to care for themselves. This would prevent dogs from running in the woods during that time. It was referred to the Committee on Game Propagation. A letter was read from the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs thanking the board for funds for propogation of game and other cooperation.

Sale of $1,980,000 in bonds was authorized. This is the balance of a $2,280,000 bond issue authorized in 1955 for highway-bridge work. All but $1,980,000 of the bond issue authorized was provided by issuance of tax anticipation notes and they have been paid. The legal time has now expired when tax anticipation notes can be used and it becomes necessary to sell the remainder of the authorized bond issue.

Wants to Settle Claims

Town of Rochester sent a communication asking that action be taken to allow the town to settle claims dating back to 1955, 1956, 1957, for 75 per cent of the amount of claims. In those years certain highway obligations not authorized were contracted and the town now seeks to settle the claims, amounting to $7,250.28 for the sum of $5,437.79. The board must consent, public hearings must be held, and a local law adopted to permit settlement.

A communication was received requesting that sick leave accumulated remain in effect and be credited at time of retirement. It was pointed out that many county employes do not use their sick leave and accumulate up to 120 days over a period of time, and this is lost on retirement. Others, less conscientious, use up their sick leave while the more conscientious ones never use it and lose it when they retire. The matter was referred to Public Health Committee.

A request was received that the Fire Co-ordinator and deputy fire co-ordinator be included under Workmen's Compensation This was referred to Committee on Insurance.

Civil Defense requested $2,939.05 for three "base stations" in the court house headquarters. This will be reimbursable and will place the county in line for additional CD assistance. Filed.

A resolution by Supervisor Majestic (D), Gardiner, that the board go on record that "strong measures" should be taken to protect New York State Dairymen against loss of fluid milk market in the state. This was brought on by announcement of the closing of the creamery at New Paltz and transfer to New Jersey of that business. Connecticut has already taken steps to protect its dairy farmers against similar threats in its state. Unanimously adopted.

The board voted to re-advertise for bids for printing the proceedings. No bids were received at the last letting. New bids will be received to March 16 at 4:30 p. m. when they will be opened.

$11,505 on Tax Sale

A report on the tax sale of county owned property held in February was given. A total of $11,505 will be realized.

Consideration of additional Infirmary facilities was recommended by the Department of Social Welfare in a communication and report on an inspection at the County Home and Infirmary, New Paltz, on January 4.

The report noted that the New Paltz as well as the Kingston Infirmary was filled to capacity.

Clifford P. Tallcott, area director, Department of Social Welfare, commended the board for completion of matters recommended at a recent inspection. All of the matters have been attended to or are in progress, the report stated.

In regard to inadequate bathroom facilities at New Paltz, the report states the "building does not lend itself structurally to major renovation" and the report suggests that consideration be given future planning and expansion of infirmary facilities both in New Paltz and Kingston.

Commended for Care

The report concludes, "we appreciate the prompt attention given to recommendations and would like to commend the county officials and the staff at the home and infirmary for providing a high standard of care for the patients and residents."

Supervisor Clarence C. Raichle, (R), 12th ward, chairman of the Industrial Development Committee submitted a report. The report states the committee will publish a "Fact Book" with facts on past, present and future of Ulster County. Sixteeen phases will be included in the report.

Members of the committee will be assigned and become responsible for a portion of the 16 phases. Town Supervisors will be mailed a form "Available Industrial Land" which will make that fact available to the committee. Plans to assist in holding and in getting new industry in the county will be named.

Has Criticism

Surprise that the 1962 budget for Mental Health had been cut was expressed by Edward S. Haswell, community mental health representative, State Department of Mental Hygiene, in a communication to the board. He noted that at first there was "progressive and creative planning" by the Community Health Services but later "I was concerned about the community's tendency to 'leave well enough alone.'" He commented on the "small staff" of the Mental Health Clinic. He commended the county for improvements at the Tumor Clinic where the third floor had been remodeled, and on provision in the budget for a full time psychiatrist as director. Elimination of other items from the budget, however, he criticized, as well as failure to make "adequate salary raises for present professional personnel.

A resolution was adopted suggesting that the effective date of transitional assessment on state forest lands be extended by administrative or legislative action from 1962 to 1964, to allow local assessors more time to inspect lands and ascertain their true value. This is partially true in the Catskill Forest Preserve where some lands are cut over land, others virgin timber.

The resolution calls for a copy of the measure going to the Department of Equalization and Assessment; to Senator E. Ogden Bush and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson.

A resolution was adopted authorizing payment of $1,000 to the Ulster County Historical Society for the year 1962.

Various matters pertaining to erroneous assessments were also before the board.

Just prior to closing Minority Leader John J. Gaffney, (D), Lloyd, inquired whether Kingston Mayor John J. Schwenk had been invited to appear before the board and tell about his proposed method of street repairs, and how it might be applied to county roads. He said a request had been made at the last meeting to that effect.

Chairman McHugh said it had been referred to the Highway Committee.

Ex-Priest Defends Church

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An ex-priest, whose wife contends church officials forced into a monastery against his will, denies the church had anything to do with his leaving.

Walter A. Ryan, 57, object of a search since his wife made her charges in a $2.3-million suit against the Roman Catholic Church, termed his wife's charges ridiculous and an unfair reflection upon the Catholic Church.

He said he came to California seven years ago because of a drinking problem which he has since conquered, and has not left the state since.

Red Cross Helps After Crash of Astrojet in Bay

When the American Airline Astrojet crashed into Jamaica Bay near New York City recently, the American Red Cross was there within half an hour to render whatever assistance possible to the crews making heroic efforts to extricate identifiable materials from the wreckage.

Action taken is quoted in a letter received today from the office of public information of the American Red Cross in Greater New York. The letter was sent, at the request of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross from the office of Eugene N. S. Girard, director of public information.

His letter states: Within half an hour after the crash hundreds of Red Cross volunteers were alerted for duty and more than 50 were called into action. Two mobile canteens served at the crash site throughout the day and night. Over 1060 gallons of coffee and nearly 1000 sandwiches were served to rescue workers.

At Bellevue Hospital, at the request of officials there, a canteen was set up at 4 p. m. on the afternoon of the crash to serve next-of-kin and identification experts. 118 gallons of coffee and nearly 600 sandwiches were served. (There was no charge for any of the food or other services.)

Red Cross volunteer nurses were on duty at Bellevue morgue to assist families of victims as they waited for positive identification. Nurses remained on duty until 6 p. m., Saturday afternoon, March 3.

It is hoped this information will prove helpful in explaining Red Cross disaster relief services following the tragic air crash at Idlewild, Director Girard said.

Not Angry

sole responsibility of the Mayor and his $4,750 administrative assistant. For $14,750 a year we in this City are getting very little. Can't either of these men make one decision that is in the interest of the people. If Mayor Schwenk wants to be the best Mayor Kingston has ever had he must start to think of the people and their needs and not how he can become a great man.

Kaye's Job to Slap Wrist

"When I am on the Council floor I will debate the issues as they arise. I will do what I feel is in the interest of the fifth ward and the people of the City of Kingston. When I require a slap on the wrist or a reprimand, it is Mr. Kaye's job to do it, and do it swiftly. If he did not, we would seldom achieve any results. If Mr. Kaye believed that I was out of line, he was justified in telling me so.

"Instead of worrying about trivial things, let's work on getting good bus service and better streets. These are the important things and not me as an individual."

No Surprise, This

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba's policy makers put Prime Minister Fidel Castro at the top of a list of 25 persons announced today as the directorate for the nation's Integrated Revolutionary Organization. This body, known as the ORI, is considered the cornerstone for the projected new single Cuban political party—the United party of the Socialist Revolution.

Raul Castro, the armed forces minister and brother of Fidel, was No. 2 man on the list, followed by the minister of industries, Ernesto Guevara, and President Osvaldo Dorticos.

Ask Merger Approval

Ships Near Port With Rescued 34

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A luxury ship and a Navy destroyer neared port today with 34 crewmen of the tanker Gem who were rescued on the stormy Atlantic after their vessel snapped in two.

Only one man aboard the Liberian tanker—her first officer—was lost when she broke apart in the pounding seas Thursday 110 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C.

Twenty-seven crewmen were removed from the wallowing stern of the Gem by the destroyer Stribling. Seven others, including the captain, were plucked from the bow by the luxury cruise ship, Victoria.

The Stribling and an accompanying destroyer, the Huntington, were expected to put into Mayport, Fla., about noon today. Sometime later in the day the Victoria was expected to reach New York.

The Coast Guard buoy tender Jonquil was due to take the Gem's stern section in tow, heading for an as yet undisclosed port. No one was aboard the derelict, which the Coast Guard pronounced a menace to navigation.

The Stribling reported all those she saved were in good condition.

Other ships, too, were endangered by the heavy seas off the Virginia and North Carolina coasts.

The Navy cruiser Northampton was standing by the Chinese ship Chun Lee, which reported it was drifting east of Cape Hatteras with its hold flooded and five of her crew injured. A tug was en route to the scene.

The Chesapeake Lightship, damaged Wednesday night, was proceeding slowly toward the Hampton Roads area under escort by the Coast Guard cutter Cherokee.

Kolbe Condition Remains Same

The condition of Michael Kolbe, 17, of Palenville, who was a passenger in a car involved in the highway death of James W. Abbott, 61, of Saugerties last Saturday, remains unchanged today at Benedictine Hospital.

Hospital authorities termed his condition as guarded and serious.

Kolbe was a passenger in a car operated by Douglas B. Freese, 17, of Saugerties, which according to state police, was in collision with the Abbott vehicle on Route 32 near the Fawn Road in Quarryville. Troopers John F. Salters and Donald Cole reported Kolbe suffered severe lacerations of the head, a possible concussion and multiple lacerations and contusions.

Freese, issued a summons as an unlicensed operator, because his license does not permit him to drive at night, paid a $10 fine Wednesday when he appeared before Town Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers.

Kolbe was one of four Saugerties area youths injured February 4 in another highway mishap when the car in which he was a passenger turned over several times after leaving the Mt. Marion Road. Kolbe was discharged at that time, a few days after the accident.

Rocket Destroyed For Veering Off Course, Army Says

POINT MUGU, Calif. (AP)—The Army says a Nike-Zeus antimissile rocket was destroyed on purpose because it veered off course after launching.

The firing here Thursday was planned as a test of the rocket's key third stage—the one designed to seek out and destroy enemy ggg etaoin shrdlu cmfwyp mfww missiles in space.

An Army spokesman declined to say whether the unsuccessful test would delay two forthcoming tests —the planned nuclear blasts in the Pacific next month and the Kwajalein Island Nike-Zeus tests planned for later in the spring.

Boy, Dad Burned

CASTLETON, N.Y. (AP)—A 2-year-old boy was burned critically and his father suffered serious burns today in an early-morning fire that ate through their four-room house.

Howard Hutchings Jr., 21, and his son Brian were taken to Memorial Hospital in Albany. Mrs. Hutchings, also 21, escaped with singed hair.

Hutchings rescued the boy from a flaming crib, while Mrs. Hutchings ran for help.

Fire Chief Gustave Bittner said he believed a defective heater in the living room had caused the fire.

Hutchings is employed by a printing company in East Greenbush.

the proposed project." In voting for the resolution, the aldermen thereby gave initial approval of the amount mentioned.

Also emphasized is that "filing of the application is hereby approved," and "the mayor is hereby authorized and directed to execute and file such application with the Housing and Home Finance Agency to provide such additional information and furnish such documents as may be required by the administrator and to act as the authorized representative of the City of Kingston."

Advance Requested

Sass in his statement today also notes that with the application "is also the request for funds to accomplish this planning survey. It was recommended by Raymond & May (city planning consultants) "that this would require the above stated amount. Since we have approved their figure, we have now requested an advance of $109,913 from the federal government."

This amount, he said, "will appear in the total cost of the project, if the finished plan is approved by the local government." It "actually amounts to an eighth of the cost of the project. However, in the event the plan is rejected by the city, this planning phase will not cost the city anything."

Long Recess on Matter

Sass notes approval of "their figure" meaning Raymond & May Associates apparently, and this took some doing in a long recess at Tuesday nights meeting before majority party members approved the sum for which formal application is expected to be made soon.

Procedure in dealing with urban renewal, all along, has been at first to approve earmarked sums in the "to get" or "apply for" phase, then to make formal application, and finally to vote to accept the sums and authorize expenditure. The aldermen virtually authorize the sums involved in their initial vote on the applicatioin. Final approval deals mainly with acceptance.

Formal application for the $94,350 earmarked for the downtown "Broadway East" project was made in September, 1961. Final action on it was taken recently. Majority party members, in the long recess Tuesday asked explanation of the fact that the survey and planning sum was higher for the uptown project, and were told that salary money is involved.

Mayor John J. Schwenk, in his letter to the aldermen on the proposal, noted that a resolution dealing with it was "requesting from the Housing and Home Finance Agency the financial assistance available under the Title 1 program to enable the city to proceed with the planning and undertaking of the uptown urban renewal project."

Heavy Agenda, Long Caucus Drag Out Supervisor Meeting

Numerous routine matters were discussed by the Board of Supervisors at its March meeting Thursday night when a new procedure was put into effect by Chairman Jess McHugh (R), Shawangunk.

The session was called to order promptly at 8 p. m. and the agenda progressed to the point of "resolutions" when a recess was taken to permit caucuses to be held.

Republican members caucused for a short time but the Democratic members were still in caucus at 11 p. m. when Chairman McHugh pounded the gavel and called for resumption of the session. The minority party members joined the meeting shortly after 11 o'clock.

It was later suggested that in the future the recess be called for a specific time, a half hour or hour, for caucuses and then resume.

Ask Dog Quarantine

The Izaak Walton League, Ellenville Chapter, noted the killing of deer by dogs and asked that a "quarantine" be put on dogs for a five month period while young deer were unable to care for themselves. This would prevent dogs from running in the woods during that time. It was referred to the Committee on Game Propagation. A letter was read from the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs thanking the board for funds for propogation of game and other cooperation.

Sale of $1,980,000 in bonds was authorized. This is the balance of a $2,280,000 bond issue authorized in 1955 for highway-bridge work. All but $1,980,000 of the bond issue authorized was provided by issuance of tax anticipation notes and they have been paid. The legal time has now expired when tax anticipation notes can be used and it becomes necessary to sell the remainder of the authorized bond issue.

Wants to Settle Claims

Town of Rochester sent a communication asking that action be taken to allow the town to settle claims dating back to 1955, 1956, 1957, for 75 per cent of the amount of claims. In those years certain highway obligations not authorized were contracted and the town now seeks to settle the claims, amounting to $7,250.28 for the sum of $5,437.79. The board must consent, public hearings must be held, and a local law adopted to permit settlement.

A communication was received requesting that sick leave accumulated remain in effect and be credited at time of retirement. It was pointed out that many county employes do not use their sick leave and accumulate up to 120 days over a period of time, and this is lost on retirement. Others, less conscientious, use up their sick leave while the more conscientious ones never use it and lose it when they retire. The matter was referred to Public Health Committee.

A request was received that the Fire Co-ordinator and deputy fire co-ordinator be included under Workmen's Compensation. This was referred to Committee on Insurance.

Civil Defense requested $2,939.05 for three "base stations" in the court house headquarters. This will be reimbursable and will place the county in line for additional CD assistance. Filed.

A resolution by Supervisor Majestic (D), Gardiner, that the board go on record that "strong measures" should be taken to protect New York State Dairymen against loss of fluid milk market in the state. This was brought on by announcement of the closing of the creamery at New Paltz and transfer to New Jersey of that business. Connecticut has already taken steps to protect its dairy farmers against similar threats in its state. Unanimously adopted.

The board voted to re-advertise for bids for printing the proceedings. No bids were received at the last letting. New bids will be received to March 16 at 4:30 p. m. when they will be opened.

$11,505 on Tax Sale

A report on the tax sale of county owned property held in February was given. A total of $11,505 will be realized.

Consideration of additional Infirmary facilities was recommended by the Department of Social Welfare in a communication and report on an inspection at the County Home and Infirmary, New Paltz, on January 4.

The report noted that the New Paltz as well as the Kingston Infirmary was filled to capacity.

Clifford P. Tallcott, area director, Department of Social Welfare, commended the board for completion of matters recommended at a recent inspection. All of the matters have been attended to or are in progress, the report stated.

In regard to inadequate bathroom facilities at New Paltz, the report states the "building does not lend itself structurally to major renovation" and the report suggests that consideration be given future planning and expansion of infirmary facilities both in New Paltz and Kingston.

Commended for Care

The report concludes, "we appreciate the prompt attention given to recommendations and would like to commend the county officials and the staff at the home and infirmary for providing a high standard of care for the patients and residents."

Supervisor Clarence C. Raichle, (R), 12th ward, chairman of the Industrial Development Committee submitted a report. The report states the committee will publish a "Fact Book" with facts on past, present and future of Ulster County. Sixteeen phases will be included in the report.

Members of the committee will be assigned and become responsible for a portion of the 16 phases. Town Supervisors will be mailed a form "Available Industrial Land" which will make that fact available to the committee. Plans to assist in holding and in getting new industry in the county will be named.

Has Criticism

Surprise that the 1962 budget for Mental Health had been cut was expressed by Edward S. Haswell, community mental health representative, State Department of Mental Hygiene, in a communication to the board. He noted that at first there was "progressive and creative planning" by the Community Health Services but later "I was concerned about the community's tendency to 'leave well enough alone.'" He commented on the "small staff" of the Mental Health Clinic. He commended the county for improvements at the Tumor Clinic where the third floor had been remodeled, and on provision in the budget for a full time psychiatrist as director. Elimination of other items from the budget, however, he criticized, as well as failure to make "adequate salary raises for present professional personnel.

A resolution was adopted suggesting that the effective date of transitional assessment on state forest lands be extended by administrative or legislative action from 1962 to 1964, to allow local assessors more time to inspect lands and ascertain their true value. This is partially true in the Catskill Forest Preserve where some lands are cut over land, others virgin timber.

The resolution calls for a copy of the measure going to the Department of Equalization and Assessment; to Senator E. Ogden Bush and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson.

A resolution was adopted authorizing payment of $1,000 to the Ulster County Historical Society for the year 1962.

Various matters pertaining to erroneous assessments were also before the board.

Just prior to closing Minority Leader John J. Gaffney, (D), Lloyd, inquired whether Kingston Mayor John J. Schwenk had been invited to appear before the board and tell about his proposed method of street repairs, and how it might be applied to county roads. He said a request had been made at the last meeting to that effect.

Chairman McHugh said it had been referred to the Highway Committee.

Ex-Priest Defends Church

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An ex-priest, whose wife contends church officials forced into a monastery against his will, denies the church had anything to do with his leaving.

Walter A. Ryan, 57, object of a search since his wife made her charges in a $2.3-million suit against the Roman Catholic Church, termed his wife's charges ridiculous and an unfair reflection upon the Catholic Church.

He said he came to California seven years ago because of a drinking problem which he has since conquered, and has not left the state since.

Red Cross Helps After Crash of Astrojet in Bay

When the American Airline Astrojet crashed into Jamaica Bay near New York City recently, the American Red Cross was there within half an hour to render whatever assistance possible to the crews making heroic efforts to extricate identifiable materials from the wreckage.

Action taken is quoted in a letter received today from the office of public information of the American Red Cross in Greater New York. The letter was sent, at the request of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross from the office of Eugene N. S. Girard, director of public information.

His letter states: Within half an hour after the crash hundreds of Red Cross volunteers were alerted for duty and more than 50 were called into action. Two mobile canteens served at the crash site throughout the day and night. Over 1060 gallons of coffee and nearly 1000 sandwiches were served to rescue workers.

At Bellevue Hospital, at the request of officials there, a canteen was set up at 4 p. m. on the afternoon of the crash to serve next-of-kin and identification experts. 118 gallons of coffee and nearly 600 sandwiches were served. (There was no charge for any of the food or other services.)

Red Cross volunteer nurses were on duty at Bellevue morgue to assist families of victims as they waited for positive identification. Nurses remained on duty until 6 p. m., Saturday afternoon, March 3.

It is hoped this information will prove helpful in explaining Red Cross disaster relief services following the tragic air crash at Idlewild, Director Girard said.

Not Angry

sole responsibility of the Mayor and his $4,750 administrative assistant. For $14,750 a year we in this City are getting very little. Can't either of these men make one decision that is in the interest of the people. If Mayor Schwenk wants to be the best Mayor Kingston has ever had he must start to think of the people and their needs and not how he can become a great man.

Kaye's Job to Slap Wrist

"When I am on the Council floor I will debate the issues as they arise. I will do what I feel is in the interest of the fifth ward and the people of the City of Kingston. When I require a slap on the wrist or a reprimand, it is Mr. Kaye's job to do it, and do it swiftly. If he did not, we would seldom achieve any results. If Mr. Kaye believed that I was out of line, he was justified in telling me so.

"Instead of worrying about trivial things, let's work on getting good bus service and better streets. These are the important things and not me as an individual."

No Surprise, This

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba's policy makers put Prime Minister Fidel Castro at the top of a list of 25 persons announced today as the directorate for the nation's Integrated Revolutionary Organization. This body, known as the ORI, is considered the cornerstone for the projected new single Cuban political party—the United party of the Socialist Revolution.

Raul Castro, the armed forces minister and brother of Fidel, was No. 2 man on the list, followed by the minister of industries, Ernesto Guevara, and President Osvaldo Dorticos.

Ask Merger Approval

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve merger of the two railroads.

The application, announced here, said "three competitively balanced rail systems" are being developed in the East. It said the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Norfolk and the Western railways are creating two such systems, the PRR and NYC the third.

Injured While Coasting

Paul Brayman, 15 of 24 South Clinton Avenue was reported injured when his sled struck a stone in the Wiltwyck Cemetery area Thursday. A police report at 9:16 p. m. said he was treated at the Benedictine Hospital for a head injury.

List Equalization Rates for 2 Towns, Rosendale Village

Tentative state equalization rates based on 1961 assessment rolls have been established for the Village of Rosendale and the Towns of New Paltz and Ulster, the State Board of Equalization and Assessment reported this week.

Tentative rate for Rosendale is 68, one point under last year.

Rates for New Paltz, 13 and Ulster 15, also are one point under last year's final rates.

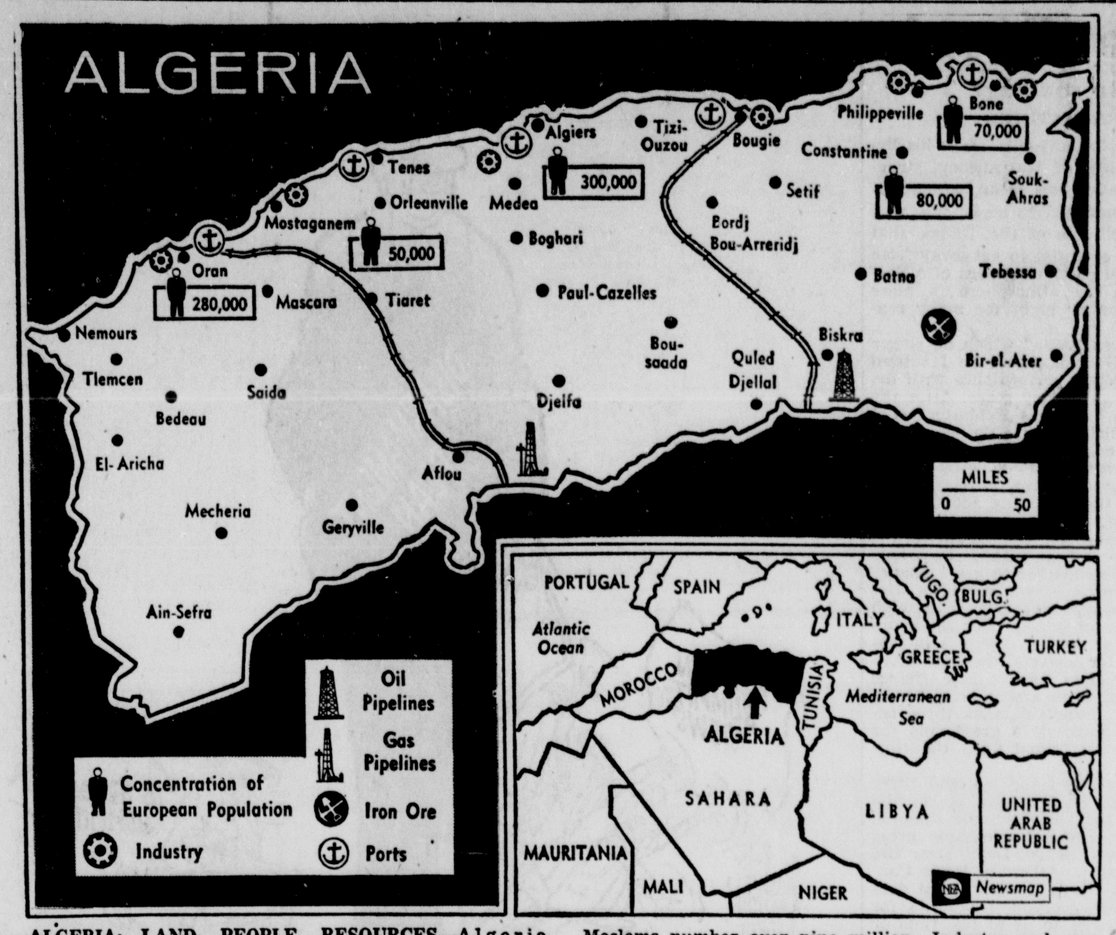
Proposed rates in 57 villages and 132 townships reported this week by the state are less than last year's final rates.

Hearings on the rates for these localities will be conducted by the Equalization Board at 2 p. m. Tuesday, March 13 at its offices, 155 Washington Avenue, Albany.

These tentative rates have been established on the basis of the average of real property price levels in these localities on January 1, 1957 and January 1, 1959. This is a change from the basis used in establishing rates for 1960 assessment rolls. The basis used at that time was the average of 1952 and 1957 price level data with triple weight given to the 1957 market level.

The rates are the ratio between the assessed value of local real property and its actual or full value as determined by the state.

If a locality's state equalization rate is 50, then its assessed valuation represents one half or 50 per cent of its full valuation of real property. When market values rise in a community but assessments do not, the rates drop. Lower rates usually mean an increased share of school taxes if more than one unit of government are in the same school district.



ALGERIA: LAND, PEOPLE, RESOURCES—Algeria stretches for 650 miles along the Mediterranean Sea between Morocco and Tunisia. Annexed by France in 1842, it has been the scene of blood and death during a 7½-year-long revolt by Arab nationalists. As Newsmap shows, more than half of the one million Europeans, mostly born in Algeria, live in the five largest cities. Moslems number over nine million. Industry and commerce, as well as population, are largely concentrated in the coastal regions. Algeria extends inland about 350 miles. Beyond are France's Saharan Departments, where extensive oil deposits are being developed. Indications are that the imminent peace agreement between France and Algeria will include sharing of this valuable resource.

Trustees Approve Buffalo U Going To State System

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An expanded program of public higher education in New York State, through the merger of the University of Buffalo into the State University system, was one step nearer reality today.

The Board of Trustees of the State University Thursday approved the merger, effective Sept. 1.

The merger will give strength to the State University's master plan to provide more liberal arts and graduate programs. The state system now is comprised largely of teacher-training and other specialized schools.

The University of Buffalo, in addition to an extensive undergraduate program, has graduate schools of dentistry, pharmacy, law and medicine.

Frank C. Moore, chairman of the board of the State University, said all State University facilities in the Buffalo area would be "dedicated to high quality performance not only instructional programs but in research as well..."

The State University will take over $100 million in property and assets of the University of Buffalo and most of its $27-million endowment.

The University of Buffalo, which has an enrollment of about 11,000 students, would replace the State University College at Buffalo, formerly a teachers' college, as the largest unit of the state system. The State University College has a fulltime enrollment of 3,206. It would not be affected by the merger.

The State University's graduate program now includes two medical schools and a school of public administation. Graduate programs in chemistry, physics and thermal sciences and fluid mechanics are to begin in the Fall at the University's Long Island Center.

Move Against Extremists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Methodist Board of Christian Social Concerns here is distributing a packet of materials designed to help local churches understand and counteract pressures of so-called "right-wing extremists." The packet includes the 1961 statement of the church's Council of Bishops saying that "insidious attacks upon the church and church leaders under the guise of patriotism and anti-communism by self-appointed, irresponsible persons and groups . . . are a device of tyranny and terror to secure conformity and stifle freedom of thought and speech."

Law Never Enforced

NEW YORK (AP)—A campaign to repeal a 50-year-old state law that forbids an actor to portray the Deity on stage has been started by producer Arthur Cantor. "It is completely archaic," says Cantor. The statute, which makes such performance a misdemeanor punishable by fine, has never been enforced although such past successes as "Green Pastures," "J. B." and "Dear Judas" were apparent violations. Cantor is currently co-sponsor of "Gideon," in which Fredric March appears as Jehovah.

Cadillac

It will still be admired in 1970!
A Cadillac at curbside has a way with passers-by.
And a Cadillac anywhere has the equally rare gift of keeping its winning charms as the years and the miles ride by.
In fact, Cadillacs of almost a decade's vintage still command open respect and admiration wherever they appear.
The reasons for this remarkable circumstance are as sound as they are numerous.
First, there is the way Cadillacs are styled. The Cadillac look is the look of leadership—and the car remains young and vital in appearance far beyond any normal expectations.
Second, there is the way Cadillacs are engineered. The car's performance is always a lengthy step ahead of its contemporaries, and so continues to deliver a full measure of driving pleasure.
Third, there is the way Cadillacs are built. Craftsmanship is so painstaking that the car stays sound and safe and dependable over an unusual span of time.
And fourth, there is the fact that a Cadillac, regardless of age or previous service, is still a Cadillac. And it is, by definition, a magnificent motor car.
The significance should be obvious. For value when you buy—and for value when you sell—nothing can take the place of the "car of cars".

CASH, CARRYINGS-ON

The average consumer, buying a car, a refrigerator, a TV set, groceries and many another item, undoubtedly can benefit from having public watchdogs on guard in his behalf, whether he buys on credit or for cash.

The nation today is so awash with alluring products, offered on the most attractive terms, that the consumer can understandably lose his way in trying to figure out what is best for him. Occasionally he may encounter shoddy goods, deliberate misrepresentation, deceptive credit arrangements.

Inquiries at the federal level have been delving into the consumer's problems in this regard. One concerns proper labeling and packaging of foodstuffs and other household materials.

In the credit field, Sen. Paul Douglas, Illinois Democrat, is proposing what he calls his "Truth in Lending Act," its aim being to compel all purveyors of credit to state clearly the dollar cost of their finance charges, and the simple annual interest rate this represents.

Douglas argues that lenders too often state finance costs in confusing or incomplete fashion, and that borowers hence cannot sensibly "shop for credit" or know fairly what they are being charged.

Right now his proposal is stymied in a Senate subcommittee with little early prospect of action. Consumers have not risen in wide support. Nor has all opposition come from lenders who presumably would be most affected.

Prof. Robert W. Johnson, a business administration specialist at Michigan State University, says the Douglas proposal would simply lead the unscrupulous lender to conceal his finance charge in the price of the product.

Failing this, the tricky credit dealer can get around the Douglas plan, says Johnson, by adding to collection charges, commissions, cost of renewals, extensions and delinquencies.

The professor further suggests that the whole realm of consumer credit has today become so complex that even Douglas' call for simple statments of credit cost would not always produce the results he seeks.

But this should hardly be news. Numerous credit specialists have disagreed before the Douglas committee on the size of finance charges and interest rates in specific examples.

Douglas says people are sharper at shopping for goods than for credit, and wouldn't be fooled by padded prices. Johnson says there's no reason to believe this is so.

It is hard to see where this leaves the consumer. For the weight of the discussion indicates that even that statistical wizard, Defense Secretary McNamara, might have trouble braving the market-place today.

The Western powers are said to be ready to accept a looser control system on a nuclear test ban. They'll no longer insist on being told about it every time Khrushchev sneezes.

DEATH IN PERSPECTIVE

No words can take away any of the tragedy that was visited upon 95 human beings, not to mention their families and loved ones, in the crash of a jetliner in swampy waters within view of New York's skyscrapers. It was real and it was horrifying.

But after the first shock begins to dim, words must be used to rationalize the tragedy and place it in its proper perspective.

This is the first crash of a 707 in three years of commercial flying. Such planes have totalled literally billions of passenger miles in that time. The very rarity of airplane crashes is one reason why the news is told in large headlines.

Spectacular as it is, the accident pales in comparison with the day in and day out slaughter on our highways—slaughter that is for the most part preventable. Were only 95 people killed in automobiles on any given weekend, there would be rejoicing in the streets.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

AN OPERA MATINEE

It is essential even for one who earns his living watching the doings of Khrushchev, struggling over what the inventions mean, which politician is really what one thinks he is and why another should believe some of the things that some do believe—it is essential to get away from it all and my way is to go to the opera of a Saturday afternoon when the atmosphere is more musical than on a Monday night for many reasons.

Last Saturday it was "Aida" which no singer or conductor can spoil or improve. So I settled down to a pleasant enough performance with the best lighting I have seen on any stage. After the first act, I dropped into Francis Robinson's cubby-hole of an office which I like to do because he is also a man of extremely wide culture and there is always good conversation which grows rarer these days as we limit ourselves either to the escapism of gossip or the argufying about things we know nothing about.

So last Saturday afternoon, Roland Hayes, the singer, also dropped in and we talked about how hard it is for a young conductor to get a chance to conduct and if perhaps it would not be wise for them to get their apprenticeships with high school orchestras, some of which, over the country, are quite good. For doctors, there is internship and a residency; for lawyers, there is clerkship. But young conductors have a rare chance to lead an orchestra or even a section of one. I am told that Leonard Bernstein takes three assistants a year which must do a great deal for young conductors. So we talked until the time came for Act. II.

Then we all foregathered for tea and there was Georgie Jessel and he reminded me of the very distant days of the Gus Edwards show in vaudeville when many who later became great stars sang, "School Days, School Days, Dear Old Golden Rule Days." And we talked of Eddie Cantor, a childhood friend, who has been ill but does not take it lightly, which everyone should do, for ills of the flesh must come to us at one time or another and one either is frightened by them or says his prayers and leaves the rest to God.

And I remembered how one day when I was in the hospital with what looked like a terminal thing and Charlie Coburn, the actor, had a nurse roll him into my room to have a visit and Charlie asked me not to spread it that he was in the hospital because then nobody would hire him to act. And we had several good laughs together. Charlie lived to a good ripe age and his passing was regretted but I often see him on the Late Show or even the Late Late Show since I have become addicted to such shenanigans at bed-time.

Then there was Act III to hear and Bill Ormerod, who should be addressed as Sir Berkeley, he being a British knight for whatever virtues or sins one becomes such, and I climbed some stairs, which I shoul not do, to hear Francis Robinson speak over the radio brilliantly and beautifully about Grace Moore. Robinson originated in Nashville, Tennessee, and is gifted with a speaking voice which reminds me of William Jennings Bryan although he is less resonant. The story he told of Grace Moore was most attractive, as she was.

And I conjured up the days when I could only afford Standing Room to listen to Farrar and Caruso and then it became so difficult to listen to the rest of the afternoon's "Aida." For as Roland Hayes said, it is hard to know where genius will strike and one must be helpful.

And I could not help thinking of youth as I looked into the eyes of Maria Jeritza, of another generation, who when she first sang at the Metropolitan Opera stirred opera lovers as they had not been in some time. She is still beautiful, for natural beauty never fades.

So here an entire afternoon passed and no one said one word about politicians and conniving and the trickeries of life. No wonder musicians have such longevity — they throw off the burdens of time and live in the eternities. Or might it be that all their work requires so much exercise?

Doctor's Letter Can Attest To Diabetic's Job Fitness

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I am an 18-year-old high school graduate with diabetes. I was just turned down for a secretarial job, for which I am qualified, because of my illness. My mother advises me not to mention it next time I fill out an application for employment. Do you think that necessary?

A—Your experience cannot be unique, as a recent survey by the New York Diabetes Assn. indicates that 44 per cent of diabetics conceal their illness, presumably because some 53.2 per cent reported that their condition caused them to be refused employment at least once.

This is a serious reflection on hiring practices that the association plans to attack without delay.

In the meanwhile, I would suggest that you obtain from your doctor a letter stating that your condition is completely controlled and that, in his opinion, you can successfully serve in the capacity for which you seek employment so far as your health is concerned.

If you are then rejected, perhaps you are as well off since the attitude of any organization that follows such hiring practices might be reflected in other unpleasant ways.

Q—Can color blindness be corrected? If so, which vitamins are best to take?

A—Color blindness cannot be corrected. Taking vitamins or seeking any other form of treatment is a waste of money. However, if you are color blind you must be sure to avoid participation in any activity in which color recognition is essential.

For example, driving a motor vehicle where failure to recognize the yellow warning light or the red stop light might end disastrously for yourself and for others. In addition to what injuries you might sustain, you would also be liable to civil and criminal penalties.

Q—My mother has just been told she has scleroderma. I looked it up in a medical book we have in the school library and it says it is a fatal disease. Is this so? And can nothing be done to save her?

A—It is unhappily true that widespread progressive scleroderma is a disease for which we can do very little. But there are disturbances that resemble scleroderma and that pose no threat to life.

For example, the condition called "morphea" is one in which only isolated spots of skin are involved, and these may be nothing more than a nuisance.

Then there is a condition called "scleredema" in which extremities are spared. If your mother suffers from either morphea or scleredema, do not despair of her survival but take her to a skin specialist (dermatologist) who may be able to control the condition with drugs that possess ACTH activity (cortical steroids; corticotropins.)

WASHINGTON (NEA)—One of the standard tricks of the political trade is for individual congressmen to conduct public opinion polls in their respective districts to prove how right they are.

But when the results of such polls produce results exactly opposite to what the national public opinion surveys show, questions are naturally raised on the accuracy of both.

ACCORDING TO RECENT Gallup polls, for instance, 83 per cent of the people think the United Nations is doing a good job and 90 per cent believe that the United States should not give up its membership in the world organization.

Over 75 per cent of the people are reported by the national polls as thinking that President Kennedy is doing a good job, over 70 per cent think the Democrats are better able to deal with the issues now before Congress, and so on.

Results are so one-sided as to be monotonous.

When matched against some of of the regional, state and local polls, however, results come out in sharp conflict.

The easy explanation for this reversal is that a poll conducted in, say, a congressional district that is rock-ribbed reactionary or a state with a long conservative tradition, the answers are bound to come out anti-Kennedy, anti-Democratic, anti-internationalist and right down the line right-wing.

REP. RICHARD L. ROUDEBUSH, R-Ind., has just conducted such a poll in his sixth district of ten rich farm counties extending roughly from the western suburbs of Indianapolis, west to the state line and including Terre Haute.

Indiana has a reputation for being an extremely conservative state although it now has one Democratic senator, Vance Hartke, and four Democratic congressmen out of eleven.

The sixth district is historically Republican although it went Democratic in 1958. Roudebush, a livestock commission man, recaptured it for the GOP in 1960 and is now serving his first term.

Roudebush asked the newspapers in his district to run his poll. Twenty-seven of them cooperated—eight dailies and 19 weeklies, getting 2,000 replies in a district where 162,000 votes were cast in 1960.

The most revealing result of the Roudebush poll—and others like it conducted by congressmen—is the degree of conservative sentiment. This reveals the strength of the right-wing reaction in many parts of the country.

These are the results, showing from 2-1 to better than 9-1 opposition to key Kennedy programs:

- Do you favor the U. S. purchasing $100 million in bonds to help finance the United Nations? No, 85.5 per cent.
- Do you favor federal aid to education? No, 85 per cent.
- Do you favor a postal rate increase? No, 64 per cent.
- Do you favor medical care for the aged through Social Security? No, 83 per cent.
- Do you favor the President's request to raise the federal debt limit over 298 billion? No, 94 per cent.
- Do you favor the President's free trade and lower tariff proposals? No, 67 per cent.
- Do you favor the creation of a Department of Urban Affairs? No, 89 per cent.
- Do you favor foreign aid to Communist nations who have declared themselves independent of the U.S.S.R.? No, 91 per cent.
- Do you favor trade with Red bloc nations? No, 91 per cent.
- Would you grant the President's request for authority and new power to regulate income tax rates and unemployment benefits without Congressional action? No, 95 per cent.

RESULTS OF THIIS KIND are probably obtainable in many districts of the country, so the Roudebush poll may be considered typical of farm belt and grass roots sentiment.

In spite of the President's personal popularity, his combined Republican-Democratic, conservative opposition is still a factor to be reckoned with on specific issues.

Who Was Behind the Delay In Resuming Nuclear Tests?

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Just who was responsible for the six-month delay on the part of the United States before it was announced that nuclear testing above the ground would be resumed? It wasn't the Department of Defense that was the slightest degree to blame. Most of its experts wanted testing resumed.

The mystery has not yet been cleared up. Although the Soviets resumed their tests last September, it was not until President Kennedy's speech a week ago that the world was told that America would resume testing in the atmosphere, but with this qualification — if certain things could be agreed upon with the Soviets at a Geneva conference the testing by America would be defended.

During the last six months, considerable division developed in the inner councils of the White House as to whether resumption of testing was wise.

It is not true, as has been reported in some circles, that a substantial number of the President's advisers were opposed to the resumption of testing in the air. What is true is that a few of the influential advisers put up vehement arguments that did cause the President to hesitate.

Military Sought Task

Most military men have been repeatedly asking for the tests. This was the case, too, under the Eisenhower administration. The military men expected that when the Soviets resumed testing the United States promptly would do so, too.

The biggest single influence against testing is reported to have been that of the U. S. Information Agency, which is said to have argued that it would be harmful from a propaganda standpoint. It was contended, primarily, that world opinion would be mobilized against America.

Unfortunately, the real mistake was that the U. S. I. A. itself had failed to emphasize repeatedly to the whole world, beginning last September, that when the Russians broke their own moratorium, the United States was free to do likewise and should resume testing.

The American position would have been stronger, moreover, if the action of the Soviet Union had been followed by an immediate decision on the part of the Kennedy administration to resume testing as quickly as possible and to make no further announcement as to dates when tests would be held. The same six-month period could have been utilized in advising the world that an overemphasis had been placed on the alleged harm that is supposed to come from testing in the air. It was not until President Kennedy's speech of March 2 that the country was officially advised, in effect, that much of the anti-test propaganda about harmful fallout was spurious.

The question before the American people has become clearcut. Since testing doesn't involve—as the President now says—any more effect than one fiftieth of what occurs in natural radioactivity of everyday life in different parts of this country, then the defense of the United States against a nuclear attack is so important that any propaganda from the Soviet side can readily be refuted, if not ignored.

Scientific advice has by no means been unanimous as to the wisdom of resuming tests. Some scientists have advised the President against resuming tests. Too many scientists, however, have become involved in arguments dealing with political and ideological matters. All that the scientists really should have been telling the American government is what the value of the tests could be in building the American deterrent program against the Soviet Union. It isn't the province of scientists to take sides as to what is or is not good propaganda.

The Atomic Energy Commission has been tending more and more to the idea that tests are absolutely imperative. It is reported that, among the President's advisers, CIA Chief McCone and Attorney General Kennedy are on that side, too.

What is feared, however, is that the President, torn by conflicting views among his intimate advisers, may give too much weight even now in the propaganda aspect and may go along finally with a plan for limited tests only. This will not please the experts on the military side who feel confident they know what is absolutely necessary for America to do from a defense standpoint in the nuclear field. They insist that more knowledge must be obtained from new tests in order to overcome what the Soviet Union has learned in her recent experiments.

So what's happening in the discussions inside the White House is an all-important phase of the fateful controversy over the resumption of nuclear tests.

AS PEGLER SE ES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Since the Saturday Evening Post broke with its old profession of conservative character a few months ago there has been speculation among journalists whether the new SEP could retrieve its old prestige and a measure of its ancient success. Resisting prolonged propaganda I refused to believe that the Post had any intention to desist from the "liberal" revolution which it had abetted for years. As a traditionalist I must say that I detect in the revised form changes only of type and make-up. The editorial quality of this jumbled publication seems to me to confirm its latter-day political addictions, which are far to the left of the principles expressed under the late, historic George Lorimer.

He was an institution personified. He was a tradition.

So saying, I take note of an article by Stewart Alsop, one of its very editors, no less, and an offshoot scion of the Roosevelt breed. Mr. Alsop contributes a sympathetic discussion of our State Department, pretending to tell what is wrong with it. The ills he describes do exist, but I detected one spectacular omission. He did not say one word about the Alger Hiss case, which still indicates by its ugly red glare the principal fault of the State Department.

We who went through that menacing revelation of betrayal in the State Department all remember, and so does Mr. Alsop, that it was Adolf A. Berle who first received the confession of Whittaker Chambers which made the State Department notorious around the world. And Berle testified that when he was rebuffed by his superiors in State he took this merely as a setback in a rather merry little game and set off for Rio de Janeiro to be ambassador. But this was actually several years after he had presented Chambers' confession to President Roosevelt and Roosevelt had told him to "go jump in the lake." All that time meanwhile, Hiss was carrying on in the State Depatment. Instead of yelling from the housetops or from Page One of some newspaper, Berle considered that he had done his duty and pursued his career.

After Hiss was convicted, on a charge of "perjury" but with implications of treachery pro-Moscow, Secretary of State Dean Acheson declared to newpaper reporters: "I will not turn my back on Alger Hiss."

In his monumental testament, a book called "Witness," Chambers wrote comments concerning this remark which put to shame all the journalism of the nation of that time. We just hit it a lick and a promise and thus today Alsop can treat Acheson with unquestioning respect in Mr. Lorimer's old Saturday Evening Post.

Chmbers wrote in "Witness" as follows: "Nor can Secretary of State Acheson's remark after Hiss's conviction be reviewed merely in those terms of personal feelings that I of all men must be the first to understand, for I shared that feeling. For a Secretary of State to say after the conviction of a man on an implied charge of espionage: 'I will not turn my back on Alger Hiss' cannot possibly be dismissed simply as an upwelling of personal feeling. This would be true, even if the State Department aide* * * did not make it clear that this was no sponstaneous outburst. You look in vain in history for anything comparable to it.

"These are facts. We witnessed them. They are indisputable. They were envoked from a single focus of infection, the Hiss Case. They are sometimes explained as manifestations of partisan politics. The factor of partisan politics may have been in play, but I do not believe that, in the sense of two-party politics, it was decisive. The explanation lies deeper.

"When I took up my little sling and aimed at Communism, I also hit something else. What I hit was the forces of that great socialist revolution which, in the name of liberalism, spasmodically, incompletely, somewhat formlessly, but always in the same direction, has been inching its ice cap over the nation for two decades. I had no adequate idea of its extent, the depth of its penetration or the fierce, vindictiveness of its revolutionary temper."

This is a phase of the "trouble with the State Department" which this editor of the new Saturday Evening Post did not deem important enough to mention.

But, of course Mr. Editor Alsop did get some eye-rolling at the frightful damage inflicted by Joe McCarthy in disclosing treachery and homosextuality in State. Mr. Alsop, indeed the whole vindictive "revolution" that Chambers discussed, took a terribly serious view of the "menace of McCarthyism."

CASH, CARRYINGS-ON

The average consumer, buying a car, a refrigerator, a TV set, groceries and many another item, undoubtedly can benefit from having public watchdogs on guard in his behalf, whether he buys on credit or for cash.

The nation today is so awash with alluring products, offered on the most attractive terms, that the consumer can understandably lose his way in trying to figure out what is best for him. Occasionally he may encounter shoddy goods, deliberate misrepresentation, deceptive credit arrangements.

Inquiries at the federal level have been delving into the consumer's problems in this regard. One concerns proper labeling and packaging of foodstuffs and other household materials.

In the credit field, Sen. Paul Douglas, Illinois Democrat, is proposing what he calls his "Truth in Lending Act," its aim being to compel all purveyors of credit to state clearly the dollar cost of their finance charges, and the simple annual interest rate this represents.

Douglas argues that lenders too often state finance costs in confusing or incomplete fashion, and that borowers hence cannot sensibly "shop for credit" or know fairly what they are being charged.

Right now his proposal is stymied in a Senate subcommittee with little early prospect of action. Consumers have not risen in wide support. Nor has all opposition come from lenders who presumably would be most affected.

Prof. Robert W. Johnson, a business administration specialist at Michigan State University, says the Douglas proposal would simply lead the unscrupulous lender to conceal his finance charge in the price of the product.

Failing this, the tricky credit dealer can get around the Douglas plan, says Johnson, by adding to collection charges, commissions, cost of renewals, extensions and delinquencies.

The professor further suggests that the whole realm of consumer credit has today become so complex that even Douglas' call for simple statments of credit cost would not always produce the results he seeks.

But this should hardly be news. Numerous credit specialists have disagreed before the Douglas committee on the size of finance charges and interest rates in specific examples.

Douglas says people are sharper at shopping for goods than for credit, and wouldn't be fooled by padded prices. Johnson says there's no reason to believe this is so.

It is hard to see where this leaves the consumer. For the weight of the discussion indicates that even that statistical wizard, Defense Secretary McNamara, might have trouble braving the market-place today.

The Western powers are said to be ready to accept a looser control system on a nuclear test ban. They'll no longer insist on being told about it every time Khrushchev sneezes.

DEATH IN PERSPECTIVE

No words can take away any of the tragedy that was visited upon 95 human beings, not to mention their families and loved ones, in the crash of a jetliner in swampy waters within view of New York's skyscrapers. It was real and it was horrifying.

But after the first shock begins to dim, words must be used to rationalize the tragedy and place it in its proper perspective.

This is the first crash of a 707 in three years of commercial flying. Such planes have totalled literally billions of passenger miles in that time. The very rarity of airplane crashes is one reason why the news is told in large headlines.

Spectacular as it is, the accident pales in comparison with the day in and day out slaughter on our highways—slaughter that is for the most part preventable. Were only 95 people killed in automobiles on any given weekend, there would be rejoicing in the streets.

'These Days'

AN OPERA MATINEE

It is essential even for one who earns his living watching the doings of Khrushchev, struggling over what the inventions mean, which politician is really what one thinks he is and why another should believe some of the things that some do believe—it is essential to get away from it all and my way is to go to the opera of a Saturday afternoon when the atmosphere is more musical than on a Monday night for many reasons.

Last Saturday it was "Aida" which no singer or conductor can spoil or improve. So I settled down to a pleasant enough performance with the best lighting I have seen on any stage. After the first act, I dropped into Francis Robinson's cubby-hole of an office which I like to do because he is also a man of extremely wide culture and there is always good conversation which grows rarer these days as we limit ourselves either to the escapism of gossip or the argufying about things we know nothing about.

So last Saturday afternoon, Roland Hayes, the singer, also dropped in and we talked about how hard it is for a young conductor to get a chance to conduct and if perhaps it would not be wise for them to get their apprenticeships with high school orchestras, some of which, over the country, are quite good. For doctors, there is internship and a residency; for lawyers, there is clerkship. But young conductors have a rare chance to lead an orchestra or even a section of one. I am told that Leonard Bernstein takes three assistants a year which must do a great deal for young conductors. So we talked until the time came for Act. II.

Then we all foregathered for tea and there was Georgie Jessel and he reminded me of the very distant days of the Gus Edwards show in vaudeville when many who later became great stars sang, "School Days, School Days, Dear Old Golden Rule Days." And we talked of Eddie Cantor, a childhood friend, who has been ill but does not take it lightly, which everyone should do, for ills of the flesh must come to us at one time or another and one either is frightened by them or says his prayers and leaves the rest to God.

And I remembered how one day when I was in the hospital with what looked like a terminal thing and Charlie Coburn, the actor, had a nurse roll him into my room to have a visit and Charlie asked me not to spread it that he was in the hospital because then nobody would hire him to act. And we had several good laughs together. Charlie lived to a good ripe age and his passing was regretted but I often see him on the Late Show or even the Late Late Show since I have become addicted to such shenanigans at bed-time.

Then there was Act III to hear and Bill Ormerod, who should be addressed as Sir Berkeley, he being a British knight for whatever virtues or sins one becomes such, and I climbed some stairs, which I shoul not do, to hear Francis Robinson speak over the radio brilliantly and beautifully about Grace Moore. Who Was Behind the Delay In Resuming Nuclear Tests?

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Just who was responsible for the six-month delay on the part of the United States before it was announced that nuclear testing above the ground would be resumed? It wasn't the Department of Defense that was the slightest degree to blame. Most of its experts wanted testing resumed.

The mystery has not yet been cleared up. Although the Soviets resumed their tests last September, it was not until President Kennedy's speech a week ago that the world was told that America would resume testing in the atmosphere, but with this qualification — if certain things could be agreed upon with the Soviets at a Geneva conference the testing by America would be defended.

During the last six months, considerable division developed in the inner councils of the White House as to whether resumption of testing was wise.

It is not true, as has been reported in some circles, that a substantial number of the President's advisers were opposed to the resumption of testing in the air. What is true is that a few of the influential advisers put up vehement arguments that did cause the President to hesitate.

Military Sought Task

Most military men have been repeatedly asking for the tests. This was the case, too, under the Eisenhower administration. The military men expected that when the Soviets resumed testing the United States promptly would do so, too.

The biggest single influence against testing is reported to have been that of the U. S. Information Agency, which is said to have argued that it would be harmful from a propaganda standpoint. It was contended, primarily, that world opinion would be mobilized against America.

Unfortunately, the real mistake was that the U. S. I. A. itself had failed to emphasize repeatedly to the whole world, beginning last September, that when the Russians broke their own moratorium, the United States was free to do likewise and should resume testing.

The American position would have been stronger, moreover, if the action of the Soviet Union had been followed by an immediate decision on the part of the Kennedy administration to resume testing as quickly as possible and to make no further announcement as to dates when tests would be held. The same six-month period could have been utilized in advising the world that an overemphasis had been placed on the alleged harm that is supposed to come from testing in the air. It was not until President Kennedy's speech of March 2 that the country was officially advised, in effect, that much of the anti-test propaganda about harmful fallout was spurious.

The question before the American people has become clearcut. Since testing doesn't involve—as the President now says—any more effect than one fiftieth of what occurs in natural radioactivity of everyday life in different parts of this country, then the defense of the United States against a nuclear attack is so important that any propaganda from the Soviet side can readily be refuted, if not ignored.

Scientific advice has by no means been unanimous as to the wisdom of resuming tests. Some scientists have advised the President against resuming tests. Too many scientists, however, have become involved in arguments dealing with political and ideological matters. All that the scientists really should have been telling the American government is what the value of the tests could be in building the American deterrent program against the Soviet Union. It isn't the province of scientists to take sides as to what is or is not good propaganda.

The Atomic Energy Commission has been tending more and more to the idea that tests are absolutely imperative. It is reported that, among the President's advisers, CIA Chief McCone and Attorney General Kennedy are on that side, too.

What is feared, however, is that the President, torn by conflicting views among his intimate advisers, may give too much weight even now in the propaganda aspect and may go along finally with a plan for limited tests only. This will not please the experts on the military side who feel confident they know what is absolutely necessary for America to do from a defense standpoint in the nuclear field. They insist that more knowledge must be obtained from new tests in order to overcome what the Soviet Union has learned in her recent experiments.

So what's happening in the discussions inside the White House is an all-important phase of the fateful controversy over the resumption of nuclear tests.

AS PEGLER SE ES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Since the Saturday Evening Post broke with its old profession of conservative character a few months ago there has been speculation among journalists whether the new SEP could retrieve its old prestige and a measure of its ancient success. Resisting prolonged propaganda I refused to believe that the Post had any intention to desist from the "liberal" revolution which it had abetted for years. As a traditionalist I must say that I detect in the revised form changes only of type and make-up. The editorial quality of this jumbled publication seems to me to confirm its latter-day political addictions, which are far to the left of the principles expressed under the late, historic George Lorimer.

He was an institution personified. He was a tradition.

So saying, I take note of an article by Stewart Alsop, one of its very editors, no less, and an offshoot scion of the Roosevelt breed. Mr. Alsop contributes a sympathetic discussion of our State Department, pretending to tell what is wrong with it. The ills he describes do exist, but I detected one spectacular omission. He did not say one word about the Alger Hiss case, which still indicates by its ugly red glare the principal fault of the State Department.

We who went through that menacing revelation of betrayal in the State Department all remember, and so does Mr. Alsop, that it was Adolf A. Berle who first received the confession of Whittaker Chambers which made the State Department notorious around the world. And Berle testified that when he was rebuffed by his superiors in State he took this merely as a setback in a rather merry little game and set off for Rio de Janeiro to be ambassador. But this was actually several years after he had presented Chambers' confession to President Roosevelt and Roosevelt had told him to "go jump in the lake." All that time meanwhile, Hiss was carrying on in the State Depatment. Instead of yelling from the housetops or from Page One of some newspaper, Berle considered that he had done his duty and pursued his career.

After Hiss was convicted, on a charge of "perjury" but with implications of treachery pro-Moscow, Secretary of State Dean Acheson declared to newpaper reporters: "I will not turn my back on Alger Hiss."

In his monumental testament, a book called "Witness," Chambers wrote comments concerning this remark which put to shame all the journalism of the nation of that time. We just hit it a lick and a promise and thus today Alsop can treat Acheson with unquestioning respect in Mr. Lorimer's old Saturday Evening Post.

Chmbers wrote in "Witness" as follows: "Nor can Secretary of State Acheson's remark after Hiss's conviction be reviewed merely in those terms of personal feelings that I of all men must be the first to understand, for I shared that feeling. For a Secretary of State to say after the conviction of a man on an implied charge of espionage: 'I will not turn my back on Alger Hiss' cannot possibly be dismissed simply as an upwelling of personal feeling. This would be true, even if the State Department aide* * * did not make it clear that this was no sponstaneous outburst. You look in vain in history for anything comparable to it.

"These are facts. We witnessed them. They are indisputable. They were envoked from a single focus of infection, the Hiss Case. They are sometimes explained as manifestations of partisan politics. The factor of partisan politics may have been in play, but I do not believe that, in the sense of two-party politics, it was decisive. The explanation lies deeper.

"When I took up my little sling and aimed at Communism, I also hit something else. What I hit was the forces of that great socialist revolution which, in the name of liberalism, spasmodically, incompletely, somewhat formlessly, but always in the same direction, has been inching its ice cap over the nation for two decades. I had no adequate idea of its extent, the depth of its penetration or the fierce, vindictiveness of its revolutionary temper."

This is a phase of the "trouble with the State Department" which this editor of the new Saturday Evening Post did not deem important enough to mention.

But, of course Mr. Editor Alsop did get some eye-rolling at the frightful damage inflicted by Joe McCarthy in disclosing treachery and homosexuality in State. Mr. Alsop, indeed the whole vindictive "revolution" that Chambers discussed, took a terribly serious view of the "menace of McCarthyism."

Pure Water Group Says Fluoridation Rejected by Many

Thomas Lyle, public education chairman of Kingston Pure Water Committee, in a recent statement, said it is important that Kingstonians realize that the medical and dental professions are by no means unanimous in their approval of the safety or the wisdom of compulsory fluoridation.

The Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, Inc., reported to have a membership of 15,000 doctors has gone on record as condemning mass medication and the use of water supplies as a vehicles for drugs. The organization, on April 12, 1958 condemned the addition of any substance to public water supplies for the purpose of affecting the bodies or the bodily or mental functions of the consumers.

The following medical organizations have also expressed their opposition to Fluoridation: The Medical Society of Bay Ridge, Brooklyn (190 members) at its regular meeting held November 10, 1959, passed a resolution opposing the fluoridation of New York City's water supply.

Texas Medical Society, the Wayne County Medical Society, Detroit, Mich., and the New Orleans Board of Health have either rescinded previous resolutions in favor of fluoridation or have adopted resolutions against it.

In Worchester, Mass., 119 dentists have gone on record against fluoridation. The Medical-Dental Committee on the Evaluation of Fluoridation, comprised of 1600 doctors, dentists and scientists have signed a statement opposing the fluoridation of public water supplies.

Dr. Rafael G. Dufficy Jr., medical director, County of Marin, San Rafael, Calif., in a letter dated October 7, 1958 stated:

"Sodium Fluoride is a highly toxic, protoplasmic poison which is neither a nutrient nor necessary to health. In my opinion, the addition of such a chemical to the public water supply, to be taken by young, old, ill and healthy, without regard for specific dose, for the claimed purpose of reducing tooth decay, is medically unsound.

"This opinion is backed up by tens of thousands of concerned scientists."

With this impressive array of physicians, dentists and scientists warning us of the known dangers and possible hazards of fluoridation the Kingston Pure Water Committee feels that the only safe way to administer fluorides is on an individual basis with the advice of a doctor and the consent of the parent, Lyle said.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The official report that employment has risen and total unemployment dropped could be just about the best economic news in some time. It could be, if some nagging questions weren't left unanswered.

The Labor Department calls its figures the best guess possible to attain. But some critics insist the report isn't as reliable as the public is likely to think. And so the monthly estimate can engender either more optimism or more pessimism than business conditions themselves justify.

Among the questions this week's report leaves unanswered for the average person are:

If the total of jobless dropped more than had been expected in February (by 120,000 to 4,543,000), why did the number of those out of work for 15 weeks or more rise by 200,000 to 1,400,000—a gain that was expected at this season? Why didn't the seasonal factor work for both?

Why has the total work force failed to rise as expected? In the last year it has fallen by 28,000 when it was supposed to rise by 848,000.

The expectation was based on the rise in population and the coming into the labor market of the first of the big war baby crops.

The total labor force is determined by adding those who have jobs and those who say they haven't jobs but are looking for work. If some persons who were looking for jobs give up, they are not counted as unemployed any more, nor as part of the labor force.

The failure of the labor force to grow as expected could be that many persons just quit trying.

And another nagging question that many ask:

Many Just for Skilled

If total unemployment is so high, why are many jobs going begging? Part of the answer is that many of these jobs are for highly skilled workers, in which there is a short supply. And part might be found in the unpopularity of some other kinds of jobs. Many housewives complain they can't find domestic help, or yard men, or the old style handyman.

Also, the labor force waxes or wanes with the personal goals or inclinations of many persons. Housewives, students and retired persons will come into the labor market if the kind of work or the pay is attractive, or will take seasonal jobs to make a little pin money, and then withdraw from the labor force again.

Example: Each June the labor force, and the total of unemployed, swells as students and teachers look for summer work; and each fall these totals shrink as school starts again.

The figures on the unemployed also include those who have been laid off from their regular jobs but have definite instructions to return within a month or two. To many this form of unemployment is galling. But to some it may mean little, as they expect such layoffs and have other work to do in the meantime. Example: Farmers who take work now and then in nearby factories.

Lift for Many

But imperfect as may be the estimates of how many really belong in the ranks of the unemployed, the fact that the figures dropped in February will give a lift to many who fretted over some slowdown in the economy in January.

President Kennedy stressed this in saying, "This economy has more vitality than some of its premature mourners."

SHOKAN NEWS

SHOKAN—Daniel T. Sullivan, a resident of Mt. Marion for the past two years, was a caller in the village center Tuesday.

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Shultis who are spending some time at Gibsonton, Fla. He writes that the weather in that West Coast area has averaged around 75 degrees, and adds, "Have caught plenty of fish so far."

Mr. and Mrs. George Alpaugh and son, George, of Bloomington were Sunday callers in the hub of the reservoir country. He is a highway department employe.

M. McEvoy and family who moved here from Ontario, Canada, earlier in the winter, have vacated their quarters in the Ruckert Apartments. He is an IBM student.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Peck are remaining at their place near Tice Tenych Mountain. Mr. Peck before retiring was a member of the Herald Tribune editorial staff for many years.

Frank Neri is continuing extensive improvements at the former Harold Buley place on the Tonche Mountain road, near Temple's Pond, which he bought last year.

Mrs. Chase Davis who died in Kingston Monday was born and brought up in the old village of West Shokan, one of two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Martin H. Crispell. She was an active member of the Baptist Church for many years. The former Matie Crispell was a descendant of the Crispell and Eckert families who were among first settlers in what is now the Ashokan Reservoir country.

The passage at intervals of loads of pallet stock through the village is reminiscent of War 2 days when the mountain sawmills turned out countless thousands of these hard maple sticks for use in erecting cargo platforms on the steamship docks.

In addition to the hard maple logs, lumbermen are also looking for birch and cherry, these three being much in demand for furniture stock. Maple, however, ranks way ahead of the other as a fuel, and the slabs when cross-sawed into stove and fireplace lengths, brings a good price.

Word has reached here of the illness of the Rev. Richard Guice who was transferred to the pastorate of the Roxbury Methodist Church from Ashokan last year. Dominie Guice was stricken while returning home from a church conference at Buck Hill Falls, Pa., and entered a Newburgh Hospital. Later, he was taken to the Methodist Hospital of Brooklyn where he reportedly underwent a major operation, about the middle of February.

Seymour Winnie and family who moved to the Spillway neighborhood two years ago, are occupying their new house on the Winnie and Thayer tract on the east side of the Ashokan mountain road. Mr. Winnie, a steel worker, is currently employed in Kingston.

Having a birthday Saturday, March 10, is Mrs. Joseph Elefant of Ashokan village. The former Rose Cohen was born in New York City and was married there August 14, 1935. The couple are the parents of three children.

Other birthdays coming along soon, March 15, include that of Earl North who was brought up at West Shokan, one of several children of Mr. and Mrs. Early North. He married Hilda Palen and the North home here is at Route 28 and Shokan mountain road. Also next week, March 14, is the natal anniversary of Floyd Longyear, War 1 veteran who for many years was connected with a Grand Rapids, Mich. lumber firm and is now making his retirement home in Arizona. Floyd's boyhood home is the present Bernard Watson place on the old state road.

A daughter, born Feb. 23 to Mr. and Mrs. Steven Brannen of Fleischmanns, is a grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brannen who some 20 years ago resided in Shokan.

David West, Kingston, called on local friends last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thord Fredenholm are again at their Route 28 home following a trip to European countries.

Martin Gulnack, retired reservoir department employe who has been recuperating at his home following surgery at a Kingston hospital, is able to be out again.

Miles Monaco, War 2 veteran who with his family formerly resided in Shokan, was a local caller Friday. He now makes his home on the Watson Hollow Road near the Bushkill bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zanis and daughter, Mary Ann, of Shellington, near Reading, Pa., recently spent a weekend with Mrs. Zanis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ruckert, at the village center couple's winter home in Hollywood, Florida. The former Anna Ruckert, whose girlhood farm home was the present Edward Bostock, or one time Henry Coons place, operated a beauty shop in Kings for several years previous to her marriage.

LONDON (AP) — The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) is planning to establish a university in Britain, although the site has not yet been chosen. Mormon leaders said the institution will accommodate about 4,000 students. There are about 20,000 Mormons in Britain.

SHOKAN NEWS

SHOKAN—Daniel T. Sullivan, a resident of Mt. Marion for the past two years, was a caller in the village center Tuesday.

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Shultis who are spending some time at Gibsonton, Fla. He writes that the weather in that West Coast area has averaged around 75 degrees, and adds, "Have caught plenty of fish so far."

Mr. and Mrs. George Alpaugh and son, George, of Bloomington were Sunday callers in the hub of the reservoir country. He is a highway department employe.

M. McEvoy and family who moved here from Ontario, Canada, earlier in the winter, have vacated their quarters in the Ruckert Apartments. He is an IBM student.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Peck are remaining at their place near Tice Tenych Mountain. Mr. Peck before retiring was a member of the Herald Tribune editorial staff for many years.

Frank Neri is continuing extensive improvements at the former Harold Buley place on the Tonche Mountain road, near Temple's Pond, which he bought last year.

Mrs. Chase Davis who died in Kingston Monday was born and brought up in the old village of West Shokan, one of two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Martin H. Crispell. She was an active member of the Baptist Church for many years. The former Matie Crispell was a descendant of the Crispell and Eckert families who were among first settlers in what is now the Ashokan Reservoir country.

The passage at intervals of loads of pallet stock through the village is reminiscent of War 2 days when the mountain sawmills turned out countless thousands of these hard maple sticks for use in erecting cargo platforms on the steamship docks.

In addition to the hard maple logs, lumbermen are also looking for birch and cherry, these three being much in demand for furniture stock. Maple, however, ranks way ahead of the other as a fuel, and the slabs when cross-sawed into stove and fireplace lengths, brings a good price.

Word has reached here of the illness of the Rev. Richard Guice who was transferred to the pastorate of the Roxbury Methodist Church from Ashokan last year. Dominie Guice was stricken while returning home from a church conference at Buck Hill Falls, Pa., and entered a Newburgh Hospital. Later, he was taken to the Methodist Hospital of Brooklyn where he reportedly underwent a major operation, about the middle of February.

Seymour Winnie and family who moved to the Spillway neighborhood two years ago, are occupying their new house on the Winnie and Thayer tract on the east side of the Ashokan mountain road. Mr. Winnie, a steel worker, is currently employed in Kingston.

Having a birthday Saturday, March 10, is Mrs. Joseph Elefant of Ashokan village. The former Rose Cohen was born in New York City and was married there August 14, 1935. The couple are the parents of three children.

Other birthdays coming along soon, March 15, include that of Earl North who was brought up at West Shokan, one of several children of Mr. and Mrs. Early North. He married Hilda Palen and the North home here is at Route 28 and Shokan mountain road. Also next week, March 14, is the natal anniversary of Floyd Longyear, War 1 veteran who for many years was connected with a Grand Rapids, Mich. lumber firm and is now making his retirement home in Arizona. Floyd's boyhood home is the present Bernard Watson place on the old state road.

A daughter, born Feb. 23 to Mr. and Mrs. Steven Brannen of Fleischmanns, is a grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brannen who some 20 years ago resided in Shokan.

David West, Kingston, called on local friends last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thord Fredenholm are again at their Route 28 home following a trip to European countries.

Martin Gulnack, retired reservoir department employe who has been recuperating at his home following surgery at a Kingston hospital, is able to be out again.

Miles Monaco, War 2 veteran who with his family formerly resided in Shokan, was a local caller Friday. He now makes his home on the Watson Hollow Road near the Bushkill bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zanis and daughter, Mary Ann, of Shellington, near Reading, Pa., recently spent a weekend with Mrs. Zanis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ruckert, at the village center couple's winter home in Hollywood, Florida. The former Anna Ruckert, whose girlhood farm home was the present Edward Bostock, or one time Henry Coons place, operated a beauty shop in Kings for several years previous to her marriage.

Mormons Abroad

LONDON (AP) — The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) is planning to establish a university in Britain, although the site has not yet been chosen. Mormon leaders said the institution will accommodate about 4,000 students. There are about 20,000 Mormons in Britain.

Streets Cleared By D. R. Curfew

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Streets in the Dominican capital were cleared Thursday night by a dusk-to-dawn curfew after mobs went on a rampage because the government let ex-President Joaquin Balaguer and Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria leave the country.

Some of the mob fury was directed at the United States with charges that the State Department was behind the leniency. But a Dominican government source said their presence here represented a threat to the tranquility of the nation.

Balaguer, 55, and Rodriguez Echavarria, 37, who served under him as armed forces chief, were secretly flown to Puerto Rico. Angry crowds formed when their getaway became known. The demonstrators shouted that the two men linked with the old Trujillo dictatorship should have been brought to trial.

Gangs roamed the streets, setting fire to automobiles and wrecking other property. They massed in front of the U.S. Consulate, burned two consulate cars and damaged two others.

Armed police patrols rushed out to check the demonstrations and most business places closed. Schoolchildren were sent home early.

Balaguer and Rodriguez Echavarria slipped out of the country Wednesday night.

Balaguer told newsmen in San Juan he was glad to get out of the Dominican Republic at the present time but hoped to return to politics at home in a year or two.

partially or totally destroyed and that another 7,000 suffered water damage. No damage figure has been set pending a survey.

Worst Ever in Maryland

In Maryland, Gov. J. Millard Tawes said after an inspection this is the worst disaster in the history of Maryland.

In the resort of Ocean City, Md., 90 per cent of the boardwalk is gone and a number of homes and hotels literally washed away.

Unseasonably high tides in Florida Thursday hit a 130-mile stretch from Fort Pierce to Bay Biscayne. Waves estimated at 25 feet greatly damaged resorts, homes and business districts. The Palm Beach and Miami Beach areas suffered some damage.

Hardest hit in New York were Long Island, Coney Island in Brooklyn, Staten Island and Fire Island.

Already at many of the disaster scenes were insurance adjusters for the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The board noted that damage caused by wind was covered by fire and extended coverage policies and homeowners' policies.

Some Not Covered

But damage caused by waves, high tidal water and flooding is not covered, the board said, adding that water damage to buildings is covered only when it results from the wind.

Coverage for water damage is provided in comprehensive auto insurance policies and in certain marine policies for bridges, piers and wharves, the board said.

Snow Moves Eastward

A slow-moving storm rolling across the Midwest and heading eastward dumped up to a foot of snow in Iowa and Nebraska. Falls were heavy in many parts of the upper and middle Mississippi Valley and the western Great Lakes region.

The snow was moderately heavy southward into Asheville, N.C., with snow also reported in Charlotte and Raleigh, N.C. There was snow and a mixture of snow and rain in the southern Appalachians while the precipitation was mostly rain from the western Ohio Valley southward through Tennessee into Mississippi and Alabama.

Snow mixed with rain was expected to move across the Ohio Valley into central New York and central Pennsylvania.

In the West, snow flurries fell in scattered sections of western Montana and northern Idaho and rain mixed with snow hit western Washington, western Oregon and extreme northwestern California. Rain fell in the central Rockies and showers sprinkled the extreme southern Plateau region. Heavy snow warnings were posted for Montana.

Temperatures were on the chilly side in most of the wet belts with readings near normal levels in other areas.

Ex-Boxer Succumbs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Onetime bantamweight champion Bud Taylor, 58, died today in French Hospital, where he was under treatment for a heart condition.

The ex-boxer was hospitalized after suffering a heart attack Thursday.

Taylor captured the National Boxing Association version of the bantamweight crown with a 10-round victory over Tony Canzoneri in Chicago on June 24, 1927.

WILLIAM F. PAULUS

First Federal Has Officer on U. S. Loan Committee

William F. Paulus, assistant treasurer of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, has been notified of his appointment as a member of the 1962 Speech Contest Committee of the American Savings and Loan Institute. The committee will be meeting at the time of the Institute's 37th Annual Conference to be held in Philadelphia on March 19, 20 and 21.

Deweese W. DeWitt, executive vice president of First Federal, stated that he felt that it was quite an honor for Paulus to be named to this national committee. Paulus will leave on Sunday the 18th to attend the conference. In addition to the committee meeting which will be held at that time a very constructive program has been arranged for the junior executives in the savings and loan business throughout the United States.

Mr. Paulus is vice president of the Capital District Chapter of the American Savings and Loan Institute and vice president of the Southeastern New York League of the Savings and Loan Associations.

House Kills

Fenton would be taken care of.

Other Pennsylvanians, however feared that the legislature might fail to enact a new redistricting law and force them to run on a statewide race. Generally it is considered more hazardous politically to campaign statewide instead of in a familiar district. Also, it is more expensive.

When the Pennsylvanians couldn't agree, McCormack pulled the props from under the bill. He told newsmen there had been an understanding that the governor of Pennsylvania, Democrat David Lawrence, would call a special legislative session. Presumably, McCormack opposed enforcement of a gentlemen's agreement by act of Congress.

Would Require Session

The amendment, adopted 128 to 54, also would have required a special session of the Missouri legislature to map out new districts. The state already has redistricted on the assumption it would lose one seat in the House.

Massachusetts has not yet redistricted.

Without the amendment, the extra seat allotted to each of the three states would have been filled in a statewide election unless new districts were carved out.

The House beat efforts to further increase its size to take care of some of the other 13 states losing seats because of reapportionment based on the 1960 census.

Until the Pennsylvania disagreement developed, the House appeared in a mood to pass the bill according to well-laid plans.

These plans developed several months ago when Democratic and Republican leaders reached agreement on a three-seat increase to restore losses for the three states involved.

Reluctance of the House Rules Committee to give advance approval of procedure that would have barred amendments slowed down the bill's progress. Backers believed they could make a good case for a three-seat boost because the two states, Hawaii and Alaska, are entitled to that many. But they wanted no runaway to take care of all the losers.

End Comes Quickly

The rules committee gave its clearance early this week but did not bar amendments. Leaders counted noses Wednesday and figured they had close to 300 votes, so they called for a quick showdown.

Apparently they didn't touch all bases by clearing the Walter amendment.

The result, a bill which seemed certain of passage at 3 p.m. Thursday was dead two hours later, much to just about everyone's surprise.

Financial and Commercial

Chrysler rose more than a point. Ford took a fractional net loss.

Among utilities, Boston Edison, Commonwealth Edison and Consolidated Edison were among fractional gainers while American Telephone dipped slightly.

Five Community College Trustees

was made of political affiliation of any candidate for trustee, it was impossible to appoint from all areas since the board had but five appointments to make. He said the committee had listened to the list presented by the Democratic members, although no written list was submitted by the minority members.

Others who expressed opinions were Minority Leader John J. Gaffney (D), Lloyd who had "no quarrel" with the appointments made but felt some of the Democratic names submitted also were well qualified. Supervisor Majestic (D), Gardiner objected since no one from southern Ulster was named. Supervisor McCardle (D), ninth ward, also expressed objection to the manner of selection.

Molyneaux Defends Action

Supervisor Abram Molyneaux (R), Woodstock, a committee member defended the committee action and said the committee had considered all names submitted by many groups and organizations and if the list were carefully inspected it would be found that some of those named on the board of trustees were Democrats. He said he regretted the matter of politics has been brought up in regard to the college but he said the political angle has been brought into the picture by the Democratic side of the house. He said the committee felt those named represented the county and he hoped the political charges injected by the minority party would not have "tainted" the five named.

Supervisor Rapp (R), also a committee member said the committee felt the method used was the "fairest way."

Chairman Webber said the names were selected from list of names which "came from about every organization, group and from individuals in the county."

Lauded for Assistance

In a report signed by all members of the Community College Committee, recognition was given to assistance given by the architectural firm of Augustus R. Schrowan Associates, of Kingston and the engineering firm of Brinnier and Larios of Kingston. This assistance was publicly acknowledged by the committee and the committee recommended that the firm of Augustus R. Schrowang, Associates, be retained as architects for the college and that the engineering firm of Brinnier and Larios be retained as engineers and engineering consultants.

Commenting on the appointments Chairman Jesse McHugh (R), of Shawangunk said:

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank this committee on Community College for a job well done. This has not been an easy task but I am sure it has been a gratifying one. Their future work as well will not be easy, but this has been a thorough job, done with the interest of the public in mind. Their selection of trustees represents individuals who have records of outstanding accomplishments in their own fields of endeavor, persons who will be capable of dealing with the perplexing and difficult problems of establishing and administering the functions of a new institution for higher education. I would like to extend my congratulations to the trustees, those selected by the Board of Supervisors and those selected by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, and offer the full cooperation of this board in helping to build and maintain an outstanding seat of learning."

Wilson Thanks People

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R), Woodstock, today extended his congratulations to the people of Ulster County for their interest in the establishment of a Community College. Assemblyman Wilson said:

"The Ulster County Community College has today become an entity with the final selection of its board of trustees. This is truly the people's college for without their mandate, it could not exist.

"The Board of Supervisors is to be commended for its selection of these individuals who will be the guiding light of this institution in its most difficult and formative years. To the trustees may I add my congratulations and God speed their endeavors."

Viets Use Air, Ground Forces to Hunt Guerrillas

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vietnamese fighter-bombers today battered the Mekong River delta while ground forces pushed through swamps near the South China Sea hunting guerrillas.

There were no immediate reports on the results of the air strikes carried out by B25 two-engine bombers and T28 single-engine fighters equipped with rockets, machine guns and bombs.

The hunt for the Viet Cong guerrillas continued over much of the southern third of the country, but no important new government operations other than the aerial attacks were announced today.

Military sources said Vietnamese forces killed 33 guerrillas and captured four in an operation Thursday supported by U.S. Army helicopters in southernmost An Xuyen Province.

Five U.S. helicopters were hit by small arms fire in the operation but all returned to their base without casualties.

U.S. Army mechanics worked to repair a helicopter forced down Thursday by engine trouble in Communist-infested delta territory while airlifting government troops. No American casualties were reported. Vietnamese troops stood guard around the copter.

Reds Hold 29 GIs

WASHINGTON (AP) —Twenty-nine U.S. Army men are listed by the Pentagon as being in the hands of the Communists.

They are among 227 seized by the Communists since 1954, a Senate subcommittee was advised Thursday. The figures were in a letter signed by Cyrus R. Vance, Defense Department counsel.

There was no explanation of when, how or where the military men were captured. Carlisle P. Runge, assistant secretary of defense, who was testifying in an investigation of anti-Communist indoctrination of troops, said he didn't know anything about the details.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Police chased down a stolen car and found it had three drivers.

South American Educator Visits Kingston Schools

Dr. Wladimiro Woyno, director of Cooperative Services of Education, Columbia, South America, who is visiting the United States in cooperation with the President's "Alliance for Progress" program, visited the Kingston City Schools, Consolidated, for the purpose of observing the Project Able program and the guidance services.

Dr. Woyno spent some time observing the Project Able classes and he also had an opportunity to discuss this program with the personnel involved. He was particularly pleased with the program, for he found that in many ways it might be adaptable to many areas within his own country. Dr. Woyno also spent considerable time reviewing the guidance program. He had an opportunity to discuss the junior high school program with the counselors in the Myron J. Michael School and also the guidance program on the secondary level with the counselors in the Kingston High School. He was particularly impressed with the individual attention given each child and it was his feeling that if the educational program in Columbia and other South American countries is to be successful in preventing early dropouts, greater emphasis must be placed upon guidance. School authorities felt that it was a distinct honor and privilege to have Dr. Woyno visit the Kingston City Schools, Consolidated.

Rebels Strafed

French patrols scouting ahead of the French lines found the bodies of 10 rebel soldiers and two rebel wounded, the communique said.

Mum on Fighting

Both groups at Evian refused to comment on the sudden upsurge of fighting in Algeria after a long period of virtual truce during which the spotlight had shifted to terrorist attacks by the right-wing Secret Army Organization.

French warplanes—American-built B26 bombers and French Mystere jets — roared into the frontier fight Thursday to back up the gunners with round-the-clock raids from Bone.

There were some fears the frontier fighting might spread but an informant in Tunis said it was more likely that it would spur the peace delegates to an accord.

Cost to County

Supervisor Banyo (R), Ulster, Thursday evening referring all future requests to the respective committee, for investigation before final action can be taken by the board.

The resolution pointed out that the cost of these trips was, in most cases, borne by the county and noted the sharp increase in cost over the past few years. Need, benefit derived from these conferences and other matters will be considered by the committee prior to recommendation to the board. The resolution was unanimously approved.

Secrecy Shrouds Return to U. S. Of Congo Figure

NEW YORK (AP)—A cloak of secrecy was instituted at Ilewild Airport today upon the arrival from the Congo of Elizabeth Thring, principal figure in a slaying there.

She is the young American woman who was alone with Lt. Col. Hulen D. Stogner, U.S. assistant military attache, when he was slain in his Leopoldville residence last month. Investigation indicated he was struck by a bullet coming from outside the house.

Reporters and photographers were barred from the U.S. customs area when Miss Thring arrived.

Washington customs authorities said that the New York action was the result of a new policy. The airport customs enclosure will no longer be available to photographers and reporters, it was said.

The Washington officials added that there are other places where travelers may be met, including a press room.

Miss Thring, 22, escorted by her mother and father, brushed past newsmen and hurried to a waiting car as she emerged from customs.

Lt. Col. Stogner, 39, was married and the father of six children. His family lives in El Paso, Tex.

Friends said he had spoken of obtaining a divorce to marry Miss Thring at Easter.

Would Honor Flight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has been asked to authorize the coinage of 50-cent pieces commemorating the orbital space flight of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.

A bill to authorize the issuance of 50,000 such coins was introduced Thursday by Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., cosponsored by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

Real Tale of Stock Split Shows No Cause for Worry

Q) "Before its recent split, Pacific Gas & Electric sold for over $100. After the split, the shares began trading for around $30. What caused this reduction in the value of our holdings? My wife and I are older, and we don't like the dividend being cut to 25 cents quarterly. We're quite disturbed over this." A. K.

A) Your concern is understandable. However, please let me assure you that you have gained, not lost, as a result of this stock split.

In January, Pacific Gas & Electric split three-for-one, which simply means that three shares of common became outstanding for every single share which was previously on the market. To effect the split, the company in January issued to stockholders two additional shares for each share then owned, making each person's holdings three times what they were previously.

As I've said here many times, the market adjusts for nearly everything. As a result of the split, the shares of Pacific Gas & Electric were reduced to one-third of their former price, but, since you now own three times as many shares, no change in the total value of your holdings has occurred.

On a proportional basis, the old quarterly rate of $0.70 should have been adjusted down to $0.23 1/3. However, thanks to a rate boost, the dividends on your shares are now $0.25 quarterly, or actually a little more than you were formerly receiving.

Q) "I am divorced, employed and have enough income to support myself adequately. My divorce settlement included $5,000 in cash, which I won't be needing for sometime. I'd like to invest this money in a solid situation where I can let it grow for a number of years. I lean toward life insurance stocks, especially Franklin Life. What do you suggest?" R. V.

A) I think your choice of Franklin Life is admirable. My advice is that you divide your money into two parts, putting half in Franklin and the other half in another good growth situation—Commonwealth Life of Kentucky.

The volunteers wet down the smoldering portions with fire exinguishers at about 4:45 p. m., according to Anthony Riozzi, company secretary.

Streets Cleared By D. R. Curfew

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Streets in the Dominican capital were cleared Thursday night by a dusk-to-dawn curfew after mobs went on a rampage because the government let ex-President Joaquin Balaguer and Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria leave the country.

Some of the mob fury was directed at the United States with charges that the State Department was behind the leniency. But a Dominican government source said their presence here represented a threat to the tranquility of the nation.

Balaguer, 55, and Rodriguez Echavarria, 37, who served under him as armed forces chief, were secretly flown to Puerto Rico. Angry crowds formed when their getaway became known. The demonstrators shouted that the two men linked with the old Trujillo dictatorship should have been brought to trial.

Gangs roamed the streets, setting fire to automobiles and wrecking other property. They massed in front of the U.S. Consulate, burned two consulate cars and damaged two others.

Armed police patrols rushed out to check the demonstrations and most business places closed. Schoolchildren were sent home early.

Balaguer and Rodriguez Echavarria slipped out of the country Wednesday night.

Balaguer told newsmen in San Juan he was glad to get out of the Dominican Republic at the present time but hoped to return to politics at home in a year or two.

6-State Area

partially or totally destroyed and that another 7,000 suffered water damage. No damage figure has been set pending a survey.

Worst Ever in Maryland

In Maryland, Gov. J. Millard Tawes said after an inspection this is the worst disaster in the history of Maryland.

In the resort of Ocean City, Md., 90 per cent of the boardwalk is gone and a number of homes and hotels literally washed away.

Hardest hit in New York were Long Island, Coney Island in Brooklyn, Staten Island and Fire Island.

Already at many of the disaster scenes were insurance adjusters for the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The board noted that damage caused by wind was covered by fire and extended coverage policies and homeowners' policies.

Some Not Covered

But damage caused by waves, high tidal water and flooding is not covered, the board said, adding that water damage to buildings is covered only when it results from the wind.

Coverage for water damage is provided in comprehensive auto insurance policies and in certain marine policies for bridges, piers and wharves, the board said.

Snow Moves Eastward

A slow-moving storm rolling across the Midwest and heading eastward dumped up to a foot of snow in Iowa and Nebraska. Falls were heavy in many parts of the upper and middle Mississippi Valley and the western Great Lakes region.

The snow was moderately heavy southward into Asheville, N.C., with snow also reported in Charlotte and Raleigh, N.C. There was snow and a mixture of snow and rain in the southern Appalachians while the precipitation was mostly rain from the western Ohio Valley southward through Tennessee into Mississippi and Alabama.

Snow mixed with rain was expected to move across the Ohio Valley into central New York and central Pennsylvania.

In the West, snow flurries fell in scattered sections of western Montana and northern Idaho and rain mixed with snow hit western Washington, western Oregon and extreme northwestern California. Rain fell in the central Rockies and showers sprinkled the extreme southern Plateau region. Heavy snow warnings were posted for Montana.

Temperatures were on the chilly side in most of the wet belts with readings near normal levels in other areas.

Ex-Boxer Succumbs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Onetime bantamweight champion Bud Taylor, 58, died today in French Hospital, where he was under treatment for a heart condition.

The ex-boxer was hospitalized after suffering a heart attack Thursday.

Taylor captured the National Boxing Association version of the bantamweight crown with a 10-round victory over Tony Canzoneri in Chicago on June 24, 1927.

WILLIAM F. PAULUS

First Federal Has Officer on U. S. Loan Committee

William F. Paulus, assistant treasurer of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, has been notified of his appointment as a member of the 1962 Speech Contest Committee of the American Savings and Loan Institute. The committee will be meeting at the time of the Institute's 37th Annual Conference to be held in Philadelphia on March 19, 20 and 21.

Deweese W. DeWitt, executive vice president of First Federal, stated that he felt that it was quite an honor for Paulus to be named to this national committee. Paulus will leave on Sunday the 18th to attend the conference. In addition to the committee meeting which will be held at that time a very constructive program has been arranged for the junior executives in the savings and loan business throughout the United States.

Mr. Paulus is vice president of the Capital District Chapter of the American Savings and Loan Institute and vice president of the Southeastern New York League of the Savings and Loan Associations.

House Kills

Fenton would be taken care of.

Other Pennsylvanians, however feared that the legislature might fail to enact a new redistricting law and force them to run on a statewide race. Generally it is considered more hazardous politically to campaign statewide instead of in a familiar district. Also, it is more expensive.

When the Pennsylvanians couldn't agree, McCormack pulled the props from under the bill. He told newsmen there had been an understanding that the governor of Pennsylvania, Democrat David Lawrence, would call a special legislative session. Presumably, McCormack opposed enforcement of a gentlemen's agreement by act of Congress.

Would Require Session

The amendment, adopted 128 to 54, also would have required a special session of the Missouri legislature to map out new districts. The state already has redistricted on the assumption it would lose one seat in the House.

Massachusetts has not yet redistricted.

Without the amendment, the extra seat allotted to each of the three states would have been filled in a statewide election unless new districts were carved out.

The House beat efforts to further increase its size to take care of some of the other 13 states losing seats because of reapportionment based on the 1960 census.

Until the Pennsylvania disagreement developed, the House appeared in a mood to pass the bill according to well-laid plans.

These plans developed several months ago when Democratic and Republican leaders reached agreement on a three-seat increase to restore losses for the three states involved.

Reluctance of the House Rules Committee to give advance approval of procedure that would have barred amendments slowed down the bill's progress. Backers believed they could make a good case for a three-seat boost because the two states, Hawaii and Alaska, are entitled to that many. But they wanted no runaway to take care of all the losers.

End Comes Quickly

The rules committee gave its clearance early this week but did not bar amendments. Leaders counted noses Wednesday and figured they had close to 300 votes, so they called for a quick showdown.

Apparently they didn't touch all bases by clearing the Walter amendment.

The result, a bill which seemed certain of passage at 3 p.m. Thursday was dead two hours later, much to just about everyone's surprise.

Five Community College Trustees

was made of political affiliation of any candidate for trustee, it was impossible to appoint from all areas since the board had but five appointments to make. He said the committee had listened to the list presented by the Democratic members, although no written list was submitted by the minority members.

Others who expressed opinions were Minority Leader John J. Gaffney (D), Lloyd who had "no quarrel" with the appointments made but felt some of the Democratic names submitted also were well qualified. Supervisor Majestic (D), Gardiner objected since no one from southern Ulster was named. Supervisor McCardle (D), ninth ward, also expressed objection to the manner of selection.

Molyneaux Defends Action

Supervisor Abram Molyneaux (R), Woodstock, a committee member defended the committee action and said the committee had considered all names submitted by many groups and organizations and if the list were carefully inspected it would be found that some of those named on the board of trustees were Democrats. He said he regretted the matter of politics has been brought up in regard to the college but he said the political angle has been brought into the picture by the Democratic side of the house. He said the committee felt those named represented the county and he hoped the political charges injected by the minority party would not have "tainted" the five named.

Supervisor Rapp (R), also a committee member said the committee felt the method used was the "fairest way."

Chairman Webber said the names were selected from list of names which "came from about every organization, group and from individuals in the county."

Lauded for Assistance

In a report signed by all members of the Community College Committee, recognition was given to assistance given by the architectural firm of Augustus R. Schrowan Associates, of Kingston and the engineering firm of Brinnier and Larios of Kingston. This assistance was publicly acknowledged by the committee and the committee recommended that the firm of Augustus R. Schrowang, Associates, be retained as architects for the college and that the engineering firm of Brinnier and Larios be retained as engineers and engineering consultants.

Commenting on the appointments Chairman Jesse McHugh (R), of Shawangunk said:

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank this committee on Community College for a job well done. This has not been an easy task but I am sure it has been a gratifying one. Their future work as well will not be easy, but this has been a thorough job, done with the interest of the public in mind. Their selection of trustees represents individuals who have records of outstanding accomplishments in their own fields of endeavor, persons who will be capable of dealing with the perplexing and difficult problems of establishing and administering the functions of a new institution for higher education. I would like to extend my congratulations to the trustees, those selected by the Board of Supervisors and those selected by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, and offer the full cooperation of this board in helping to build and maintain an outstanding seat of learning."

Wilson Thanks People

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R), Woodstock, today extended his congratulations to the people of Ulster County for their interest in the establishment of a Community College. Assemblyman Wilson said:

"The Ulster County Community College has today become an entity with the final selection of its board of trustees. This is truly the people's college for without their mandate, it could not exist.

"The Board of Supervisors is to be commended for its selection of these individuals who will be the guiding light of this institution in its most difficult and formative years. To the trustees may I add my congratulations and God speed their endeavors."

Viets Use Air, Ground Forces to Hunt Guerrillas

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —Vietnamese fighter-bombers today battered the Mekong River delta while ground forces pushed through swamps near the South China Sea hunting guerrillas.

There were no immediate reports on the results of the air strikes carried out by B25 two-engine bombers and T28 single-engine fighters equipped with rockets, machine guns and bombs.

The hunt for the Viet Cong guerrillas continued over much of the southern third of the country, but no important new government operations other than the aerial attacks were announced today.

Military sources said Vietnamese forces killed 33 guerrillas and captured four in an operation Thursday supported by U.S. Army helicopters in southernmost An Xuyen Province.

Five U.S. helicopters were hit by small arms fire in the operation but all returned to their base without casualties.

U.S. Army mechanics worked to repair a helicopter forced down Thursday by engine trouble in Communist-infested delta territory while airlifting government troops. No American casualties were reported. Vietnamese troops stood guard around the copter.

Reds Hold 29 GIs

WASHINGTON (AP) —Twenty-nine U.S. Army men are listed by the Pentagon as being in the hands of the Communists.

They are among 227 seized by the Communists since 1954, a Senate subcommittee was advised Thursday. The figures were in a letter signed by Cyrus R. Vance, Defense Department counsel.

There was no explanation of when, how or where the military men were captured. Carlisle P. Runge, assistant secretary of defense, who was testifying in an investigation of anti-Communist indoctrination of troops, said he didn't know anything about the details.

South American Educator Visits Kingston Schools

Dr. Wladimiro Woyno, director of Cooperative Services of Education, Columbia, South America, who is visiting the United States in cooperation with the President's "Alliance for Progress" program, visited the Kingston City Schools, Consolidated, for the purpose of observing the Project Able program and the guidance services.

Dr. Woyno spent some time observing the Project Able classes and he also had an opportunity to discuss this program with the personnel involved. He was particularly pleased with the program, for he found that in many ways it might be adaptable to many areas within his own country. Dr. Woyno also spent considerable time reviewing the guidance program. He had an opportunity to discuss the junior high school program with the counselors in the Myron J. Michael School and also the guidance program on the secondary level with the counselors in the Kingston High School. He was particularly impressed with the individual attention given each child and it was his feeling that if the educational program in Columbia and other South American countries is to be successful in preventing early dropouts, greater emphasis must be placed upon guidance. School authorities felt that it was a distinct honor and privilege to have Dr. Woyno visit the Kingston City Schools, Consolidated.

Rebels Strafed

French patrols scouting ahead of the French lines found the bodies of 10 rebel soldiers and two rebel wounded, the communique said.

Mum on Fighting

Both groups at Evian refused to comment on the sudden upsurge of fighting in Algeria after a long period of virtual truce during which the spotlight had shifted to terrorist attacks by the right-wing Secret Army Organization.

French warplanes—American-built B26 bombers and French Mystere jets — roared into the frontier fight Thursday to back up the gunners with round-the-clock raids from Bone.

There were some fears the frontier fighting might spread but an informant in Tunis said it was more likely that it would spur the peace delegates to an accord.

Cost to County

Supervisor Banyo (R), Ulster, Thursday evening referring all future requests to the respective committee, for investigation before final action can be taken by the board.

The resolution pointed out that the cost of these trips was, in most cases, borne by the county and noted the sharp increase in cost over the past few years. Need, benefit derived from these conferences and other matters will be considered by the committee prior to recommendation to the board. The resolution was unanimously approved.

Secrecy Shrouds Return to U. S. Of Congo Figure

NEW YORK (AP)—A cloak of secrecy was instituted at Ilewild Airport today upon the arrival from the Congo of Elizabeth Thring, principal figure in a slaying there.

She is the young American woman who was alone with Lt. Col. Hulen D. Stogner, U.S. assistant military attache, when he was slain in his Leopoldville residence last month. Investigation indicated he was struck by a bullet coming from outside the house.

Reporters and photographers were barred from the U.S. customs area when Miss Thring arrived.

Washington customs authorities said that the New York action was the result of a new policy. The airport customs enclosure will no longer be available to photographers and reporters, it was said.

The Washington officials added that there are other places where travelers may be met, including a press room.

Miss Thring, 22, escorted by her mother and father, brushed past newsmen and hurried to a waiting car as she emerged from customs.

Lt. Col. Stogner, 39, was married and the father of six children. His family lives in El Paso, Tex.

Friends said he had spoken of obtaining a divorce to marry Miss Thring at Easter.

Defense Finishes Stolen Bonds Role

CHICAGO (AP) — The defense has concluded its case in the trial of three men accused of dealing in bonds stolen from a Canadian bank. The case may go to the jury next week.

George E. Rosden, a Washington lawyer; William Rabin of Chicago and Sam Mannarino of New Kensington, Pa., are charged with conspiring to transport, and transporting part of $12 million in bonds stolen from the Brockville, Ont., Trust and Savings Co. on May 3, 1958.

Government prosecutors were expected to begin their rebuttal today.

William Botti of East McKeesport, Pa., the last defense witness, testified Thursday that he was registered in the Fourth Cumberland Hotel in Cumberland Hotel in Cumberland, Md., Dec. 14, 1958.

The government contends that Mannarino, under the name of Botti, received a telephone call at the hotel on that date from Montreal, Que., concerning the plan for disposing of the stolen bonds.

Botti testified he has known Mannarino for 15 or 20 years, that Mannarino was not at the hotel on that night and that he, Botti, received no telephone calls from Canada.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME (Registered U. S. Patent Office) By JIMMY HATLO

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

With the controversy of bus transportation in Kingston readers ask me about the old trolley car days. Youngsters cannot imagine summer and winter trolley cars. I am sure if they would see the summer trolley which only cost five cents a ride they would yell for a ride even now. We did. A ride on the summer trolley car was a thrill for us, and especially going to Kingston Point Park.

Remember when the trolley was just approaching the last block to the point, between the swamps, and everyone would stand up, they were so anxious to jump off the minute the trolley made the turn into the Point.

Sundays, was a big day in the summer time. I cannot imagine Kingston without trolley service on Sundays in those days, especially on hot days. Even those who owned a horse and buggy gave them a rest on Sunday and took the trolley.

I cut out a schedule from the Kingston Daily Express of Saturday, Oct. 28, 1905 for the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Co. The Kingston City Cars, ran between Wall Street and the Ferry every 10 minutes from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. and 20 minutes time 6 a. m. to 7 a. m.; 9 p. m. to 12 midnight. We had good service on the trolley in those days.

The Colonial cars ran between Marius Street and Kingston Point 10 minute time 8 a. m. to 9 p. m.; 20 minute time 6 a. m. to 8 a. m. and 9 p. m. to 12 midnight.

They were always so on time so that when I was going to high school, I knew exactly which trolley I could take to make it on time. The winter trolleys were clean, warm and comfortable, and only five cents. In fact, I think they were more comfortable than a bus, for they used electricity and tracks.

The trolleys ran on Sundays, because they used to take us back and forth to the movies and other places. I see in 1905 the Sunday cars were out at 7 a. m. 20 minute time to 9 a. m. They had other special trolleys to catch the trains, and the Big Ferry, to catch trains on the other side of the Hudson. For instances they had "special cars connecting with steamer Mary Powell," which left Marius Street at 5:35 and Kingston at 5:40 a. m. going down on the Kingston City line. All Kingston Point cars carried flags, when C. Gordon Reel was general manager, in 1905.

I remember in summer, when the trolleys would be coming up from Kingston Point park they would be loaded with people from the Dayline boats. Sometimes two trolleys would come together, and both full, so no doubt some of the passengers did not even pay, for the conductor had to be an acrobat to get all the fares.

In 1926 Kingston went to bus service and then of course with everyone having a private car things went from bad to worse. Only time can tell what the future holds for Kingston's transportation problem.

Remember the old horse and buggy days. In the winter the jingle bells would come out with the first snowfall. Weber's butcher shop had fine horses across the street from us, and everyone would enjoy their sleigh and bells being taken out for the first snow fall. Remember the horse blocks which stood in front of many homes. I think they had one also. Some were very handsomely made from bluestone in one or two steps. Who knows, perhaps the smaller school buses can be used in the evening and on Sundays for church goers Kingston without bus or trolley service Sundays does seem strange.

Plan Would Pay Upstate Justices $34,000 Annually

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Salaries of State Supreme Court justices in the Upstate area would be raised to the downstate level of $34,500 a year, under a plan before a legislative committee.

Upstate justices now are paid $26,000 a year.

Prospects are considered good that the committee will recommend the uniform salary plan to the Legislature and that it will be adopted.

Approved by Voters

The salary legislation is among a series of bills to implement a court - reorganization amendment to the state constitution. The amendment was approved by voters last November.

The revised court plan will go into effect Sept. 1. The most extensive changes will be in New York City.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Court Reorganization is drafting the necessary legislation.

Supreme Court Justices now paid $34,500 a year are those sitting in New York City, Long Island and in the Ninth Judicial District, comprising the counties of Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Rockland and Westchester.

Provides for Transfer

The court-reorganization plan provides for transfer of justices throughout the state, if necessary, to deal with court congestion in any area.

A committee source said that was a major reason for establishing a uniform salary schedule.

The legislation on salaries is expected to be submitted next week.

Court bills introduced Thursday included measures that would:

Establish training courses for peace and police justices who are not lawyers. The justices are elected. The Administrative Board of the new court system will prescribe details of the courses.

Could Serve Longer

Permit retired judges of the Court of Appeals and State Supreme Court to continue to serve past the normal retirement age of 70, provided the Administrative Board certified that their services were needed and that they were mentally and physically capable of serving. Judges could serve until the age of 76 in such posts.

Abolish several courts in New York City and replace them with two basic courts, civil and criminal.

Family Camping Program Proposed by YM in Shokan

The Kingston YMCA is offering a family camp program if people desire it, according to an announcement today by the general secretary, Louis H. Schafer.

It would be at the 35 - acre campsite setting offering all the facilities for outdoor enjoyment.

Schafer said the YMCA has been serving the people of the Kingston area for the past 96 years, offering programs that they desire.

"We try to find something new right along, and this family camping should be one of our popular programs," he said.

"Family recreation and outdoor living in the evenings and especially on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays is fast becoming a most popular pastime.

Thinking of All

"Our YMCA camp will fill the need for mothers, dads and their children for outdoor recreation in an atmosphere of privacy.

"It has spring clear water for bathing and mountain trails for hiking in the many acres of woodland in and around Ticetonyk Mountain.

"The new and enlarged sand beach on the lake front affords ample swimming area and plenty of shallow water for non-swimmers.

"The beach and waterfront is being enlarged in the spring to accommodate the many we hope will avail themselves of the camp life."

Gives Schedule

Concerning his proposed schedule Secretary Schafer said this: "Family camping will take place weekday evenings between 4:30 and 9 p. m. also on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from noon to 8 p. m.

"In order to properly plan our camp program we must know in advance that the arrangement is sought by people of the area."

Those seeking more information can call the YMCA or talk to any member of the staff.

Elaborating further on the campsite, Schafer said, "The water in both lakes is exceptionally clear, coming from springs and mountain streams.

"The bathing beach has a generous amount of trees for shade offering relaxation and comfort on a hillside on which folks can recline without beach umbrellas.

Place to Sun-Bathe

"Sun bathing in the high mountain area is most stimulating and we offer facilities for that, too. It is a health measure far beyond words.

"There's place for row-boating, and we have a newly acquired sail boat for more fun and enjoyment for all good swimmers.

"All camp facilities are to be at the disposal of adults and children under supervision of a supervisor and lifeguard.

"For the youngsters there are playground swings and other things.

"There are places to play baseball, softball, badminton, shuffleboard, and to engage in archery. For those who like hiking there are trails. Picnickers will find tables and fireplaces."

Secretary Schafer is much enthused over the camp program he's offering and anticipates hearing from many favoring it.

Astonishing Knowledge of Details

JFK Press Talks Point Out His Mastery of Intricacies

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—No president, probably, ever worked harder at his homework than President Kennedy, if as hard. An astonishing knowledge of details shows through every news conference.

The fact that he's only 44 must be a big help.

The details cover the world, from describing the attitude of a governor in Brazil to telling a reporter his figure was too high when he said 13,000 men faced unemployment in a Long Island plane plant.

No Stirring of Bees

You can criticize him, and often justly, for not fighting more, or not seeming to fight at all, for some of the programs he dumps on Congress in such rapid abundance.

You can wish for fewer literary touches in his speeches and more iron and follow-through after he delivers them, even if it means making some people mad at him.

Like President Eisenhower, Kennedy has made a policy of not stirring up the bees, even when some of them sting him.

But he cannot be criticized for not attempting to absorb the fantastically varied doings and problems of government, at home and abroad, in dollars, dimes and percentages, in men, missions, and missiles.

His accumulation of detailed knowledge, which must be acquired through much reading and many conferences, is in addition to the other activities of the presidency, from speeches by day to White House musicales by night.

His news conference last Wednesday was an example, better than most, of Kennedy's mastery of the intricacies of his job. It was better than most only because of the nature of the questions which prompted detailed answers.

Show Range of Knowledge

Here is a rundown on his answers, showing the range of his knowledge, domestic and foreign, plus the evidence of his activity which is sandwiched in between all he seeks to inform himself on.

He had written the steel industry and the steel union to resume negotiations on a new contract by next Wednesday (both sides agreed to) and he had written Premier Khrushchev some suggestions on space cooperation.

He announced that tariff agreements, covering $4.3 billion worth of annual exports—had just been reached in Geneva.

Notes Food Problem

He observed that in Moscow Khrushchev had indicated Russia is hard up for food, that this country had given Poland food, but that to his knowledge Russia had never asked for any.

He mentioned that the unemployment rate is now just 5.6 per cent, the lowest in 19 months, that total employment is 65,789,000 and that industry profits were "up for companies—22 per cent."

He indicated he fully knew what the CIA had learned from U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers; he said American negotiators at Geneva March 14 would have some suggestions on nuclear test inspections.

He discussed nuclear free zones, a missile that can travel 5,000 miles and its effect on free zones; the $3 billion this country spends to support its defense forces overseas; the balance of payments; the war in Viet Nam; the disarmament conference; Berlin and Southeast Asia.

He pointed out that proposals to buy $100 million in U.N. bonds were before the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee; discussed the future of Okinawa; the nature of free enterprise and the public interest; the record of Congress so far, compared with other years.

He reminded reporters the defense budget was $14 billion in 1950; explained that 140 B70 bombers, costing $10 billion, wouldn't be ready before 1970 or 1971 and that we have 640 B52s.

He ticked off the time schedules of the Polaris, Minuteman and Titan missiles; said we are going to spend $1 billion equipping the B52s with Skybolts; noted by name who in his Cabinet had gone overseas and where; mentioned that a certain governor of a Brazilian province had not been friendly to the United States; and wound up the day discussing the future of the Indiana dunes.

Buffalo Man Killed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Neil B. Barrett, 65, of Buffalo, was killed Thursday night when he was hit by an automobile in suburban West Seneca.

State GI Killed In Seoul Plunge

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Sgt. Charles M. Conklin, 31, of Wellsburg, N.Y., fell to his death from the sixth floor of a downtown Seoul hotel, the U.S. Army announced today.

Three Korean women employes witnessed the 60-foot fall Thursday at the Astoria Hotel where the sergeant was staying. Police said he suffered head injuries and died soon after.

The army said Conklin's widow lives in Ota, Japan. It said it is conducting an investigation into the death.

Guard Will Take Over Manning of 16 Nike-Hercules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army National Guardsmen will assume the job of manning 16 Nike-Hercules anti-aircraft missile batteries protecting major cities in five states, the Army has announced.

Army regulars will be replaced during the next 16 months at Buffalo-Niagara Falls, Cleveland, Detroit, New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco and in the Washington-Baltimore area.

He pointed out that proposals to buy $100 million in U.N. bonds were before the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee; discussed the future of Okinawa; the nature of free enterprise and the public interest; the record of Congress so far, compared with other years.

He reminded reporters the defense budget was $14 billion in 1950; explained that 140 B70 bombers, costing $10 billion, wouldn't be ready before 1970 or 1971 and that we have 640 B52s.

He ticked off the time schedules of the Polaris, Minuteman and Titan missiles; said we are going to spend $1 billion equipping the B52s with Skybolts; noted by name who in his Cabinet had gone overseas and where; mentioned that a certain governor of a Brazilian province had not been friendly to the United States; and wound up the day discussing the future of the Indiana dunes.

We The Women

How Magic of Marriage Transforms 'Little Woman'

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Did you see the cartoon of the bride and groom driving away from the church with the groom saying in plaintive astonishment: "Up to a half-hour ago I was a thrilling driver. Now, already I'm reckless."?

That's just one of the changes a man can expect marriage to make in his wife's attitudes.

Before marriage she will go along with his talk of adventure—but after marriage her big dream will suddenly be revealed as a split-level house in the suburbs.

Before marriage she will listen wide-eyed to all of his opinions, and not until after marriage will he have to start listening to hers.

Before marriage she will tell him and everyone else how wonderful he is, but after marriage she will not only begin to notice his faults but will start calling attention to them, both in private and in public.

Before marriage she will say "You decide" and "whatever you want to do is all right with me" when they are making plans, but after marriage she will begin to say "I think such-and-such" and have her arguments all lined up in case he doesn't agree.

Before marriage she will talk as though money is a very, very unimportant matter, but after marriage she will soon decide that while money may not buy happiness, it buys an awful lot of other things she thinks are important.

Before marriage she will stick close to the telephone whenever she expects him to call, but after marriage if he wants to catch her at home during the day he may find it is quite a problem.

Before marriage she talks of a "little house" or "tiny apartment" as though there were something appealingly romantic about its very smallness. After marriage she will use "smallness" as the reason why they simply have to look for another place to live.

Early Girl Scouts Had Different Ways But Purpose Is Same

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Fifty years ago the early Girl Scouts were admonished to be womanly. "None of us likes women who ape men" is a rewarding line in the first handbook.

Eighteen and a half million Girl Scouts later the sentiment, if not the sentence, is substantially the same. Hardy hikers and campers though they are, the Girl Scouts who will celebrate the organization's 50th birthday next week are as feminine as teenagers can be.

Back when Juliette Low started the first troop in Savannah, Ga., on March 12, 1912, being womanly included mastery of the graceful art of swooning. But it wasn't all basket-weaving, baby-minding and good deeds for the pioneer scouts. They were expected to know how to shoot in self defense, milk a cow, handle importunate men.

That first 1913 handbook, called "How Girls Can Help Their Country," talked to its tender readers like a Dutch uncle, while teaching them such practical skills as how to secure a burglar with eight inches of cord, check a runaway horse and conduct themselves romantically.

It inveighed against smoking and drinking. It suggested that the "reading of novels unfits one's mind for doing good to others." And in an italcized aside to instructors, it advised: "Keep on a smile, but never let it be a smile of contempt. 'Hate nothing but sin'."

Since those days needs have changed. The rifle marksmanship badge has been dropped, while cow-milking proficiency has become specialized—in the dairying badge, one of 116 the girls can earn now.

From that first dozen Savannah girls membership for girls 7 through 17 has grown to today's 3½ million, including 760,000 adults, 40,000 of them men.

Over the years the uniform has undergone transformation—from the first dark blue middy, through formidable shapes in khaki to the current couture-designed green dress.

But although people, program and apparel have changed, the Girl Scout's purpose has remained constant: To do her duty to God and country, to help other people, to lead a clean, kind, honest life.

Did you see the cartoon of the bride and groom driving away from the church with the groom saying in plaintive astonishment: "Up to a half-hour ago I was a thrilling driver. Now, already I'm reckless."?

That's just one of the changes a man can expect marriage to make in his wife's attitudes.

Before marriage she will go along with his talk of adventure —but after marriage her big dream will suddenly be revealed as a split-level house in the suburbs.

Before marriage she will listen wide-eyed to all of his opinions, and not until after marriage will he have to start listening to hers.

Before marriage she will tell him and everyone else how wonderful he is, but after marriage she will not only begin to notice his faults but will start calling attention to them, both in private and in public.

Before marriage she will say "You decide" and "whatever you want to do is all right with me" when they are making plans, but after marriage she will begin to say "I think such-and-such" and have her arguments all lined up in case he doesn't agree.

Before marriage she will talk as though money is a very, very unimportant matter, but after marriage she will soon decide that while money may not buy happiness, it buys an awful lot of other things she thinks are important.

Before marriage she will stick close to the telephone whenever she expects him to call, but after marriage if he wants to catch her at home during the day he may find it is quite a problem.

Before marriage she talks of a "little house" or "tiny apartment" as though there were something appealingly romantic about its very smallness. After marriage she will use "smallness" as the reason why they simply have to look for another place to live.

Early Girl Scouts Had Different Ways But Purpose Is Same

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Fifty years ago the early Girl Scouts were admonished to be womanly. "None of us likes women who ape men" is a rewarding line in the first handbook.

Eighteen and a half million Girl Scouts later the sentiment, if not the sentence, is substantially the same. Hardy hikers and campers though they are, the Girl Scouts who will celebrate the organization's 50th birthday next week are as feminine as teenagers can be.

Back when Juliette Low started the first troop in Savannah, Ga., on March 12, 1912, being womanly included mastery of the graceful art of swooning. But it wasn't all basket-weaving, baby-minding and good deeds for the pioneer scouts. They were expected to know how to shoot in self defense, milk a cow, handle importunate men.

That first 1913 handbook, called "How Girls Can Help Their Country," talked to its tender readers like a Dutch uncle, while teaching them such practical skills as how to secure a burglar with eight inches of cord, check a runaway horse and conduct themselves romantically.

It inveighed against smoking and drinking. It suggested that the "reading of novels unfits one's mind for doing good to others." And in an italicized aside to instructors, it advised: "Keep on a smile, but never let it be a smile of contempt. 'Hate nothing but sin'."

Since those days needs have changed. The rifle marksmanship badge has been dropped, while cow-milking proficiency has become specialized—in the dairying badge, one of 116 the girls can earn now.

From that first dozen Savannah girls membership for girls 7 through 17 has grown to today's 3½ million, including 760,000 adults, 40,000 of them men.

Over the years the uniform has undergone transformation — from the first dark blue middy, through formidable shapes in khaki to the current couture-designed green dress.

But although people, program and apparel have changed, the Girl Scout's purpose has remained constant: To do her duty to God and country, to help other people, to lead a clean, kind, honest life.

INVITING EMPLOYER TO HER WEDDING

Q: After my wedding I am having a dinner at a club for relatives and friends. I would like to know about inviting my employer and his wife to this dinner. Do you think it would be proper to invite them or do you think they might feel out of place? I have been working for my employer for the past 10 years and both he and his wife have been very kind to me throughout these years. Will you please advise me concerning this matter.

A: Tell your employer that you have not sent them an invitation to your wedding but that if by any happy chance he and his wife would like to come it will be a very great pleasure to send them one immediately.

Q: I have been living in this community only six months. My neighbor and I speak whenever we meet out front. In fact, every now and again we have very pleasant conversations but she has never come to see me and I in turn have never felt that it was right for me to call on her since I am the newcomer in this neighborhood. She has just lost her mother who lived on the other side of town and whom I had never met. What can I do to show some feeling and yet not overstep the bounds of good taste?

A: Send her some flowers with your visiting card on which you write, "With deepest sympathy." If you do not have a visiting card, write the same message on a plain card and sign it Mary Smith.

Q: My son and his fiance have set the date for their wedding plans with me. Shouldn't I be consulted about these before final arrangements are made?

A: The bride's parents tell the groom's parents how many guests they may ask to the ceremony and the reception and invite this number of persons from a list supplied by the latter. The bride's parents are, however, solely responsible for every detail of the wedding and reception and need not consult the groom's family who are their honored guests.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Parents Are Just Plain Disappointing to Children

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

My 16-month-old baby wants constant attention. He climbs up on my sewing machine, on end tables, the washer — anything. He won't play with a toy for more than 10 minutes. He fools with his food and laughs when I say to stop. My husband says I get after him too much but I can't play with him all the time. Yet he expects it and gets uncontrollable if I don't. . . .

ANSWER: You are clearly a disappointing parent to your baby boy.

However, no parent can possibly gratify all his children's expectations of him, so disappointing parents are the only kind there are.

I don't know whether you can take this in. I hope you can because I feel that your distress is due to your high-minded refusal to come to terms with yourself as an inevitably disappointing mother.

Oh, it's such a fine thing to accept oneself as a disappointment to children! You see, the very moment we can do this, we can laugh instead of scolding. We can say:

"No sir! — not on my sewing machine! But here on the kitchen table — yes! There you are! Now watch me squeeze apples through this sieve! See, they're turning into applesauce. Here's a spoon. Now scrape the applesauce off the sieve—like this. . ."

But if we cannot be a contentedly disappointing mother, then our baby can drive us quietly crazy. We feel an almost tearful sense of relief when he's napping and finally put to bed at night. We live in dread of when he wakes.

When we play ball with him in the yard, we play resentfully instead of happily, waiting as we are in apprehension of what he'll do when the time comes to say: "That's enough now. I've got to get supper."

So what happens is that we never really play with the child at all just as we may never be able to really deliver ourselves to housework when he is asleep. We are so inwardly harassed by self-condemnation for the past disappointments we have inflicted on him and fear of punishment for inflicting future ones that only a very small and boring fraction of us is actually ever available to the child.

No wonder he demands attention. The kind he gets is leftover.

I don't know what you're going to do about this fear of disappointing. But I can assure you that your baby has nothing to do with it. Such a fear has been with us for a long, long time. Babies just force us to face it.

Instead of worrying about how this small son is going to afflict you for refusing him what he wants when he wants it, you might start wondering how and why you got commissioned to establish for your child heaven on earth where the rest of us disappoint children all the time.

Bid Seems to Be Desperate

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A St. Paul player writes, "Here is a hand that caused a lot of excitement in one of our weekly duplicates. East and West can make five hearts and South can make four spades. The bidding started out with a heart opening by West and a jump to three hearts by East. Most South players jumped right to four spades. Some were allowed to play it undoubled while some West players went to five hearts. In all those cases South went on to five spades and wound up going down one double. I simply bid three spades and then four and was rewarded with a top score when East doubled me. I was also rewarded by a lot of criticism by West who said I was too lucky. How should the hand have been bid?"

I agree with West that South was lucky, but he contributed materially to his own good luck. With nine cold tricks in his own hand and two singletons South really expected to make four spades. Other South players gave their hands away by jumping right to game, but this South bid like a man who was defending desperately. East fell into his trap, doubled and South got a top score.

Another way to bid the South hand would have been to pass the first time and bid four spades after West went on to four hearts. This would have looked even more desperate.

INVITING EMPLOYER TO HER WEDDING

Q: After my wedding I am having a dinner at a club for relatives and friends. I would like to know about inviting my employer and his wife to this dinner. Do you think it would be proper to invite them or do you think they might feel out of place? I have been working for my employer for the past 10 years and both he and his wife have been very kind to me throughout these years. Will you please advise me concerning this matter.

A: Tell your employer that you have not sent them an invitation to your wedding but that if by any happy chance he and his wife would like to come it will be a very great pleasure to send them one immediately.

Q: I have been living in this community only six months. My neighbor and I speak whenever we meet out front. In fact, every now and again we have very pleasant conversations but she has never come to see me and I in turn have never felt that it was right for me to call on her since I am the newcomer in this neighborhood. She has just lost her mother who lived on the other side of town and whom I had never met. What can I do to show some feeling and yet not overstep the bounds of good taste?

A: Send her some flowers with your visiting card on which you write, "With deepest sympathy." If you do not have a visiting card, write the same message on a plain card and sign it Mary Smith.

Q: My son and his fiance have set the date for their wedding plans with me. Shouldn't I be consulted about these before final arrangements are made?

A: The bride's parents tell the groom's parents how many guests they may ask to the ceremony and the reception and invite this number of persons from a list supplied by the latter. The bride's parents are, however, solely responsible for every detail of the wedding and reception and need not consult the groom's family who are their honored guests.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Parents Are Just Plain Disappointing to Children

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

My 16-month-old baby wants constant attention. He climbs up on my sewing machine, on end tables, the washer — anything. He won't play with a toy for more than 10 minutes. He fools with his food and laughs when I say to stop. My husband says I get after him too much but I can't play with him all the time. Yet he expects it and gets uncontrollable if I don't. . . .

ANSWER: You are clearly a disappointing parent to your baby boy.

However, no parent can possibly gratify all his children's expectations of him, so disappointing parents are the only kind there are.

I don't know whether you can take this in. I hope you can because I feel that your distress is due to your high-minded refusal to come to terms with yourself as an inevitably disappointing mother.

Oh, it's such a fine thing to accept oneself as a disappointment to children! You see, the very moment we can do this, we can laugh instead of scolding. We can say:

"No sir! — not on my sewing machine! But here on the kitchen table — yes! There you are! Now watch me squeeze apples through this sieve! See, they're turning into applesauce. Here's a spoon. Now scrape the applesauce off the sieve—like this. . ."

But if we cannot be a contentedly disappointing mother, then our baby can drive us quietly crazy. We feel an almost tearful sense of relief when he's napping and finally put to bed at night. We live in dread of when he wakes.

When we play ball with him in the yard, we play resentfully instead of happily, waiting as we are in apprehension of what he'll do when the time comes to say: "That's enough now. I've got to get supper."

So what happens is that we never really play with the child at all just as we may never be able to really deliver ourselves to housework when he is asleep. We are so inwardly harassed by self-condemnation for the past disappointments we have inflicted on him and fear of punishment for inflicting future ones that only a very small and boring fraction of us is actually ever available to the child.

No wonder he demands attention. The kind he gets is leftover.

I don't know what you're going to do about this fear of disappointing. But I can assure you that your baby has nothing to do with it. Such a fear has been with us for a long, long time. Babies just force us to face it.

Instead of worrying about how this small son is going to afflict you for refusing him what he wants when he wants it, you might start wondering how and why you got commissioned to establish for your child heaven on earth where the rest of us disappoint children all the time.

Bid Seems to Be Desperate

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A St. Paul player writes, "Here is a hand that caused a lot of excitement in one of our weekly duplicates. East and West can make five hearts and South can make four spades. The bidding started out with a heart opening by West and a jump to three hearts by East. Most South players jumped right to four spades. Some were allowed to play it undoubled while some West players went to five hearts. In all those cases South went on to five spades and wound up going down one double. I simply bid three spades and then four and was rewarded with a top score when East doubled me. I was also rewarded by a lot of criticism by West who said I was too lucky. How should the hand have been bid?"

I agree with West that South was lucky, but he contributed materially to his own good luck. With nine cold tricks in his own hand and two singletons South really expected to make four spades. Other South players gave their hands away by jumping right to game, but this South bid like a man who was defending desperately. East fell into his trap, doubled and South got a top score.

Another way to bid the South hand would have been to pass the first time and bid four spades after West went on to four hearts. This would have looked even more desperate.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A series which may achieve the distinction of the year's worst and certainly the one with the loudest laugh track had its premiere Thursday night on CBS.

The name of the series — and don't say you haven't been warned—is "Oh! Those Bells."

Starring a trio called the Wiere brothers, it arrived as a replacement for the disappointing New Bob Cummings Show. The Bob Cummings show wasn't exactly a laugh riot, but compared with the hapless bells it was a blue-white, glass-cutting gem of comedy.

From the opening moment when the stuffed head of the moose caught one Wiere by the seat of the pants to the hilarious climax when the boss was accidentally hit on the head by a golf club, it was one long maladroit bore.

Later in the evening, CBS resumed its gingerly treatment of the conservative political movement, begun two weeks ago on "CBS Reports."

The 30-minute program was billed as a searching closeup of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater. It was really just an interview with the Republican leader by reporter Eric Severeid.

Sen. Goldwater answered a string of questions permitting him to explain his many beliefs and attitudes. Most of these boiled down to a diminution of federal powers, with greater authority returning to local, municipal and state government.

Jinx Falkenburg, who does the commercials on NBC's "Theatre '62" dramatic specials, has twice demonstrated how effective are her sponsor's washing and drying machines by donning a white beret-type hat which, she explains, has been laundered five times.

The chapeau, whipped up especially by milliner Sally Victor and put through five certified washings and dryings, brought an outpouring of admiring letters from (feminine) viewers when it was first shown. Jinx, figuring that was the end of the commercial, sent the hat to the author of the first letter with hers and the sponsor's compliments.

Then it was decided to do the hat-trick again. Sally Victor got an emergency call, produced a copy of the hat. Then Jinx gave it away again—to the wife of a man connected with the show.

Now it has been decided to do the hat trick still a third time—during "The Paradine Case" show Sunday night. A special courier was dispatched Thursday to Connecticut to retrieve the beret—presumably for more laundering before air time.

"From now on," said Jinx, "I'll hang on to my hat."

Tonight—"Milton Berle Show," NBC, 9:30-10:30 (Eastern Standard Time) -- with Jack Benny, Lena Horne, Laurence Harvey and Janis Paige.

Saturday — "Thresholds for Tomorrow," NBC, 7:30-8:30—last of three-part science series.

Sunday—Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic, CBS, 5-6:30 p.m.—Bizet's "Carmen"; "The Paradine Case," NBC, 10-11 —with Boris Karloff, Richard Basehart and Viveca Lindfors.

Makes Dough

SWEETIE PIE — By Nadine Seltzer

"Pop doesn't need money! He has a wallet full of credit cards!"

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass — This question briefly is: Should we buy the most popular stocks, or should we buy those in little demand?

Probably drug stocks are the most popular today. This is the time of year when so many are sneezing and your favorite drugstore is doing its best business. Also life insurance stocks are always attractive. Everyone is striving to live longer; while the doctors, the hospitals, and the government are helping them to. Consequently, life insurance stocks are high, and hence pay the smallest cash yield of all groups. Investors do not want to sell their life insurance stocks, especially as the companies constantly declare "stock dividends," which investors like. They pay no taxes upon these until they sell the stock received.

Other popular stocks are those of companies making office equipment, due to the scarcity of good office help. This scarcity is the result of older, efficient workers coming into Social Security. If President Kennedy has his way, this will be increased to further help the aged, the ill, and other unfortunates. Companies selling food are also popular. Everyone must eat, and most people like the great new self-service food markets which are becoming a social center where you meet your friends. Of course, the stocks of these food chains are high; but the population is constantly growing. It may reach 200,000,000 in five years.

BOUGHT FOR SPECULATION

These are primarily the "electronic and space" issues of companies getting U.S. defense contracts. I do not like these, even though they are much lower in price than they were a while ago. Sometime this nuclear weapons race will end. I do not not even expect that any readers of my column will see "world disarmament." This is silly to even talk about now. But the use of atomic and hydrogen bombs to destroy cities will be controlled, especially before China gets them. As this is generally recognized, these stocks will lose their present unjustified glamour.

Unpopular common stocks are the railroads, the cement companies, the coppers and other metals. I would keep out of railroad stocks (bonds are different); but the world surplus of metals is constantly becoming less. This, in a way, applies to the making of aluminum. To make aluminum there must be cheap and abundant electric power such as exists in Africa. I like to buy copper stocks when they are cheap. The "beams" to and from satellites may someday reduce the demand for copper; but these beams and the universal use of microwaves are long years ahead.

Politics vs. New Ideas

The newspapers devote many columns to politics, and we are inclined to overestimate the importance of politics as our investment statistics show that there is little correlation between politics and the stock market. My readers had far better study the new ideas being developed, such as "fuel cells," "new adhesives," and "foods from cellulose." New developments now in test tubes and on drawing boards have great profit possibilities.

Moreover, history shows that it does not require much capital to start a company with only an "idea." But it requires great patience and persistence. Mr. Clinton Woods of 2803 Goodwood Road, Baltimore 14, Maryland, has recently published a book showing that 200 of today's biggest companies started without capital. It is important to young people who are willing to work and who have the patience to wait. I have given away over 100 of these books to help the right people, although they can be bought from Mr. Woods. These books are the best investment that I know of for anyone who doesn't want to pay out more than $5.75 (postpaid).

(Next week I will discuss in my column corporation bonds, municipal bonds, U. S. Savings Bonds, savings bank deposits, and preferred stocks).

Channel Chatter

Uncle Miltie May Be Back on Video

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— The television viewer may feel like Rip Van Winkle next season as he watches Lucille Ball, Jackie Gleason, Loretta Young, Sid Caesar and Roy Rogers return to the air with weekly shows.

Those returnees may be joined by Mister Television himself: Milton Berle.

"The network has been talking to me about it," said Berle of his parent (or is it partner?), NBC.

"I'll admit I'm interested. In fact, I have been thinking about an idea for the last two or three years. It would combine the elements of the old Tuesday night show with an entirely different factor. I can't say now what that factor is, or it'd be on the air tomorrow.

"The main thing I want is the proper time slot. I don't mean it has to be a surefire time; there's no such thing any more. But I don't want to be stuck with an impossible time, as I was with 10:30 Mondays on 'Jackpot Bowling.' It was a good show, but I myself recommended that the sponsor cancel. You can't build a rating at that hour."

Berle's announcement that he's thinking of returning to regular TV may or may not be occasioned by the fact that he is doing a special on NBC tonight.

Berle reminisced about those fine, frantic days when television was young and so were we.

"You wouldn't believe how we put the shows together in those days," he said.

"I paid Pearl Bailey $150, Senor Wences $100. Why, the whole show —talent, technicians and air time —came to $12,000.

"You know what this special tonight costs? Half a million. And that doesn't include air time."

Protect Animals

Editor, The Freeman:

Our representatives in Congress and State Legislatures enacted laws permitting use of animals for science but provided them no protection against abuse and torture.

Humane people are shocked by the fact that animals are made to suffer horribly in the name of "medical science." It has been established by evidence collected by the Humane Society of the United States that dogs, cats, monkeys, etc. are being burned, beaten, crushed, scalded, suffocated, chained and imprisoned for years in small dark cages in which they die slow miserable deaths.

Anesthetics are not always used in extremely agonizing experiments. We have reached the point where those of us with conscience are unable to sleep realizing the torture that thousands of animals are suffering.

A bill by Rep. Morgan Moulder of Missouri to eliminate the worst of this cruelty is now before Congress. The Moulder Bill has been endorsed by the Humane Society of the United States, Washington, D. C., the National Humane Education Society and scores of national and state societies.

This bill is designed to reduce the number of animals used; to insure anesthesia is provided for all painful experiments and administered only by licensed doctors; to painlessly kill immediately animals which would suffer prolonged pain; to provide adequate post-surgical pain-relieving care; to provide comfortable housing, good food and humane treatment.

Every good citizen should write to his Senators and Congressmen requesting them to work and vote for the Moulder Bill (H.R. 3556-including amendment to remove the anesthesia exemption).

Brunettes should be particularly careful about the hair style they choose. Because of its bold darkness, their hair will attract the eye immediately and should be expertly styled at all times.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) -- A series which may achieve the distinction of the year's worst and certainly the one with the loudest laugh track had its premiere Thursday night on CBS.

The name of the series -- and don't say you haven't been warned--is "Oh! Those Bells."

Starring a trio called the Wiere brothers, it arrived as a replacement for the disappointing New Bob Cummings Show. The Bob Cummings show wasn't exactly a laugh riot, but compared with the hapless bells it was a blue-white, glass-cutting gem of comedy.

From the opening moment when the stuffed head of the moose caught one Wiere by the seat of the pants to the hilarious climax when the boss was accidentally hit on the head by a golf club, it was one long maladroit bore.

Later in the evening, CBS resumed its gingerly treatment of the conservative political movement, begun two weeks ago on "CBS Reports."

The 30-minute program was billed as a searching closeup of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater. It was really just an interview with the Republican leader by reporter Eric Severeid.

Sen. Goldwater answered a string of questions permitting him to explain his many beliefs and attitudes. Most of these boiled down to a diminution of federal powers, with greater authority returning to local, municipal and state government.

Jinx Falkenburg, who does the commercials on NBC's "Theatre '62" dramatic specials, has twice demonstrated how effective are her sponsor's washing and drying machines by donning a white beret-type hat which, she explains, has been laundered five times.

The chapeau, whipped up especially by milliner Sally Victor and put through five certified washings and dryings, brought an outpouring of admiring letters from (feminine) viewers when it was first shown. Jinx, figuring that was the end of the commercial, sent the hat to the author of the first letter with hers and the sponsor's compliments.

Then it was decided to do the hat-trick again. Sally Victor got an emergency call, produced a copy of the hat. Then Jinx gave it away again--to the wife of a man connected with the show.

Now it has been decided to do the hat trick still a third time--during "The Paradine Case" show Sunday night. A special courier was dispatched Thursday to Connecticut to retrieve the beret--presumably for more laundering before air time.

"From now on," said Jinx, "I'll hang on to my hat."

Tonight--"Milton Berle Show," NBC, 9:30-10:30 (Eastern Standard Time) -- with Jack Benny, Lena Horne, Laurence Harvey and Janis Paige.

Saturday -- "Thresholds for Tomorrow," NBC, 7:30-8:30--last of three-part science series.

Sunday--Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic, CBS, 5-6:30 p.m.--Bizet's "Carmen"; "The Paradine Case," NBC, 10-11 -- with Boris Karloff, Richard Basehart and Viveca Lindfors.

Makes Dough

NEW YORK (AP)--John A. Coe is making more money as a painter than an actor. At each performance of "The Apple," an avant garde drama at the Living Theater, Coe splashes oil colors upon a plastic panel and flattens the mixture with a rolling pin. It is part of his portrayal of a beatnik artist. During the intermission, Coe's nightly free-form abstraction is auctioned off. All but three have been sold at prices ranging from $12 to $90. His weekly pay as an actor is $45.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass — This question briefly is: Should we buy the most popular stocks, or should we buy those in little demand?

Probably drug stocks are the most popular today. This is the time of year when so many are sneezing and your favorite drugstore is doing its best business. Also life insurance stocks are always attractive. Everyone is striving to live longer; while the doctors, the hospitals, and the government are helping them to. Consequently, life insurance stocks are high, and hence pay the smallest cash yield of all groups. Investors do not want to sell their life insurance stocks, especially as the companies constantly declare "stock dividends," which investors like. They pay no taxes upon these until they sell the stock received.

Other popular stocks are those of companies making office equipment, due to the scarcity of good office help. This scarcity is the result of older, efficient workers coming into Social Security. If President Kennedy has his way, this will be increased to further help the aged, the ill, and other unfortunates. Companies selling food are also popular. Everyone must eat, and most people like the great new self-service food markets which are becoming a social center where you meet your friends. Of course, the stocks of these food chains are high; but the population is constantly growing. It may reach 200,000,000 in five years.

BOUGHT FOR SPECULATION

These are primarily the "electronic and space" issues of companies getting U.S. defense contracts. I do not like these, even though they are much lower in price than they were a while ago. Sometime this nuclear weapons race will end. I do not not even expect that any readers of my column will see "world disarmament." This is silly to even talk about now. But the use of atomic and hydrogen bombs to destroy cities will be controlled, especially before China gets them. As this is generally recognized, these stocks will lose their present unjustified glamour.

Unpopular common stocks are the railroads, the cement companies, the coppers and other metals. I would keep out of railroad stocks (bonds are different); but the world surplus of metals is constantly becoming less. This, in a way, applies to the making of aluminum. To make aluminum there must be cheap and abundant electric power such as exists in Africa. I like to buy copper stocks when they are cheap. The "beams" to and from satellites may someday reduce the demand for copper; but these beams and the universal use of microwaves are long years ahead.

Politics vs. New Ideas

The newspapers devote many columns to politics, and we are inclined to overestimate the importance of politics as our investment statistics show that there is little correlation between politics and the stock market. My readers had far better study the new ideas being developed, such as "fuel cells," "new adhesives," and "foods from cellulose." New developments now in test tubes and on drawing boards have great profit possibilities.

Moreover, history shows that it does not require much capital to start a company with only an "idea." But it requires great patience and persistence. Mr. Clinton Woods of 2803 Goodwood Road, Baltimore 14, Maryland, has recently published a book showing that 200 of today's biggest companies started without capital. It is important to young people who are willing to work and who have the patience to wait. I have given away over 100 of these books to help the right people, although they can be bought from Mr. Woods. These books are the best investment that I know of for anyone who doesn't want to pay out more than $5.75 (postpaid).

(Next week I will discuss in my column corporation bonds, municipal bonds, U. S. Savings Bonds, savings bank deposits, and preferred stocks).

Channel Chatter

Uncle Miltie May Be Back on Video

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— The television viewer may feel like Rip Van Winkle next season as he watches Lucille Ball, Jackie Gleason, Loretta Young, Sid Caesar and Roy Rogers return to the air with weekly shows.

Those returnees may be joined by Mister Television himself: Milton Berle.

"The network has been talking to me about it," said Berle of his parent (or is it partner?), NBC.

"I'll admit I'm interested. In fact, I have been thinking about an idea for the last two or three years. It would combine the elements of the old Tuesday night show with an entirely different factor. I can't say now what that factor is, or it'd be on the air tomorrow.

"The main thing I want is the proper time slot. I don't mean it has to be a surefire time; there's no such thing any more. But I don't want to be stuck with an impossible time, as I was with 10:30 Mondays on 'Jackpot Bowling.' It was a good show, but I myself recommended that the sponsor cancel. You can't build a rating at that hour."

Berle's announcement that he's thinking of returning to regular TV may or may not be occasioned by the fact that he is doing a special on NBC tonight.

Berle reminisced about those fine, frantic days when television was young and so were we.

"You wouldn't believe how we put the shows together in those days," he said.

"I paid Pearl Bailey $150, Senor Wences $100. Why, the whole show --talent, technicians and air time --came to $12,000.

"You know what this special tonight costs? Half a million. And that doesn't include air time."

Protect Animals

Editor, The Freeman:

Our representatives in Congress and State Legislatures enacted laws permitting use of animals for science but provided them no protection against abuse and torture.

Humane people are shocked by the fact that animals are made to suffer horribly in the name of "medical science." It has been established by evidence collected by the Humane Society of the United States that dogs, cats, monkeys, etc. are being burned, beaten, crushed, scalded, suffocated, chained and imprisoned for years in small dark cages in which they die slow miserable deaths.

Anesthetics are not always used in extremely agonizing experiments. We have reached the point where those of us with conscience are unable to sleep realizing the torture that thousands of animals are suffering.

A bill by Rep. Morgan Moulder of Missouri to eliminate the worst of this cruetly is now before Congress. The Moulder Bill has been endorsed by the Humane Society o f the United States, Washington, D. C., the National Humane Education Society and scores of national and state societies.

This bill is designed to reduce the number of animals used; to insure anesthesia is provided for all painful experiments and administered only by licensed doctors; to painlessly kill immediately animals which would suffer prolonged pain; to provide adequate post-surgical pain-relieving care; to provide comfortable housing, good food and humane treatment.

Every good citizen should write to his Senators and Congressmen requesting them to work and vote for the Moulder Bill (H.R. 3556-including amendment to remove the anesthesia exemption).

Kingston Native Observes Birthday At Post in Turkey

ANKARA, TURKEY — Lt. Col. Ruel H. Lewis, Deputy Post Commander, Kaiserlautern Military Post, on official leave traveled approximately 3,000 miles to Ankara, Turkey from West Germany to extend birthday greetings to the first commander he served under in the early days of his Army career.

The "Boss" as Lewis refers to him, is former all around athlete and football star at West Point Major General Edwin J. Messinger of Kingston, chief, Joint U.S. Military Mission for Aid to Turkey (JUSMMAT).

Lewis upon learning of a surprise pre-birthday party to be held in Ankara on February 25 for Gen. Messinger, by members of the Army Section, JUSMMAT, decided to take leave from his official duties and attend.

Their first meeting took place in 1936 when Col. Lewis, as a private and Gen. Messinger, as lieutenant, were assigned to the 15th Infantry Regiment in Tientsin, China.

Their friendship grew and subsequent assignments found two friends serving tours of duty on the same posts and with the same units. In 1950 they fought in Korea with the 23rd Infantry Regiment, 2d Infantry Division.

There Gen. Messinger commanded the regiment through some of the bitterest fighting of that conflict. In 1953-54 they again served in Japan and Korea with the 24th Infantry Division. Gen. Messinger was assistant division commander at that time.

The two friends had several days in Ankara to discuss old times and places. Gen. Messinger commands the Joint U. S. Military Aid Mission to Turkey which supervises the vast U. S. military aid program to the Turkish Ground, Naval and Air Forces.

Gen. Messinger, a native of Kingston, is the brother of Alfred Messinger of Andrew Street, here. A Kingston High School and U. S. Military Academy graduate, he later became commandant of cadets at West Point. He was an outstanding athlete at both schools starring as an end for Kingston and West Point football teams. His wife, the former Emily Nelson, and son, Edwin Jr., 14, are with him in Turkey. The Messingers also have two married daughters, Claire and Diane.

Water Meters Installed in Village Test

At the recent village board meeting, Mayor L. G. DeFelicis reported that water meters have been installed for testing in two homes within the village. After a given period, a meeting will be held with the Water Board to determine whether to amend the present resolution, or make a new resolution providing for the installation of water meters in all buildings used for business and commercial enterprises.

Active Hose ompany 1, Rosendale, submitted its list of officers and trustees elected at their January meeting:

Anthony Erceg, president; John Boyle, vice president; George Fisher, treasurer; Joseph LaFera, secretary; Robert Markle, fire chief; Arthur Mulligan, first assistant chief; Eric Reich, first captain; Eugene Mulligan, second captain; Martin Joyce, first lieutenant; Robert Frisch, second lieutenant; Morris Crookston, fire police chief; Joseph Reid, trustee for three years.

Fire company also submitted a list of articles needed for the coming year, which the village board will consider at the budget hearing, to be announced next month.

Election Day is Tuesday, March 20, between the hours of 5 p. m. and 9 p. m. in the Village Room at the firehouse. Election will be held for the office of trustee for a two year term.

Mayor DeFelicis requested residents in the village to leave refuse containers in view of the refuse collectors. When they are placed in back of drifts and large deposits of plowed snow, the collector is unable to notice them, therefore, no pick-up is made.

According to Section 163, Village Law, Snow and Ice on Sidewalks—The Board of Trustees may require the owners or occupants of land fronting on sidewalks to keep them clean of snow and ice, and upon default, may cause such sidewalk to be cleaned and assess the expense thereon upon such adjoining land, or may cause the sidewalks on any street or portion thereon to be kept clean of snow or ice, and assess the expense upon the adjoining land. All property owners or tenants are hereby requested to comply with the above law. Failure to do so will be done by the village and assessed to the property."

The people of the village are not expected to immediately re-shovel their sidewalks during hard snows like those of last month, but they are expected to comply with Section 163 of the Village Law, it was noted.

A letter of appreciation is being forwarded to Roland Greene, county superintendent of highways, for the excellent service in the removal of snow off Main Street.

The village parking lot has been cleared for the convenience of residents.

H. Schimmerling On Education

The Israeli government reports (Year Book 1960/61, page 151, bulletin of the Ministry of Education): "In several classes, studies were extended for one month into summer vacation to enable pupils to attain the required standard."

Would this be possible here without arousing a storm of indignation? Some of our parents don't even mind that their children lose one school day because Washington's Birthday was on a Thursday. Saturday is no school, so why not stay at home Friday, too? And when the roads are slippery at 8 a. m., but might be alright at 10 or 11, schools will be closed for the entire day just the same. Since some parents like to take their children on vacation between Thanksgiving Day the preceding Sunday, some schools close on Friday before that Sunday, "because so many students are not coming to school anyway."

Dr. A. Burke seems to agree with Howard K. Smith that neither missiles nor any physical weapon will be decisive for the outcome of the cold war in, let us say, 15 years from now. I imagine you know about that widely discussed book, "What Ivan Knows and Johnny Doesn't" from which we could learn that little Ivan in the third grade has a vocabulary of 8,000 words compared with Johnny's 1000; that Ivan is four years ahead in history; that ten million Russians study English whereas only 50,000 Americans study Russian, etc.

With respect to the subject of Foreign Languages, which this writer has stressed with almost obtrusive stubborness during the last 10 years, Howard K. Smith quoted: "In America 25 per cent do a little. In Russia, 100 per cent do a lot." One single attempt was made in a rural community in New York State to persuade school authorities to include a foreign language in the elementary school curriculum. The parents' delegation was dismissed with the promise "we shall see what we can do." And this was the last that was heard about it. Smith concluded: Education is the ultimate weapon that will decide the cold war."

Hence our testing grounds are not only Cape Canaveral, the Nevada desert and Christmas Island, but the classrooms of our schools. The manufacturers of our most effective weapons are the best teachers and those parents who demand more and better education for their children.

The other day somebody said: We are not so far behind after all," referring to our recent success in space. The danger is that this success might lull us into self-contentment. We have no time to rest on our laurels. As the sputnik once aroused us and was a stimulent for our scientists, John Glenn's flight into orbit will be a stimulent for the other side. Perhaps it is true that "we are not so far behind after all' with regard to our space and other programs. But where we actually are behind without doubt was said above and previously on many other occasions, not only by this writer and in this column but by a score of faithful Americans all over the country . . . H. A. SCHIMMERLING.

Writer Workshop Sessions Will Open on June 27

The fourth annual series of Hudson Valley regional writers' worshops will open at the Colony Arts Center in Woodstock on June 27.

The theme of the workshop continues to be "Writing As a Business." The workshop will be conducted by Bill Newgold, newspaper columnist and author of "Newgold's Guide to Modern Hobbies, Arts and Crafts." He is also proprietor of the rapidly expanding Colony Arts Center.

An expanded program this year will offer writers more individual instruction, manuscript anaylsis and discussion in their specialized fields. Each week during the season, with the exception of the weekend following July 4, a new three-day session will be devoted to one field of writing from the concept and development of ideas to problems of marketing and copyright. The short story, playwrighting, newspaper and magazine articles, professional, business and technical writing; juveniles, as well as a general survey of all writing fields will be included in the schedule.

The workshop is open to published and unpublished authors. Each writer attending may submit a manuscript or current writing project for analysis.

Sessions will start June 27, July 11, 18, 25, and August 1, 8, 15, 22, 29. There is a nominal fee charge for attendance at any three-day workshop. There are additional fees for manuscript analysis.

Persons interested in detailed information about courses, rates, accommodations and travel facilities are asked to write: Program Director, Colony Arts Center, 22 Rock City Road, Woodstock.

Third Concert Sunday At Kleinert Hall

The third concert of the Woodstock Winter Festival Series will feature Paul Jacobs, pianist, who will perform a Sonata by Schubert, a book of Debussy preludes and various other works.

Jacobs is the official pianist for the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and has given two New York recitals at Town Hall this season. He is especially noted for his extraordinary grasp of the most challenging works of the contemporary repertoire.

The concert will be held at the Kleinert Hall on Sunday, March 11, at 3 p. m.

Wonderful Display Of Individual Kindness

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Van Wagonen of Bearsville, proprietors of the Bearsville store which was destroyed by fire recently, have asked us to print the following letter:

"Would you be so good as to print this letter of heartfelt thanks to all the Woodstock fire companies, the West Hurley Fire Company who stood by, and to the many people of this community who showed us so much kindness and went far out of their way to help us during our recent difficulties. This wonderful display of individual kindness came not only from friends but also from people we hardly knew.

"It is impossible to go through an experience of this kind without feeling a renewed faith in mankind in general and a particular pride in being part of this wonderful community of Woodstock township. . . . Virgil and Louise Van Wagenen."

Oil Executive's Will Favors Widow, Sister

NEW YORK (AP)—Oil executive W. Alton Jones, who was killed last week in the crash of an American Airlines jet near Idlewild Airport, left half of his large estate to his widow.

The will, admitted to probate Thursday in Surrogate' Court, did not disclose Jones' net worth.

Jones, the board chairman of Cities Service Oil Co. Inc., was buried at Lake Placid, where he was a summer resident.

He bequeathed to his widow, Mrs. Nettie Marie Jones of Easton Md., personal property, art objects, $100,000 and the income from half of his estate. He left $100,000 also to a sister, Mrs. Eva T. Williams of Webb City, Mo.

Jones, 70, was carrying more than $61,000 in cash and travelers checks when he died. He was on his way to the West Coast to join former President Eisenhower for a fishing trip.

And when the roads are slippery at 8 a. m., but might be alright at 10 or 11, schools will be closed for the entire day just the same. Since some parents like to take their children on vacation between Thanksgiving Day the preceding Sunday, some schools close on Friday before that Sunday, "because so many students are not coming to school anyway."

Dr. A. Burke seems to agree with Howard K. Smith that neither missiles nor any physical weapon will be decisive for the outcome of the cold war in, let us say, 15 years from now. I imagine you know about that widely discussed book, "What Ivan Knows and Johnny Doesn't" from which we could learn that little Ivan in the third grade has a vocabulary of 8,000 words compared with Johnny's 1000; that Ivan is four years ahead in history; that ten million Russians study English whereas only 50,000 Americans study Russian, etc.

With respect to the subject of Foreign Languages, which this writer has stressed with almost obtrusive stubborness during the last 10 years, Howard K. Smith quoted: "In America 25 per cent do a little. In Russia, 100 per cent do a lot." One single attempt was made in a rural community in New York State to persuade school authorities to include a foreign language in the elementary school curriculum. The parents' delegation was dismissed with the promise "we shall see what we can do." And this was the last that was heard about it. Smith concluded: Education is the ultimate weapon that will decide the cold war."

Hence our testing grounds are not only Cape Canaveral, the Nevada desert and Christmas Island, but the classrooms of our schools. The manufacturers of our most effective weapons are the best teachers and those parents who demand more and better education for their children.

The other day somebody said: We are not so far behind after all," referring to our recent success in space. The danger is that this success might lull us into self-contentment. We have no time to rest on our laurels. As the sputnik once aroused us and was a stimulent for our scientists, John Glenn's flight into orbit will be a stimulent for the other side. Perhaps it is true that "we are not so far behind after all' with regard to our space and other programs. But where we actually are behind without doubt was said above and previously on many other occasions, not only by this writer and in this column but by a score of faithful Americans all over the country . . .H. A. SCHIMMERLING.

Wonderful Display Of Individual Kindness

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Van Wagonen of Bearsville, proprietors of the Bearsville store which was destroyed by fire recently, have asked us to print the following letter:

"Would you be so good as to print this letter of heartfelt thanks to all the Woodstock fire companies, the West Hurley Fire Company who stood by, and to the many people of this community who showed us so much kindness and went far out of their way to help us during our recent difficulties. This wonderful display of individual kindness came not only from friends but also from people we hardly knew.

"It is impossible to go through an experience of this kind without feeling a renewed faith in mankind in general and a particular pride in being part of this wonderful community of Woodstock township. . . ., Virgil and Louise Van Wagenen."

Oil Executive's Will Favors Widow, Sister

NEW YORK (AP)—Oil executive W. Alton Jones, who was killed last week in the crash of an American Airlines jet near Idlewild Airport, left half of his large estate to his widow.

The will, admitted to probate Thursday in Surrogate' Court, did not disclose Jones' net worth.

Jones, the board chairman of Cities Service Oil Co. Inc., was buried at Lake Placid, where he was a summer resident.

He bequeathed to his widow, Mrs. Nettie Marie Jones of Easton Md., personal property, art objects, $100,000 and the income from half of his estate. He left $100,000 also to a sister, Mrs. Eva T. Williams of Webb City, Mo.

Jones, 70, was carrying more than $61,000 in cash and travelers checks when he died. He was on his way to the West Coast to join former President Eisenhower for a fishing trip.

Water Meters Installed in Village Test

At the recent village board meeting, Mayor L. G. DeFelicis reported that water meters have been installed for testing in two homes within the village. After a given period, a meeting will be held with the Water Board to determine whether to amend the present resolution, or make a new resolution providing for the installation of water meters in all buildings used for business and commercial enterprises.

Active Hose ompany 1, Rosendale, submitted its list of officers and trustees elected at their January meeting:

Anthony Erceg, president; John Boyle, vice president; George Fisher, treasurer; Joseph LaFera, secretary; Robert Markle, fire chief; Arthur Mulligan, first assistant chief; Eric Reich, first captain; Eugene Mulligan, second captain; Martin Joyce, first lieutenant; Robert Frisch, second lieutenant; Morris Crookston, fire police chief; Joseph Reid, trustee for three years.

Fire company also submitted a list of articles needed for the coming year, which the village board will consider at the budget hearing, to be announced next month.

Election Day is Tuesday, March 20, between the hours of 5 p. m. and 9 p. m. in the Village Room at the firehouse. Election will be held for the office of trustee for a two year term.

Mayor DeFelicis requested residents in the village to leave refuse containers in view of the refuse collectors. When they are placed in back of drifts and large deposits of plowed snow, the collector is unable to notice them, therefore, no pick-up is made.

According to Section 163, Village Law, Snow and Ice on Sidewalks—The Board of Trustees may require the owners or occupants of land fronting on sidewalks to keep them clean of snow and ice, and upon default, may cause such sidewalk to be cleaned and assess the expense thereon upon such adjoining land, or may cause the sidewalks on any street or portion thereon to be kept clean of snow or ice, and assess the expense upon the adjoining land. All property owners or tenants are hereby requested to comply with the above law. Failure to do so will be done by the village and assessed to the property."

The people of the village are not expected to immediately re-shovel their sidewalks during hard snows like those of last month, but they are expected to comply with Section 163 of the Village Law, it was noted.

A letter of appreciation is being forwarded to Roland Greene, county superintendent of highways, for the excellent service in the removal of snow off Main Street.

The village parking lot has been cleared for the convenience of residents.

Sees No Danger To Food Supply From Air Tests

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Nuclear testing in the air would not endanger the nation's food supply because resulting radiation would be less than one-tenth the amount scientists consider dangerous, a food specialist says.

Dr. Robert F. Holland, head of the food science department at the New York State College of Agriculture, said Thursday Northeastern United States would get less radiation from nuclear testing in the air by this country than Denver receives from cosmic rays and other natural radiation.

Such testing will not raise strontium 90 levels in any food, he said. "Because of cows' filtering action," Holland said, "milk will contain even less strontium 90 per unit of calcium than leafy vegetables."

'Nothing We Could Do'

Witness Describes How Sea Destroyed Homes

OCEAN BEACH, N.Y. (AP)—Bill Birmingham, a year-around resident of this Fire Island community, told how the storm-roused ocean destroyed seven homes as he watched.

"First you'd hear a sort of rumble. Then the power lines would get taut. There would be a few groans, followed by a sharp crackling noise."

Fire Island, which is dotted with summer colonies, is a narrow and sandy strip that runs along the southern shore of Long Island, often less than a mile out.

Police at Westhampton Beach, on eastern Long Island, told of wholesale destruction of homes in that area by the churning water and high winds.

Westhampton Beach police said they had received dozens of calls from homeowners inquiring about their property. Some of the calls came from as far away as Florida and California.

T. W. Sadlier, Westhampton Beach village highway superintendent, said the late winter storm this week was far less damaging than a summer storm in 1938 that killed 60 persons.

Mrs. Charles Catlin, who with her family is a year around resident of Fire Island Pines, told of watching the ocean waves destroy homes in the area.

"There was nothing we—or anyone else—could do," she recalled. "We just watched as the ocean pounded them to pieces. It was horrible."

"Luckily our house is in the middle of the island and is protected by a second row of dunes," she said. "But it was still terribly frightening to see those houses washing away."

She said 15 homes along the waterfront were swept into the ocean by the pounding waves and high winds.

Ramsey Club Elects Officers, Dinner Set

An organizational meeting of the recently formed Activities Club by employes of the Charles Ramsey Corp. was held Monday evening. Officers elected for 1962 were Robert Matthews, president; Albert Bouchard, secretary-treasurer; J. J. Viano, vice president. The executive committee is making plans for a dinner to be held in the Spring for all the members and their wives.

Stratton Raps House Bill on School TV Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The educational television aid bill passed by the House would withhold aid from most educational TV groups in New York State, says Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y.

"What a mockery to pass a bill to help educational television and then amend it to prevent any aid from going to just those agencies which have been most interested in getting (it). . .started," Stratton said Thursday.

The bill passed by the House included an amendment under which federal aid could be granted only to educational television organizations made up of educational institutions.

Stratton said the provision would deny aid to such groups as the Mohawk-Hudson Council on Educational Television at Schenectady, N.Y. The council is made up of 125 organizations, including health and education groups.

Senator to Campaign For Lt. Gov. of Pa.

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP)—State Sen. Raymond P. Shafer, the state Republican organization's choice for lieutenant governor, says he will go along with the party's wishes and campaign for the post.

Shafer of Meadville said earlier this year he would run for Congress.

He told newsmen Thursday that because of the enthusiastic response to his plans to run for Congress, the Republican leaders' request that he run on the state ticket "presented an extremely difficult decision."

But after conferring with supporters, he continued, "I agreed to seek the nomination and election as Lt. Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and to subordinate my previously expressed personal wishes and desires to run for Congress."

Woman Hurt in Mishap

Charlotte A. White, 37, of St. Remy received injuries to her right leg Thursday night when the car she was operating on New Salem Road skidded on ice on a downgrade, hit a guard rail and snowbank and turned over on its top. Governor Optimistic About Return of RR

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Gov. F. Ray Keyser expressed optimism Thursday that most of the Rutland Railway's service will be restored in less than a year, although he said resumption of operations "is out of the state's hands."

The governor refused again to comment on four recent meetings with William I. Ginsburg, president of the strike-bound road.

Keyser said his representatives met Thursday with New York State officials on restoration of Rutland service there.

Keyser said Ginsburg was informed "in detail and forcefully" what the state's position is in the forthcoming abandonment proceedings, which the Interstate Commerce Commission will hear March 22.

March 19 Trial Set for Mother In Baby's Death

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—A tentative trial date of March 19 has been set for an unwed mother who pleaded innocent to a charge of first-degree manslaughter in the death of her newborn daughter.

An attorney entered the plea Thursday in Tompkins County Court for Miss Doris Marie Jackson of West Danby. The plea was based on the ground of insanity.

Miss Jackson apparently placed a plastic bag over the child's head, police said, and put the body in a dump near Newfield, eight miles south of here. It was found Feb. 17. The cause of death was reported as asphyxiation.

Vols to Use Decals To Mark Homes of Invalid and Blind

The Glasco Fire Company is instituting a program in its fire district whereby a home which houses an invalid, blind or crippled person will be readily recognizable in an emergency by an illuminant decal which the company is making available through its members.

The company has already purchased the stickers and they may be had upon request by calling any of the following members: John Marino, Antonio Bruno Jr., Charles Ascarino, Peter J. Cafaldo, of Glasco; Chief Charles Cafaldo, John Mauro, Michael Mauro of the Flatbush Road or Clifford Snyder of Edith Avenue, Simmons Park.

It is recommended by the members that each house carry two of these stickers, a large one on the outside entrance and a smaller one on the window of the room where the invalid spends most of his time.

The company would also like to make known to the district residents that a resuscitator is available at the firehouse and if an emergency occurs, a call to the station will bring immediate assistance with a qualified member to aid the stricken person.

The postponed monthly meeting of Tuesday night was held on Wednesday night at the firehouse.

New Officers Of Community Club Introduced

The Girls Community Club of Saugerties met Wednesday night at the home of its vice president, Mrs. William Henze, Ulster Avenue. Mrs. William Brinnier was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Earl Vanderbeck was hostess for the evening.

Sees No Danger To Food Supply From Air Tests

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Nuclear testing in the air would not endanger the nation's food supply because resulting radiation would be less than one-tenth the amount scientists consider dangerous, a food specialist says.

Dr. Robert F. Holland, head of the food science department at the New York State College of Agriculture, said Thursday Northeastern United States would get less radiation from nuclear testing in the air by this country than Denver receives from cosmic rays and other natural radiation.

Such testing will not raise strontium 90 levels in any food, he said. "Because of cows' filtering action," Holland said, "milk will contain even less strontium 90 per unit of calcium than leafy vegetables."

Vols to Use Decals To Mark Homes of Invalid and Blind

The Glasco Fire Company is instituting a program in its fire district whereby a home which houses an invalid, blind or crippled person will be readily recognizable in an emergency by an illuminant decal which the company is making available through its members.

The company has already purchased the stickers and they may be had upon request by calling any of the following members: John Marino, Antonio Bruno Jr., Charles Ascarino, Peter J. Cafaldo, of Glasco; Chief Charles Cafaldo, John Mauro, Michael Mauro of the Flatbush Road or Clifford Snyder of Edith Avenue, Simmons Park.

It is recommended by the members that each house carry two of these stickers, a large one on the outside entrance and a smaller one on the window of the room where the invalid spends most of his time.

The company would also like to make known to the district residents that a resuscitator is available at the firehouse and if an emergency occurs, a call to the station will bring immediate assistance with a qualified member to aid the stricken person.

The postponed monthly meeting of Tuesday night was held on Wednesday night at the firehouse.

New Officers Of Community Club Introduced

The Girls Community Club of Saugerties met Wednesday night at the home of its vice president, Mrs. William Henze, Ulster Avenue. Mrs. William Brinnier was welcomed as a new member.

The newly elected president, Mrs. John Carnright, presided at the short business meeting. Introduced were the other officers for the coming year — Mrs. Ann McCormick, secretary; Mrs. Lowell Mau, treasurer; Mrs. Richard Thornton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ralph Hayes, publicity and Mrs. Elsie Thornton and Mrs. Franklyn Clum, sick committee.

Mrs. Earl Vanderbeck was hostess for the evening.

Plan Bus Trip

Past Presidents Club of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary will sponsor a bus trip to New York City on May 5, leaving the local bus station at 7 a. m. and the return trip at 9 p. m. from New York. Interested persons should take notice that the famed Easter Show will still be at the theater at that time. Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Charles Arold Sr., Partition Street.

Styling by Josephs

Saugerties Evening Unit of the Home Extension Service will meet Tuesday at 7:45 p. m. in the Trinity Parish Hall. Featured will be a demonstration on hair styling by Joseph Bosco. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Robert Cart and Mrs. William Cowley.

'Nothing We Could Do'

Witness Describes How Sea Destroyed Homes

OCEAN BEACH, N.Y. (AP)—Bill Birmingham, a year-around resident of this Fire Island community, told how the storm-roused ocean destroyed seven homes as he watched.

"First you'd hear a sort of rumble. Then the power lines would get taut. There would be a few groans, followed by a sharp crackling noise."

Fire Island, which is dotted with summer colonies, is a narrow and sandy strip that runs along the southern shore of Long Island, often less than a mile out.

Police at Westhampton Beach, on eastern Long Island, told of wholesale destruction of homes in that area by the churning water and high winds.

Westhampton Beach police said they had received dozens of calls from homeowners inquiring about their property. Some of the calls came from as far away as Florida and California.

T. W. Sadlier, Westhampton Beach village highway superintendent, said the late winter storm this week was far less damaging than a summer storm in 1938 that killed 60 persons.

Mrs. Charles Catlin, who with her family is a year around resident of Fire Island Pines, told of watching the ocean waves destroy homes in the area.

"There was nothing we—or anyone else—could do," she recalled. "We just watched as the ocean pounded them to pieces. It was horrible."

"Luckily our house is in the middle of the island and is protected by a second row of dunes," she said. "But it was still terribly frightening to see those houses washing away."

She said 15 homes along the waterfront were swept into the ocean by the pounding waves and high winds.

Ramsey Club Elects Officers, Dinner Set

An organizational meeting of the recently formed Activities Club by employes of the Charles Ramsey Corp. was held Monday evening. Officers elected for 1962 were Robert Matthews, president; Albert Bouchard, secretary-treasurer; J. J. Viano, vice president. The executive committee is making plans for a dinner to be held in the Spring for all the members and their wives.

Stratton Raps House Bill on School TV Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The educational television aid bill passed by the House would withhold aid from most educational TV groups in New York State, says Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y.

"What a mockery to pass a bill to help educational television and then amend it to prevent any aid from going to just those agencies which have been most interested in getting (it). . .started," Stratton said Thursday.

The bill passed by the House included an amendment under which federal aid could be granted only to educational television organizations made up of educational institutions.

Stratton said the provision would deny aid to such groups as the Mohawk-Hudson Council on Educational Television at Schenectady, N.Y. The council is made up of 125 organizations, including health and education groups.

Senator to Campaign For Lt. Gov. of Pa.

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP)—State Sen. Raymond P. Shafer, the state Republican organization's choice for lieutenant governor, says he will go along with the party's wishes and campaign for the post.

Shafer of Meadville said earlier this year he would run for Congress.

He told newsmen Thursday that because of the enthusiastic response to his plans to run for Congress, the Republican leaders' request that he run on the state ticket "presented an extremely difficult decision."

But after conferring with supporters, he continued, "I agreed to seek the nomination and election as Lt. Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and to subordinate my previously expressed personal wishes and desires to run for Congress."

Woman Hurt in Mishap

Charlotte A. White, 37, of St. Remy received injuries to her right leg Thursday night when the car she was operating on New Salem Road skidded on ice on a downgrade, hit a guard rail and snowbank and turned over on its top. She told investigating deputy sheriffs she would seek treatment from her physician. Kenneth White, a passenger in the car was uninjured.

Ex-Mayor Dies

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — John W. Cadman, mayor of suburban Williamsville from 1937-47, died in a hospital here Thursday. He was 78.

Governor Optimistic About Return of RR

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Gov. F. Ray Keyser expressed optimism Thursday that most of the Rutland Railway's service will be restored in less than a year, although he said resumption of operations "is out of the state's hands."

The governor refused again to comment on four recent meetings with William I. Ginsburg, president of the strike-bound road.

Keyser said his representatives met Thursday with New York State officials on restoration of Rutland service there.

Keyser said Ginsburg was informed "in detail and forcefully" what the state's position is in the forthcoming abandonment proceedings, which the Interstate Commerce Commission will hear March 22.

March 19 Trial Set for Mother In Baby's Death

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—A tentative trial date of March 19 has been set for an unwed mother who pleaded innocent to a charge of first-degree manslaughter in the death of her newborn daughter.

An attorney entered the plea Thursday in Tompkins County Court for Miss Doris Marie Jackson of West Danby. The plea was based on the ground of insanity.

Miss Jackson apparently placed a plastic bag over the child's head, police said, and put the body in a dump near Newfield, eight miles south of here. It was found Feb. 17. The cause of death was reported as asphyxiation.

Motel Has $100,000 Fire

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin gutted 25 units of the 50-unit DeSoto Motel just west of here Thursday night and caused total damage estimated by authorities at more than $100,000.

A fireman who fell through the roof of the one-story brick and frame structure suffered two broken ribs. None of the guests was injured.

KHS Meets Haverstraw Tonight in Section Nine Cage Tilt

Remaining NIT, NCAA Berths Expected to be Settled Soon

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Half the remaining field for both the NCAA and NIT, the nation's two big post-season college basketball tournaments, will be decided in a couple of key games tonight.

The Texas Tech-Southern Methodist playoff in Fort Worth will determine the Southwest Conference representative in the NCAA, and the winner of the Temple-St. Joseph's match in Philadelphia gets another of the four remaining berths in the 25-team tourney.

The loser in Philadelphia takes one of the two remaining spots in the 12-team NIT. The loser in Fort Worth simply calls it a season.

Each figures to be a tough one. In each case the opponents have season records that almost duplicate each other.

Tech, the defending champion, and SMU tied for the conference lead with 11-3 records. Doc Hayes' SMU Mustangs are 16-6 for the season, and Polk Robinson's Red Raiders from the Panhandle are 17-7. They split in regular season play, Tech taking the first 69-63 and SMU winning the second 68-63, one of eight straight closing triumphs for the Mustangs.

Temple and St. Joe's each is 9-1 in the Mid-Atlantic Conference, with St. Joseph's climbing into a share of the top spot on the strength of a 78-68 triumph over Lafayette Tuesday.

Temple is 17-7 for the season, St. Joseph's 17-8. In a previous meeting, also on the Philadelphia Palestra floor where they'll play tonight, St. Joseph's managed a 53-49 squeaker.

The first of eight NCAA regional small college tourneys opened in Evansville, Ind., Thursday night with Evansville taking North Carolina A&T 97-82 and Southern Illinois blasting Union (Tenn.) 78-56. The winners meet tonight.

The other seven regionals start tonight.

Victories by a couple of major tourney entrants, New York University and St. John's, in a Madison Square Garden doubleheader featured Thursday night's light schedule.

NYU, which will play a first round game in the NCAA against Yankee Conference champion Massachusetts next week, edged Fordham 67-63.

St. John's, which opens play in the NIT next week, got a 32-point performance from 6-foot-10 Leroy Ellis in an 88-64 rout of Manhattan.

In other major activity, Texas whipped Texas Christian 73-61 in the makeup of a previously postponed Southwest Conference game, Oklahoma beat Missouri 63-55 and Boston College closed out with a 76-62 victory over Boston University.

Varsity Finals Scheduled Today At Poughkeepsie

St. Mary's Varsity will meet St. Peter's of Haverstraw for the Upstate varsity archdiocesan finnals on Saturday at 3 p. m. at the Marist College gym. St. Mary's cagers previously earned their berth in the finals by defeating St. John's of Beacon, the Dutchess county representatives in the semi-finals held at the Municipal Auditorium.

In other semi-finals involving Rockland and Orange counties, St. Peter's of Haverstraw downed St. Mary's of Newburgh 48 to 20 to earn their position in the finals this weekend.

The weekend contests should prove outstanding as both CYO clubs are undefeated. St. Mary's of Kingston boasts a record of 12 straight wins in CYO basketball competition while St. Peter's of Haverstraw has been undefeated in 14 starts .

The locals have also played outstanding ball in many nonleague games with St. Mary's of Hudson, C.W.A. of Newburgh, Marist preparatory and Smith Street Center.

Coach John Sullivan feels the locals are in fine shape for the weekend encounter as the result of outstanding teamwork shown in the series of games which resulted in winning the Beacon Invitational tournament some weeks ago.

A bus will leave St. Mary's School at 1 p. m. for the championship game tomorrow. It is hoped that a large turnout will make reservations at the rectory for the bus trip to Poughkeepsie.

Cage Title Today

George Washington School and School No. 5 will collide at 3:30 today for the third annual city-rural Basketball Tournament. The clubs will play at the George Washington School gym.

In semi-final contests yesterday, George Washington, sparked by Ken Gilligan, defeated No. 2 School, 35-25, and No. 5 School beat Chambers, 23-14, with Greg Rios scoring all the points for the winners.

Teams to Play At College Gym In Middletown

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Kingston High cagers will attempt to recapture some lost prestige tonight as they tackle a good Haverstraw club in the first game of the Section Nine Class A tournament.

Game time at the Orange County Community College gym is 7 p. m. and it will be followed by another "A" contest between the Newburgh Free Academy Goldbacks and Spring Valley.

Winners of tonight's tilts will meet next Friday, 8:30, for the Class A championship. Newburgh and Haverstraw are favored.

Haverstraw will be defending its Class A championship and the Rockland County club, which tied Tappan Zee for the title, will rely on 5-6 junior Jo Jo Mackey. This bundle of dynamite led the league in scoring and is a terrific backcourt performer. He's an All-County selection in the three major sports and has played on six championship squads in high school.

A Good Duel

This figures to be a good scoring duel between Mackey and Mike Ferraro of Kingston, the "Player of the Year" in the DUSO League.

Haverstraw had a 12-2 record in league play and was 14-4 overall. The team, coached by Len Stirling, bowed once each to Tappan Zee, Highland Falls, Spring Valley and Peekskill. The latter loss came in the Peekskill Holiday tournament.

Mackey is the chief holdover from last year's club but there are several others. Coach Stirling said the big drawback of the squad is lack of height. "However, we are aggressive and we hustle a lot," he said.

Kingston started out the season with high hopes. But, aside from Ferraro, the other regulars were inconsistent and the team finished with a 10-8 record, including a 6-6 mark in DUSO play. A win in the Sectionals will take some of the sting out of the disappointing season.

Goldies Favored

Newburgh, the DUSO champion, figures to beat Spring Valley, which finished third in Rockland County. The Goldies have a solid lineup and it figures to be too much for their opponents.

There is action in the D division of the tournament tonight and it takes place at Valley Central. In the 7 o'clock opener, Livingston Manor will play Chester. Jeffersonville and Tuxedo will collide at 8:30.

The finals in both the A and D divisions are slated next Friday at the Orange County Community College in Middletown.

Saugerties Club Opposes 2 Bills

The Saugerties Fish & Game Club Inc.., has decided to send one of its junior members to De-Bruce Conservation Camp the week of July 8-14. Boys must be between the ages of 13 to 15 to be eligible.

A special meeting of the group is planned for April when Ken Wicks, region fisheries biologist will speak on department methods and policies in trout stocking. The public is invited and all interested persons are urged to attend.

The Catskill Mountain deer forum will be held March 31 at the Hotel Lenape, Liberty. A recent poll of club members showed the party permit system was favored over the one day doe season.

Lars Sauer, vice president of the Saugerties club, noted that two bills are opposed by the club. They are: 1—Assembly bill 3216 which would set May 1 as the opening day of trout season, except rainbows, which would remain April 1, and 2—Assembly bill 55, a revision of the Sullivan law which specifies; (a) All present permits would be voided immediately; (b) New licenses to be issued on a two-year basis.

The club has set Saturday, April 28 as a tentative date for the annual banquet.

Outdoor Shoot Slated

Members of the Ti Yogi Bowmen will hold an outdoor 28-56 optional shoot at the course on Mill Road, Hyde Park, Sunday, 10:30 a. m.

KWBA Session Slated

An important meeting of the Kingston Women's Bowling Association committee chairmen and the executive board making plans for the State Bowling tournament will be held Monday, March 12 at 7:30 p. m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Rondout League Parents Meeting Slated March 19

An announcement from the Rondout Valley Little League today said a meeting of parents has been scheduled for Monday, March 19 at 7 p. m. in the American Legion Hall, Stone Ridge.

Registration cards for prospective players will be distributed to the parents, the press release said, and it stressed that boys will not be allowed to participate if parents are not at the meeting to get a card.

This procedure is essential in order to set up a program to get the 1962 season under way, the notice said. Cooperation and support will be greatly appreciated, it added.

A business meeting will also be held at the same time as distribution of the registration cards.

Bob Friend Confident This Year

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Bob Friend, the solid financier of the Pittsburgh Pirates, after a careful study of all available indices, believes 1962 will be a sound and prosperous year.

For him and the Pirates, anyway.

Take the cyclical fluctuations in his won and lost record, for instance. He has alternated a winning season and a losing season for the last six years.

Last year he was 14-19 for a .424 average. That means he should be ready for an 18-12, .600, season such as he had in 1960 when the Pirates won the world championship.

Some Bad Luck

Or take the matter of luck. Last year the Pirates were shut out 14 times, and Friend was the victim of six or nearly half of the occasions when the Pirates couldn't produce a run. He also lost four other decision by a single run. Such misfortune should end.

Or consider his attitude and physical condition.

"I think this could be my best year," he says. "I weigh 192 now and I pitch at 195. I worked out all winter with the boys in Pittsburgh on a definite program of stretching exercises, and came down here early. My legs are good. I have no arm trouble."

Friend, a thoughtful, well-spoken Purdue graduate, has been with the Pirates since 1951 and is 31 years old.

H owns an apartmnt building in Pittsburgh, and modstly admits to putting away a little money. That should be possible on his salary which is said to be around $40,000, earned as one of the best right-handed pitchers in the National League. In the winter he works as a mutual fund salesman.

If Friend has another big year and his pitching mate, Vern Law, comes back, the Pirates could very well bound back from 1961's sixth place to 1960's first place and the world championship.

Marty Glickman Is Speaker For KHS Awards Dinner

3rd Annual Event Slated March 28 In School Cafeteria

A trigger-voiced sportscaster known to millions of American fans, Marty Glickman will be the principal speaker at the third annual KHS athletic awards dinner scheduled Wednesday, March 28, at 6:30 p. m. in the Kingston High School cafeteria.

Some 68 lettermen in the Maroon sports schedule will be presented with awards, including high school cheerleaders.

Dick McCarthy, chairman of the dinner, said tickets will go on sale today and are available from any member of the committee which includes: Ed Palladino, Freeman sportswriter; City Recreation Superintendent Andrew J. Murphy, 3rd; James Gilpatric, Frank (Bing) Van Etten, Tommy Maines, Manager Albert Kurdt of the Chamber of Commerce, G. Warren Kias, high school athletic director, and John W. Johnson, director of the school lunch program.

Glickman, whose rapid-fire delivery gained him fame as probably the outstanding basketball broadcaster in the nation, is a graduate of Syracuse University where he was halfback on the Orange teams of 1936-38. He was a sprint member of the U. S. Olympic team which went to Berlin in 1936.

Prior to Syracuse, Glickman attended James Madison High School in Brooklyn and was the city, state and national schoolboy sprint champion in 1934. He was voted all-scholastic halfback on a Madison High team which captured the city and state football title in the same year. He later played pro football with the Jersey City Giants in 1939.

Every Major Sport

Glickman, who lives in New Rochelle with his wife and four children—two boys and two girls—has broadcast every major sport on radio and television. For 12 years, he aired all college and pro games from Madison Square Garden; covers the N-I-T tournament, together with the NBA and the Knickerbockers. He presently is the TV commentator for the high school game of the week in the New York City area, and last fall announced schoolboy football.

For the past nine years, Glickman has broadcast New York Giant football, while his radio descriptions also have been familiar to Army and Columbia grid fans over the years. To Dodger and Yankee baseball fandom, he always will be recognized as the "warm up time" and "sports extra" voice.

Glickman's other air activities have included track and field, wrestling, bowling, rodeo, and hockey. Also associated with Yonkers Raceway, he has been a race-caller for 12 years. And, he may hold a singular distinction in his field, having broadcast an annual marble championship for two years over a New York City TV station.

In Heavy Demand

His vivid, fast-paced and graphic reporting of leading sports events has created a heavy demand for his voice in allied fields. Glickman handles a number of syndicated filmed sports features, including Paramount Newsreel and Telenews.

He has served as president of the Sports Broadcasters Association and sports director of WMGM, New York. For the past five years, Glickman has been radio and TV director at Yonkers Raceway, and the former gridiron star has served as eastern director, Coach of the Year football clinics.

Glickman is a U. S. Marine Corps veteran of World War II. He served in the Marshall Islands with the rank of first lieutenant.

White Eagles Nip Moose in Playoff

The White Eagle team won a playoff in the best 2 out of 3 series by defeating the Moose Shuffleboard Club 4-2 at the Veterans of Foreign Wars — a neutral board.

The Eagles won one 4-1 on their own board, then lost 4-1 on the Moose board. The White Eagles had the support of the Duffy brothers, Ted Hudela, Hank Platneer, Tony Turck, Bob Burns, Hank Diamond, Leo Keating and Joe Wenzel, captain.

In another playoff game the Elks Club beat the shuffleboard champs, St Mary's 4-0 at the Knights of Columbus.

On Tuesday night the Elks meet the White Eagle team at White Eagle hall to decide the championship in a three game series.

Clarkson and Harvard Picks In Hockey Tilts

BOSTON (AP) — Clarkson — deep, talented and top-seeded—is favored over high-scoring Colby and balanced Harvard is rated a sligt nod over St. Lawrence tonight in the semi-finals of the first ECAC hockey tournament at Boston Arena.

If the winner is willing, the champion of what is hoped will be an annual Eastern college title playoff will automatically get one of the two sectional berths to the NCAA tournament, March 15-17, at Utica, N.Y.

Only Harvard does not want an NCAA shot.

So rich in talent the club has three regular attack lines and a fourth for penalty killing, Clarkson has a 12-1-1 record against eastern foes and is 19-1-1 overall. The club's only loss was by one goal to Boston College, the only American club to hold a verdict over Colby.

Colby's record is 20-4-2, Harvard's 21-4 and St. Lawrence's 18-6-1.

Small College Team Is Selected by AP

By TED MEIER
AP Basketball Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Ronnie Galbreath, a ball control artist from Westminster (Pa.) College, and Roger Strickland, of Jacksonville (Fla.) University, hailed as possibly the most talented college player in America, are the sparkplugs of the 1962 basketball Little All-America selected by The Associated Press.

Named on the first team with the 6-foot-0 Ronnie and the 6-5 Roger were 6-2 Bob Mahland of Williams (Mass.), 6-9 Zelmo Beaty of the top-ranked Prairie View (Tex.) Panthers and 6-8 Charles Hardnett of Grambling (La.). Mahland and Hardnett are repeaters from the 1961 Little A-A. All are seniors except Strickland, a junior.

Galbreath, who hails from Wampum, Pa., put Westminster in the national spotlight when the Titans upset Pitt and ranking Duquesne.

The praise for Strickland, a transfer from Notre Dame, comes from Bill Kastelz, of the Florida Times-Union in Strickland's home town of Jacksonville.

"Strickland, at 6-5 and 215 pounds, is very possibly the most talented college basketball player in America today," Kastelz said.

Scoring Leader

Strickland is the nation's small college scoring leader while Mahland, of Garden City, N.Y., set a career scoring record at Williams of 1,272 points, breaking a mark that stood for 57 years. Beaty of Cleveland, Tex. and Hardnett, of Atlanta, Ga., the "big boys" of the team, were rated tops.

Picked as a second team, on the basis of votes from more than 100 sportswriters and radio-TV broadcasters, were Marvin Trotman of Elizabeth City (N.C.) Teachers, labeled a great pro prospect; Richie Swartz of Hofstra (N.Y.); Kenny Saylors of Arkansas Tech, Dick Vories of Georgetown (Ky.) and Lanny Johnson of Northeast Louisiana.

Homer Thurman, a freshman at Midland (Neb.), regarded by his followers as the "greatest small college player in the country — bar none;" Billy Barnes, who lead Florida A&M to 25 straight victories; Jim Ahrens of Buena Vista (Iowa); Al Thrasher of Wittenberg (Ohio) and Gary Auten of Kentucky Wesleyan were chosen as a third team.

Members of the first three teams each will receive a certificate from The Associated Press.

Phoenicia Meeting

CAA Bowls Sunday

The Catholic A. A. League teams will bowl Sunday, March 11 starting at 1 p. m. sharp to make up the games postponed the week of Feb. 14, according to Joseph Mannello, CAA secretary.

Exhibition Season To Start on Saturday

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Major league baseball's exhibition season opens Saturday with New York and Houston making their National League debuts and Manager Fred Hutchinson of the pennant-winning Cincinnati Reds wearing the crown of man-most-on-the-spot.

Hutchinson was ceded top honors Thursday by Al Dark of the San Francisco Giants, whose most pressing problem was settled when NL home run king Orlando Cepeda ended his holdout by agreeing to terms for an estimated $46,000.

While the Reds hold the spotlight, attention in American League circles will be focused on Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where the world champion New York Yankees and 61-homer hammerer Roger Maris open against the Baltimore Orioles.

Mets Debut

Cincinnati bows against the Chicago White Sox at Sarasota, Fla., and Mets make their debut with Casey Stengel as manager in a game against the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg, Fla., and Harry Craft leads the Colts at Palm Springs, Calif., against the Los Angeles Angels.

Rounding out the expanded 10-game schedule are Los Angeles (N) vs. Kansas City at Vero Beach, Fla.; Milwaukee vs. Detroit at Lakeland, Fla.; Philadelphia vs. Minnesota at Orlando, Fla.; Pittsburgh vs. Washington at Fort Myers, Fla.; Chicago (N) vs. Boston at Mesa, Ariz.; and San Francisco vs. Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.

Hutchinson's prime concern is a replacement for Gene Freese, hard-hitting third baseman who produced 26 homers last year but will be sidelined for three months with a right ankle fracture suffered in an intra-squad game.

Cliff Cook, trying to make the big leagues after a 1961 season at Indianapolis in which he hit .311 with 32 homers and 119 RBI, is getting a frial run. If he doesn't make it, outfielder Frank Robinson may have to switch to the infield.

KHS Meets Haverstraw Tonight in Section Nine Cage Tilt

Remaining NIT, NCAA Berths Expected to be Settled Soon

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Half the remaining field for both the NCAA and NIT, the nation's two big post-season college basketball tournaments, will be decided in a couple of key games tonight.

The Texas Tech-Southern Methodist playoff in Fort Worth will determine the Southwest Conference representative in the NCAA, and the winner of the Temple-St. Joseph's match in Philadelphia gets another of the four remaining berths in the 25-team tourney.

The loser in Philadelphia takes one of the two remaining spots in the 12-team NIT. The loser in Fort Worth simply calls it a season.

Each figures to be a tough one. In each case the opponents have season records that almost duplicate each other.

Tech, the defending champion, and SMU tied for the conference lead with 11-3 records. Doc Hayes' SMU Mustangs are 16-6 for the season, and Polk Robinson's Red Raiders from the Panhandle are 17-7. They split in regular season play, Tech taking the first 69-63 and SMU winning the second 68-63, one of eight straight closing triumphs for the Mustangs.

Temple and St. Joe's each is 9-1 in the Mid-Atlantic Conference, with St. Joseph's climbing into a share of the top spot on the strength of a 78-68 triumph over Lafayette Tuesday.

Temple is 17-7 for the season, St. Joseph's 17-8. In a previous meeting, also on the Philadelphia Palestra floor where they'll play tonight, St. Joseph's managed a

The First Tourney

53-49 squeaker.

The first of eight NCAA regional small college tourneys opened in Evansville, Ind., Thursday night with Evansville taking North Carolina A&T 97-82 and Southern Illinois blasting Union (Tenn.) 78-56. The winners meet tonight.

The other seven regionals start tonight.

Victories by a couple of major tourney entrants, New York University and St. John's, in a Madison Square Garden doubleheader featured Thursday night's light schedule.

NYU, which will play a first round game in the NCAA against Yankee Conference champion Massachusetts next week, edged Fordham 67-63.

St. John's, which opens play in the NIT next week, got a 32-point performance from 6-foot-10 Leroy Ellis in an 88-64 rout of Manhattan.

In other major activity, Texas whipped Texas Christian 73-61 in the makeup of a previously postponed Southwest Conference game, Oklahoma beat Missouri 63-55 and Boston College closed out with a 76-62 victory over Boston University.

Varsity Finals Scheduled Today At Poughkeepsie

St. Mary's Varsity will meet St. Peter's of Haverstraw for the Upstate varsity archdiocesan finals on Saturday at 3 p. m. at the Marist College gym. St. Mary's cagers previously earned their berth in the finals by defeating St. John's of Beacon, the Dutchess county representatives in the semi-finals held at the Municipal Auditorium.

In other semi-finals involving Rockland and Orange counties, St. Peter's of Haverstraw downed St. Mary's of Newburgh 48 to 20 to earn their position in the finals this weekend.

The weekend contests should prove outstanding as both CYO clubs are undefeated. St. Mary's of Kingston boasts a record of 12 straight wins in CYO basketball competition while St. Peter's of Haverstraw has been undefeated in 14 starts .

The locals have also played outstanding ball in many non-league games with St. Mary's of Hudson, C.W.A. of Newburgh, Marist preparatory and Smith Street Center.

Coach John Sullivan feels the locals are in fine shape for the weekend encounter as the result of outstanding teamwork shown in the series of games which resulted in winning the Beacon Invitational tournament some weeks ago.

A bus will leave St. Mary's School at 1 p. m. for the championship game tomorrow. It is hoped that a large turnout will make reservations at the rectory for the bus trip to Poughkeepsie.

Cage Title Today

George Washington School and School No. 5 will collide at 3:30 today for the third annual city-rural Basketball Tournament. The clubs will play at the George Washington School gym.

In semi-final contests yesterday, George Washington, sparked by Ken Gilligan, defeated No. 2 School, 35-25, and No. 5 School beat Chambers, 23-14, with Greg Rios scoring all the points for the winners.

Teams to Play At College Gym In Middletown

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Kingston High cagers will attempt to recapture some lost prestige tonight as they tackle a good Haverstraw club in the first game of the Section Nine Class A tournament.

Game time at the Orange County Community College gym is 7 p. m. and it will be followed by another "A" contest between the Newburgh Free Academy Goldbacks and Spring Valley.

Winners of tonight's tilts will meet next Friday, 8:30, for the Class A championship. Newburgh and Haverstraw are favored.

Haverstraw will be defending its Class A championship and the Rockland County club, which tied Tappan Zee for the title, will rely on 5-6 junior Jo Jo Mackey. This bundle of dynamite led the league in scoring and is a terrific backcourt performer. He's an All-County selection in the three major sports and has played on six championship squads in high school.

A Good Duel

This figures to be a good scoring duel between Mackey and Mike Ferraro of Kingston, the "Player of the Year" in the DUSO League.

Haverstraw had a 12-2 record in league play and was 14-4 overall. The team, coached by Len Stirling, bowed once each to Tappan Zee, Highland Falls, Spring Valley and Peekskill. The latter loss came in the Peekskill Holiday tournament.

Mackey is the chief holdover from last year's club but there are several others. Coach Stirling said the big drawback of the squad is lack of height. "However, we are aggressive and we hustle a lot," he said.

Kingston started out the season with high hopes. But, aside from Ferraro, the other regulars were inconsistent and the team finished with a 10-8 record, including a 6-6 mark in DUSO play. A win in the Sectionals will take some of the sting out of the disappointing season.

Goldies Favored

Newburgh, the DUSO champion, figures to beat Spring Valley, which finished third in Rockland County. The Goldies have a solid lineup and it figures to be too much for their opponents.

There is action in the D division of the tournament tonight and it takes place at Valley Central. In the 7 o'clock opener, Livingston Manor will play Chester. Jeffersonville and Tuxedo will collide at 8:30.

The finals in both the A and D divisions are slated next Friday at the Orange County Community College in Middletown.

Saugerties Club Opposes 2 Bills

The Saugerties Fish & Game Club Inc.., has decided to send one of its junior members to De-Bruce Conservation Camp the week of July 8-14. Boys must be between the ages of 13 to 15 to be eligible.

A special meeting of the group is planned for April when Ken Wicks, region fisheries biologist will speak on department methods and policies in trout stocking. The public is invited and all interested persons are urged to attend.

The Catskill Mountain deer forum will be held March 31 at the Hotel Lenape, Liberty. A recent poll of club members showed the party permit system was favored over the one day doe season.

Lars Sauer, vice president of the Saugerties club, noted that two bills are opposed by the club. They are: 1—Assembly bill 3216 which would set May 1 as the opening day of trout season, except rainbows, which would remain April 1, and 2—Assembly bill 55, a revision of the Sullivan law which specifies; (a) All present permits would be voided immediately; (b) New licenses to be issued on a two-year basis.

The club has set Saturday, April 28 as a tentative date for the annual banquet.

Outdoor Shoot Slated

KWBA Session Slated

An important meeting of the Kingston Women's Bowling Association committee chairmen and the executive board making plans for the State Bowling tournament will be held Monday, March 12 at 7:30 p. m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Rondout League Parents Meeting Slated March 19

An announcement from the Rondout Valley Little League today said a meeting of parents has been scheduled for Monday, March 19 at 7 p. m. in the American Legion Hall, Stone Ridge.

Registration cards for prospective players will be distributed to the parents, the press release said, and it stressed that boys will not be allowed to participate if parents are not at the meeting to get a card.

This procedure is essential in order to set up a program to get the 1962 season under way, the notice said. Cooperation and support will be greatly appreciated, it added.

A business meeting will also be held at the same time as distribution of the registration cards.

Bob Friend Confident This Year

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Bob Friend, the solid financier of the Pittsburgh Pirates, after a careful study of all available indices, believes 1962 will be a sound and prosperous year.

For him and the Pirates, anyway.

Take the cyclical fluctuations in his won and lost record, for instance. He has alternated a winning season and a losing season for the last six years.

Last year he was 14-19 for a .424 average. That means he should be ready for an 18-12, .600, season such as he had in 1960 when the Pirates won the world championship.

Some Bad Luck

Or take the matter of luck. Last year the Pirates were shut out 14 times, and Friend was the victim of six or nearly half of the occasions when the Pirates couldn't produce a run. He also lost four other decision by a single run. Such misfortune should end.

Or consider his attitude and physical condition.

"I think this could be my best year," he says. "I weigh 192 now and I pitch at 195. I worked out all winter with the boys in Pittsburgh on a definite program of stretching exercises, and came down here early. My legs are good. I have no arm trouble."

Friend, a thoughtful, well-spoken Purdue graduate, has been with the Pirates since 1951 and is 31 years old.

H owns an apartmnt building in Pittsburgh, and modstly admits to putting away a little money. That should be possible on his salary which is said to be around $40,000, earned as one of the best right-handed pitchers in the National League. In the winter he works as a mutual fund salesman.

If Friend has another big year and his pitching mate, Vern Law, comes back, the Pirates could very well bound back from 1961's sixth place to 1960's first place and the world championship.

Marty Glickman Is Speaker For KHS Awards Dinner

Small College Team Is Selected by AP

By TED MEIER
AP Basketball Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Ronnie Galbreath, a ball control artist from Westminster (Pa.) College, and Roger Strickland, of Jacksonville (Fla.) University, hailed as possibly the most talented college player in America, are the sparkplugs of the 1962 basketball Little All-America selected by The Associated Press.

Named on the first team with the 6-foot-0 Ronnie and the 6-5 Roger were 6-2 Bob Mahland of Williams (Mass.), 6-9 Zelmo Beaty of the top-ranked Prairie View (Tex.) Panthers and 6-8 Charles Hardnett of Grambling (La.). Mahland and Hardnett are repeaters from the 1961 Little A-A. All are seniors except Strickland, a junior.

Galbreath, who hails from Wampum, Pa., put Westminster in the national spotlight when the Titans upset Pitt and ranking Duquesne.

The praise for Strickland, a transfer from Notre Dame, comes from Bill Kastelz, of the Florida Times-Union in Strickland's home town of Jacksonville.

"Strickland, at 6-5 and 215 pounds, is very possibly the most talented college basketball player in America today," Kastelz said.

Scoring Leader

Strickland is the nation's small college scoring leader while Mahland, of Garden City, N.Y., set a career scoring record at Williams of 1,272 points, breaking a mark that stood for 57 years. Beaty of Cleveland, Tex. and Hardnett, of Atlanta, Ga., the "big boys" of the team, were rated tops.

Picked as a second team, on the basis of votes from more than 100 sportswriters and radio-TV broadcasters, were Marvin Trotman of Elizabeth City (N.C.) Teachers, labeled a great pro prospect; Richie Swartz of Hofstra (N.Y.); Benny Saylors of Arkansas Tech, Dick Vories of Georgetown (Ky.) and Lanny Johnson of Northeast Louisiana.

Homer Thurman, a freshman at Midland (Neb.), regarded by his followers as the "greatest small college player in the country — bar none;" Billy Barnes, who lead Florida A&M to 25 straight victories; Jim Ahrens of Buena Vista (Iowa); Al Thrasher of Wittenberg (Ohio) and Gary Auten of Kentucky Wesleyan were chosen as a third team.

Members of the first three teams each will receive a certificate from The Associated Press.

Phoenicia Meeting

CAA Bowls Sunday

The Catholic A. A. League teams will bowl Sunday, March 11 starting at 1 p. m. sharp to make up the games postponed the week of Feb. 14, according to Joseph Mannello, CAA secretary.

Exhibition Season To Start on Saturday

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Major league baseball's exhibition season opens Saturday with New York and Houston making their National League debuts and Manager Fred Hutchinson of the pennant-winning Cincinnati Reds wearing the crown of man-most-on-the-spot.

Hutchinson was ceded top honors Thursday by Al Dark of the San Francisco Giants, whose most pr. ing problem was settled when NL home run king Orlando Cepeda ended his holdout by agreeing to terms for an estimated $46,000.

While the Reds hold the spotlight, attention in American League circles will be focused on Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where the world champion New York Yankees and 61-homer hammerer Roger Maris open against the Baltimore Orioles.

Mets Debut

Cincinnati bows against the Chicago White Sox at Sarasota, Fla., and Mets make their debut with Casey Stengel as manager in a game against the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg, Fla., and Harry Craft leads the Colts at Palm Springs, Calif., against the Los Angeles Angels.

Rounding out the expanded 10-game schedule are Los Angeles (N) vs. Kansas City at Vero Beach, Fla.; Milwaukee vs. Detroit at Lakeland, Fla.; Philadelphia vs. Minnesota at Orlando, Fla.; Pittsburgh vs. Washington at Fort Myers, Fla.; Chicago (N) vs. Boston at Mesa, Ariz.; and San Francisco vs. Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.

Hutchinson's prime concern is a replacement for Gene Freese, hard-hitting third baseman who produced 26 homers last year but will be sidelined for three months with a right ankle fracture suffered in an intra-squad game.

Cliff Cook, trying to make the big leagues after a 1961 season at Indianapolis in which he hit .311 with 32 homers and 119 RBI, is getting a trial run. If he doesn't make it, outfielder Frank Robinson may have to switch to the infield.

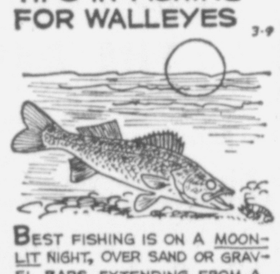
TIPS IN FISHING FOR WALLEYES



BEST FISHING IS ON A MOONLIT NIGHT, OVER SAND OR GRAVEL BARS EXTENDING FROM A POINT OF LAND INTO A LAKE. THAT'S WHEN AND WHERE THE LARGEST WALLEYES CRUISE IN SEARCH OF CRAWFISH--SOFT-SHELLED "CRAWS" ESPECIALLY, AND MINNOWS. TRY THESE NATURAL BAITS, PLUGS AND SPINFISHING'S METAL LURES, NEAR OR BUMPING THE BOTTOM. FISH ROCKY SHORELINES, ALSO. IN STREAMS, TRY POOLS BELOW WATERFALLS AND DAMS, AND DEEP ROCKY POOLS.

THE NEXT BEST FISHING IS FROM DAWN TO MID-MORNING, THEN MID-AFTERNOON TO NIGHT.

ONLY ONE CONCLUSION

BETWEEN YOU 'N' ME ... by THURRAY

When San Francisco gets the Philadelphia Warriors—it looks now like a sure thing—the whole package may comprise Wilt Chamberlain, rookie Tom Meshery and 22 dirty uniforms . . . because veteran Paul Arizin will definitely retire. . . . Philly natives Tom Gola and Guy Rodgers say they won't relocate on the west coast . . . and coach Frank McGuire is supposed to want a stock deal before he'll budge. . . .

Jim Pollard is definitely on the skids as the coach of the Chicago Packers . . . but will be retained by the club in some capacity. . . .

In a year or two, predicts owner Danny Biasone of Syracuse, rookie Walt Bellamy will be a bigger name in basketball (he doesn't yield anything in height, either) than Wilt or Bill Russell . . . and a lot of other NBA people feel the same way. . . . The gauge of his progress is that the first time he faced Chamberlain in league competition, Bellamy's first 10 shots were blocked by the Warrior giant because Walt made the mistake of driving in too close. . . . Now he plays him on even terms. . . .

What's this about Eddie Donovan, coach of the New York Knicks, making two special trips out to Indiana to see Purdue's Terry Dischinger- . . . could have something to do with the fact that Terry (natural territorial choice of the Packers) won't play pro ball unless he can tie it in with his chemical engineering. . . .

Big plum in the pro football scrap is the television money . . . as Barron Hilton, the owner of the San Diego Chargers, explains it. "Suppose our television money goes up to $4.5 million in five years (same as the NFL gets today), it's split among only eight clubs . . . and here's something nobody realizes—we have only three cities shut out on some Sundays, which means we go into big markets like Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit all the time. . . . It means something to our sponsors." . . . but only, of course, if the AFL survives. . . .

Note from Paul Hornung says he's in great shape doing his Army stint—"You must be in good health to survive the Kansas winter," writes the Green Bay husky. . . .

Insiders claim that Jim Barnes, the 6-9 Cameron (Okla.) Junior College basketeer, is headed for Kansas State next year . . . and could immediately succeed Jerry Lucas as the All-America center in '63. . . . On the subject of change, Army football coach Paul Dietzel sounds off this way: "I don't like the rules being tampered with all the time, like they do in basketball. It's reached the point where I go to a game and don't know what's going on." . . .

Bursitis is bothering Jay Hebert, the former PGA champion, but he expects it to clear up by the time of the Masters in April. . . . Owners of the Denver Broncos, who also run the baseball franchise in town, have figured out a way to lick the football-baseball overlap—they're renting the Denver U. stadium for the home opener next fall. . . .

Del Schofner has deserted Texas to become a year-round resident of New York, currently job hunting. . . . The lanky end was telling defensive back Dick Lynch how he used to winter in LA during his Ram days playing on a Ram-sponsored basketball team that hooked up in a series with Abe Saperstein's Globe Trotters . . . and little Abe was so pleased with one of their performances he tore up the $125-per-game checks for each footballer and upped the payoff to $200. . . .

Baseball platooning, admits Hall-of-Famer Bob Feller, baffled him when it first came into vogue (with Casey Stengel as the pacesetter). . . . "It shook me," he says, "until I got used to the idea of seeing only left-handers. The block was only mental."

Between you'n'me, after 40 years of championship golf, this is how Gene Sarazen rates his contemporaries: most brilliant—Bobby Jones . . . most sensational—Walter Hagen . . . most courageous—Ben Hogan . . . greatest on fairways and greens—Harry Vardon. . . .

Tackle Shop, Eddie's, Accord Score Wins in 'Y' Cage Loop

Ray's Tackle Shop walloped Balotin, 77-44, in the feature game of a YMCA Basketball league tripleheader last night at the local court.

In other contests, Eddie's Country Fair beat Glotzl's Delicatessen, 69-49, and Accord nipped Hub, 54-50.

Joe Klonowski and Bob Bondar led the Tackle Shop with 19 points each. Chick Boice added 13 and Ronnie Scheffel had 11. Ed Knight was the best for the losers with 14 markers.

Eddie's, after losing 13 straight games in the opening round of play, started the second round with an easy victory. The winners poured it on in the final period, outscoring their opponents, 22-9.

Accord and the Hub played a close one and it wasn't decided until the final moments. The winners trailed after the opening period but they staged rallies after that to earn the decision.

Bob Cherrix Set to Make Debut This Year at Monticello Track

MONTICELLO—Bobby Cherrix, a popular driving figure on the metropolitan scene, has applied for stall space for 24 horses and will be racing for the first time at Monticello Raceway when the track opens for 99 nights and two matinees of racing on May 31.

Cherrix, in fact, has Class AA trotter, Ramire, a 2:02.4 performer, staked for opening night in the feature $5,000 Sixty-Two Trot. Ramire will be returning to racing after almost a year of inactivity.

The Cherrix stable will be made up of 10 aged horses, four three-year-olds and the rest two-year-olds. The younger horses are staked well at Monticello.

Cherrix celebrated his greatest season in 1961. His stable earned $226,411 as Bobby made 401 trips in the sulky. The 32-year-old Maryland reinsman finished 28th in the nation in average (.302), winning 68 dashes, taking 62 seconds and 56 thirds.

Some Fast Horses

Like Ramire, several of the horses Cherrix is shipping to Monticello were lightly raced last year. Amber Wayne, 2:02, is the fastest record horse. Copper Harvest, 2:03; Harry's Joe, 2:03.4; Speers Direct, 2:04.1; Mighty Gold, 2:04.1, and Afton Wyn, 2:06.3, are included in the aged array listed to race at the Mighty M.

Afton Wyn was the most active of the group. The five-year-old roan gelding made 28 starts, mostly on the New York circuit, and was in the money 12 times.

Copper Harvest, competing in the three-year-old ranks, had 12 races, but managed to bank $5,225. Cherrix expects to get more use from the bay ambler.

Amber Wayne is a seven-year-old stallion with just nine starts, but three wins to his credit in '61. Harry's Joe, Speers Direct and Mighty Gold were held out most of last summer.

Cherrix will have older brother Zadok available to train and drive when he's committed elsewhere. However, Bobby promises to drive regularly at Monticello which is good news for track patrons.

Umpires School Slated Monday

An umpires school is scheduled on Monday, March 12, for managers, coaches, potential league umpires and interested persons. The school will be under the sponsorship of the Ulster Little League and will be directed by Donald Sweeney. It will take place at the Lake Katrine School.

The director, who formerly ran the Houston, Texas Baseball Umpires Assn. school for several years will also hold outdoor classes in late March and early April when the Town of Ulster Little League teams begin practice.

Bowling Changes In Booster Play

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—The Booster division for low average bowlers provided the only major changes in the standings of the American Bowling Congress Tournament Thursday.

Semo Liquid Fertilizer of Charleston, Mo., rolled into second place in that contingent with a 2762 series while fifth and sixth places were claimed by Rheinschmidt's Floor Covering of Burlington, Iowa, and Truman Opticians of Dayton, Ohio, respectively.

The Burlington team bowled 2744 and the Dayton team 2739.

He paired with Joe Ciresi for a 1283 total, to which Czerwinski contributed 601.

U. S., Canada Win in Hockey

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—The United States and Canada's defending champions were off and running as expected today in the World Amateur Ice Hockey Championships.

Both trounced their opening day opponents and joined the plucky Switzerland team in first place with a victory and two points each. The U.S. team, held scoreless in the first period, unloaded eight goals in the second period and trounced Norway 14-2 while Canada bombed Finland 8-1 in night games.

Switzerland, which doesn't figure to be up there long, had the distinction of gaining the first victory in the championship group when it beat Great Britain 6-3 in a Thursday afternoon contest. The Swiss rallied for four goals in the last period.

"This was the one we needed," said American coach Connie Pleban of Duluth, Minn.

"I think we have the makings of a real fine team, but we'll know a lot better about it when we play Sweden Saturday night."

Both the Americans and Canadians won't play again until Saturday night. Canada will meet West Germany.

Missouri Cagers End Poor Season

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Missouri finished its basketball season in the Big Eight cellar with a 3-11 record as Oklahoma beat The Tigers 63-55 Thursday night.

It was the Tigers' final game under Coach Sparky Stalcup, who is retiring to become assistant athletic director.

The Missouri student body gave Stalcup a desk set in a pregame ceremony in appreciation of his 16 years of coaching. His collegiate career record is 195 victories and 179 losses.

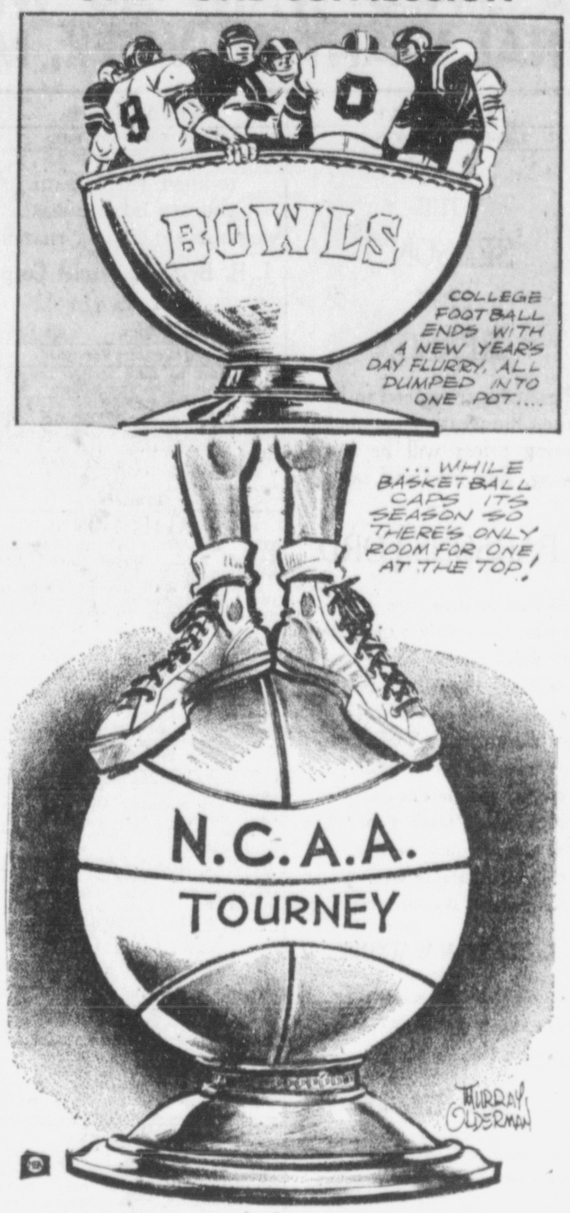
ONLY ONE CONCLUSION



BETWEEN YOU 'N' ME ...

by MURRAY

When San Francisco gets the Philadelphia Warriors—it looks now like a sure thing—the whole package may comprise Wilt Chamberlain, rookie Tom Meshery and 22 dirty uniforms . . . because veteran Paul Arizin will definitely retire. . . . Philly natives Tom Gola and Guy Rodgers say they won't relocate on the west coast . . . and coach Frank McGuire is supposed to want a stock deal before he'll budge. . . .

Jim Pollard is definitely on the skids as the coach of the Chicago Packers . . . but will be retained by the club in some capacity. . . .

In a year or two, predicts owner Danny Biasone of Syracuse, rookie Walt Bellamy will be a bigger name in basketball (he doesn't yield anything in height, either) than Wilt or Bill Russell . . . and a lot of other NBA people feel the same way. . . . The gauge of his progress is that the first time he faced Chamberlain in league competition, Bellamy's first 10 shots were blocked by the Warrior giant because Walt made the mistake of driving in too close. . . . Now he plays him on even terms. . . .

What's this about Eddie Donovan, coach of the New York Knicks, making two special trips out to Indiana to see Purdue's Terry Dischinger- . . . could have something to do with the fact that Terry (natural territorial choice of the Packers) won't play pro ball unless he can tie it in with his chemical engineering. . . .

Big plum in the pro football scrap is the television money . . . as Barron Hilton, the owner of the San Diego Chargers, explains it. "Suppose our television money goes up to $4.5 million in five years (same as the NFL gets today), it's split among only eight clubs . . . and here's something nobody realizes—we have only three cities shut out on some Sundays, which means we go into big markets like Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit all the time. . . . It means something to our sponsors." . . . but only, of course, if the AFL survives. . . .

Note from Paul Hornung says he's in great shape doing his Army stint—"You must be in good health to survive the Kansas winter," writes the Green Bay husky. . . .

Insiders claim that Jim Barnes, the 6-9 Cameron (Okla.) Junior College basketeer, is headed for Kansas State next year . . . and could immediately succeed Jerry Lucas as the All-America center in '63. . . . On the subject of change, Army football coach Paul Dietzel sounds off this way: "I don't like the rules being tampered with all the time, like they do in basketball. It's reached the point where I go to a game and don't know what's going on." . . .

Bursitis is bothering Jay Hebert, the former PGA champion, but he expects it to clear up by the time of the Masters in April. . . . Owners of the Denver Broncos, who also run the baseball franchise in town, have figured out a way to lick the football-baseball overlap—they're renting the Denver U. stadium for the home opener next fall. . . .

Del Schofner has deserted Texas to become a year-round resident of New York, currently job hunting. . . . The lanky end was telling defensive back Dick Lynch how he used to winter in LA during his Ram days playing on a Ram-sponsored basketball team that hooked up in a series with Abe Saperstein's Globe Trotters . . . and little Abe was so pleased with one of their performances he tore up the $125-per-game checks for each footballer and upped the payoff to $200. . . .

Baseball platooning, admits Hall-of-Famer Bob Feller, baffled him when it first came into vogue (with Casey Stengel as the pacesetter). . . . "It shook me," he says, "until I got used to the idea of seeing only left-handers. The block was only mental."

Between you'n'me, after 40 years of championship golf, this is how Gene Sarazen rates his contemporaries: most brilliant—Bobby Jones . . . most sensational—Walter Hagen . . . most courageous—Ben Hogan . . . greatest on fairways and greens—Harry Vardon. . . .

Tackle Shop, Eddie's, Accord Score Wins in 'Y' Cage Loop

Ray's Tackle Shop walloped Balotin, 77-44, in the feature game of a YMCA Basketball league tripleheader last night at the local court.

In other contests, Eddie's Country Fair beat Glotzl's Delicatessen, 69-49, and Accord nipped Hub, 54-50.

Joe Klonowski and Bob Bondar led the Tackle Shop with 19 points each. Chick Boice added 13 and Ronnie Scheffel had 11. Ed Knight was the best for the losers with 14 markers.

Ray's had big edges at the quarter stops and the team was never threatened.

Eddie's, after losing 13 straight games in the opening round of play, started the second round with an easy victory. The winners poured it on in the final period, outscoring their opponents, 22-9.

Accord and the Hub played a close one and it wasn't decided until the final moments. The winners trailed after the opening period but they staged rallies after that to earn the decision.

Bob Cherrix Set to Make Debut This Year at Monticello Track

MONTICELLO—Bobby Cherrix, a popular driving figure on the metropolitan scene, has applied for stall space for 24 horses and will be racing for the first time at Monticello Raceway when the track opens for 99 nights and two matinees of racing on May 31.

Cherrix, in fact, has Class AA trotter, Ramire, a 2:02.4 performer, staked for opening night in the feature $5,000 Sixty-Two Trot. Ramire will be returning to racing after almost a year of inactivity.

The Cherrix stable will be made up of 10 aged horses, four three-year-olds and the rest two-year-olds. The younger horses are staked well at Monticello.

Cherrix celebrated his greatest season in 1961. His stable earned $226,411 as Bobby made 401 trips in the sulky. The 32-year-old Maryland reinsman finished 28th in the nation in average (.302), winning 68 dashes, taking 62 seconds and 56 thirds.

Some Fast Horses

Like Ramire, several of the horses Cherrix is shipping to Monticello were lightly raced last year. Amber Wayne, 2:02, is the fastest record horse. Copper Harvest, 2:03; Harry's Joe, 2:03.4; Speers Direct, 2:04.1; Mighty Gold, 2:04.1, and Afton Wyn, 2:06.3, are included in the aged array listed to race at the Mighty M.

Afton Wyn was the most active of the group. The five-year-old roan gelding made 28 starts, mostly on the New York circuit, and was in the money 12 times.

Copper Harvest, competing in the three-year-old ranks, had 12 races, but managed to bank $5,225. Cherrix expects to get more use from the bay ambler.

Amber Wayne is a seven-year-old stallion with just nine starts, but three wins to his credit in '61. Harry's Joe, Speers Direct and Mighty Gold were held out most of last summer.

Cherrix will have older brother Zadok available to train and drive when he's committed elsewhere. However, Bobby promises to drive regularly at Monticello which is good news for track patrons.

Umpires School Slated Monday

An umpires school is scheduled on Monday, March 12, for managers, coaches, potential league umpires and interested persons. The school will be under the sponsorship of the Ulster Little League and will be directed by Donald Sweeney. It will take place at the Lake Katrine School.

The director, who formerly ran the Houston, Texas Baseball Umpires Assn. school for several years will also hold outdoor classes in late March and early April when the Town of Ulster Little League teams begin practice.

Bowling Changes In Booster Play

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—The Booster division for low average bowlers provided the only major changes in the standings of the American Bowling Congress Tournament Thursday.

Semo Liquid Fertilizer of Charleston, Mo., rolled into second place in that contingent with a 2762 series while fifth and sixth places were claimed by Rheinschmidt's Floor Covering of Burlington, Iowa, and Truman Opticians of Dayton, Ohio, respectively.

The Burlington team bowled 2744 and the Dayton team 2739.

Steve Czerwinski, operator of a bowling supply firm at Buffalo, N.Y., made his 30th straight appearance in ABC competition and aided his partner in taking eighth place in the regular doubles.

He paired with Joe Ciresi for a 1283 total, to which Czerwinski contributed 601.

U. S., Canada Win in Hockey

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—The United States and Canada's defending champions were off and running as expected today in the World Amateur Ice Hockey Championships.

Both trounced their opening day opponents and joined the plucky Switzerland team in first place with a victory and two points each. The U.S. team, held scoreless in the first period, unloaded eight goals in the second period and trounced Norway 14-2 while Canada bombed Finland 8-1 in night games.

Switzerland, which doesn't figure to be up there long, had the distinction of gaining the first victory in the championship group when it beat Great Britain 6-3 in a Thursday afternoon contest. The Swiss rallied for four goals in the last period.

"This was the one we needed," said American coach Connie Pleban of Duluth, Minn.

"I think we have the makings of a real fine team, but we'll know a lot better about it when we play Sweden Saturday night."

Both the Americans and Canadians won't play again until Saturday night. Canada will meet West Germany.

Missouri Cagers End Poor Season

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Missouri finished its basketball season in the Big Eight cellar with a 3-11 record as Oklahoma beat The Tigers 63-55 Thursday night.

It was the Tigers' final game under Coach Sparky Stalcup, who is retiring to become assistant athletic director.

The Missouri student body gave Stalcup a desk set in a pregame ceremony in appreciation of his 16 years of coaching. His collegiate career record is 195 victories and 179 losses.

5,000 Are Present For Standard's Store Opening

Approximately 5,000 people attended the grand opening of the new Standard Furniture store, 323 Wall Street, here Thursday.

Mayor John J. Schwenk cut the ribbon that officially opened the store at noon. Also attending the grand opening ceremonies were Sam Pepper, president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, and Richard Whittington, president of the Uptown Businessmen's Association.

Mayor Schwenk extended the greeting of the city to William Feinberg, president of the firm, and to Jay Melton, manager of the Standard store in Kingston for the past 14 years. Chester L. Fienberg, general manager and treasurer responded for the firm stating that Standard was proud to be part of the progressive community of Kingston and attributed the Standard's success to the support of the people of the Kingston area over the past 23 years.

Started in 1901, Standard firm has upstate stores at Albany and Schenectady, which have prospered and expanded like the one it ran here on Fair Street prior to changing location.

One of the largest one-floor furniture stores in upstate New York, the new Standard store runs from Wall Street through to Crown Street and displays a complete line of home furnishings in modern, colonial and traditional styles. A Sleep Shop Early American Lane and Appliance Center are featured in the new store which almost doubles the space of the old Standard store.

The grand opening celebration continues today to 9 p. m. and Saturday to 5,30 p. m. with a free gift to every woman who visits the new store. Twenty-five free prizes will be awarded with one thousand dollars in furniture of the winners own selection as grand prize. No purchase is necessary.

Game Supervisor Warns Dog Owners Of Deer Killing

The regional office of the Division of Fish and Game for Region 8 has received numerous complaints concerning the killing of deer by semi-domestic or wild dogs.

Persons owning or harboring dogs are requested to keep them under control at all times during this period, as snow conditions have become exceedingly hazardous for wild deer populations. The snow now has a crust which is capable of supporting some fairly large dogs, but it is apparently not capable of supporting deer, as their hooves punch through the crust and when they begin to flounder the dogs are able to take them down.

In some cases dogs have been destroyed while eating the deer alive. To date over 75 dead deer in Region 8 have been verified as dog kills and this total is increasing daily. Four deer were killed by dogs on a single 5,000 acre tract in a two day period.

The Conservation Department earnestly asks the cooperation of all persons to make sure that their dog is not running at large during this critical period. Under Section 240 of the Conservation Law, owners are reminded that they can be prosecuted for allowing their dog to hunt deer and in accordance with Section 186 of the Conservation Law, all game protectors, forest rangers, state police and other authorized law enforcement agents are directed to kill dogs pursuing or killing deer from December 1 to May 1.

Celtics Seeking Record of 60 Wins

The Boston Celtics are goin' like 60 and with three more victories they'll be there.

The Celts, aiming for a season record total of victories in the National Basketball Association, won their 57th Thursday night—a 108-102 decision over the Chicago Packers, who wound up setting a record in reverse. The loss was the 59th for the new Packers, topping by one the low mark of 58 for one season established by New York last season.

Boston, tuning up for a defense of its NBA title, has three games left and by winning all three can top its own record total of 59 triumphs set two years ago.

Mazur Leading Pensacola Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Peter Mazur, a man who never has won a pro golf tournament, was in a rare position today as play entered the second round of the $20,000 Pensacola Open Tournament.

The 39-year-old Tonawanda, N.Y., pro was at the head of the pack by a three-stroke margin after shooting a 31-32—63 in Thursday's opening round.

Mazur started with a bogey on the first hole and wound up with 10 birdies on the par 36-36—72, 6,700-yard Pensacola Country Club course.

He has played all tournaments so far this year and only made the cutoff at Baton Rouge. He finished out of the money there.

His round was a stroke better than the recognized course record of 64 set by Al Geiberger two years ago, but was a stroke over the 62 shot by Bob Rosburg in 1959 when the easier winter rules were in effect.

Bunched in back of Mazur were Arnold Palmer, winner here in 1960; defending champion Tommy Bolt; and Joe Campbell, all at 66.

A stroke farther back were Doug Sanders; Don Fairfield, Pensacola titleholder in 1956; and young Jerry Steelsmith, at 67.

Sixty-one players were under par, six at 68, nine at 69, and 18 at 70.

The field will be cut to the low 60s and ties after today's round.

Detroit Nearing New York Rangers

The Detroit Red Wings are within one point of overhauling the New York Rangers in the battle for the fourth and last playoff berth in the National Hockey League.

The Wings, getting some brilliant play from goalie Hank Bassen and two goals from rookie Larry Jeffery, whipped Boston 3-0 Thursday night and boosted their point total to 56. With eight games to play to New York's six, the Wings' hopes of making the playoffs are brightened considerably.

Montreal, toughest of the NHL lot, Thursday night salvaged a 1-1 tie with Toronto to hold their seven-point lead over the runner-up Maple Leafs.

Chicago Seeks Basketball Tie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Majors, who have been bouncing in and out of first place in the American Basketball League Eastern Division, can tie for the top again tonight.

The Majors and the Hawaii Chiefs are scheduled to play in Miami Beach as the new pro league invades Florida. A Chicago victory would give the Majors a 16-14 record for the second half race, exactly the same as the Pittsburgh Rens.

A layup by Jack Adams with one second left gave the New York Tapers a 108-107 victory over the Kansas City Steers, the Western Division leaders, at Commack, N.Y., Thursday night. Cleveland squeezed out a 100-98 victory over the San Francisco Saints at San Francisco on four free throws in the last 39 seconds.

Lehigh Wrestlers Set to Defend Title

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Lehigh opened the defense of its title today in the 58th annual championship tournament of the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association.

Other teams entered in the two-day event were host Penn State, Columbia, Penn, Princeton, Yale, Brown, Cornell, Franklin & Marshall, Harvard, Pitt, Rutgers, Syracuse, Temple, Army and Navy.

Report Condition Of Boys in Sleigh Mishaps Same

The condition of two boys injured Saturday in sledding mishaps was reported unchanged at noon today, according to hospital authorities.

Donald R. Leard, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Leard of Blue Mountain was reported in fair condition at Benedictine Hospital.

Walter Steinlauf, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Steinlauf of Woodstock was reported in serious condition today at Kingston Hospital.

The Leard youth reportedly suffered five fractured vertebrae in a sledding accident near his home Saturday morning. It was reported his sled went out of control and he was thrown from the sled against a tree. Young Leard is a freshman at Saugerties High School.

The Steinlauf youth reportedly suffered a fracture at the base of the skull, a ruptured spleen and several broken ribs, when he lost control of his sled and hit a tree head-on while sliding down a hill of Wittenberg Road, Bearsville. The mishap occurred Saturday afternoon.

16,932 Are Served By Catholic Assn. During Last Year

A new high for the number of children and adolescents, 16,932, served last year by Catholic institutions and agencies, is noted in the annual report of Very Rev. Msgr. Michael F. Dwyer, director of the Child Care Department of New York Catholic Charities made public in connection with the organization's 1962 fund appeal.

Detailed statistics show 5,084 dependent and neglected boys and girls were provided for in 10 child caring institutions; 3,484 physically, mentally or emotionally handicapped and the delinquent, in 11 specialized institutions; 5,006 in foster and adoptive homes and 1,375 court committed girls in custodial shelters. Supervision following institutional discharge was given to 1,009 adolescents and 974 children were cared for in day nurseries.

St. Cabrini Home Included

One of the institutions for dependent children, St. Cabrini Home, located at West Park in Ulster County, last year cared for 232 girls between the ages of three and 16. The home was established in 1890 by Saint Francis Xavier Cabrini, America's first citizen saint, who founded the religious order which conducts the home, the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart.

The most significant advance in the field of child care, the report continues is the development of specialized services, particularly psychiatric and psychological, to cope with the emotional problems of the dependent and neglected children now being referred to the child caring institutions. To further meet this situation in-training programs have been initiated for all staff members who work directly with the children in order that they might better understand and handle their behavior problems and their emotional needs. Case conferences, consultations with clinical personnel, and group meetings are arranged and attended by staff members.

Family Grouping Used

More and more, Msgr. Dwyer states, these children are manifesting personality disorders that stem from the problems besetting immigrant families in trying to make their way in a new community and a different culture."

Another development is the growing emphasis on family grouping whereby children from the same family, stay together as a unit while living at the institution. Two of the homes have already adopted this plan to keep brothers and sisters from being separated, and others will follow.

Supporting and supervising the adolescents released from child caring institutions is the Catholic Guardian Society which helps them to obtain housing, medical and psychiatric treatment and employment and offers emergency financial assistance.

21st Nevada Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another underground blast—the 21st announced by the Atomic Energy Commission in its current series—was touched off Thursday at the Nevada test site.

The AEC said the test was of low yield. Such blasts have a force equivalent to less than 20,000 tons of TNT.

5,000 Are Present For Standard's Store Opening

Approximately 5,000 people attended the grand opening of the new Standard Furniture store, 323 Wall Street, here Thursday.

Mayor John J. Schwenk cut the ribbon that officially opened the store at noon. Also attending the grand opening ceremonies were Sam Pepper, president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, and Richard Whittington, president of the Uptown Businessmen's Association.

Mayor Schwenk extended the greeting of the city to William Feinberg, president of the firm, and to Jay Melton, manager of the Standard store in Kingston for the past 14 years. Chester L. Fienberg, general manager and treasurer responded for the firm stating that Standard was proud to be part of the progressive community of Kingston and attributed the Standard's success to the support of the people of the Kingston area over the past 23 years.

Started in 1901, Standard firm has upstate stores at Albany and Schenectady, which have prospered and expanded like the one it ran here on Fair Street prior to changing location.

One of the largest one-floor furniture stores in upstate New York, the new Standard store runs from Wall Street through to Crown Street and displays a complete line of home furnishings in modern, colonial and traditional styles. A Sleep Shop Early American Lane and Appliance Center are featured in the new store which almost doubles the space of the old Standard store.

The grand opening celebration continues today to 9 p. m. and Saturday to 5,30 p. m. with a free gift to every woman who visits the new store. Twenty-five free prizes will be awarded with one thousand dollars in furniture of the winners own selection as grand prize. No purchase is necessary.

Game Supervisor Warns Dog Owners Of Deer Killing

The regional office of the Division of Fish and Game for Region 8 has received numerous complaints concerning the killing of deer by semi-domestic or wild dogs.

Persons owning or harboring dogs are requested to keep them under control at all times during this period, as snow conditions have become exceedingly hazardous for wild deer populations. The snow now has a crust which is capable of supporting some fairly large dogs, but it is apparently not capable of supporting deer, as their hooves punch through the crust and when they begin to flounder the dogs are able to take them down.

In some cases dogs have been destroyed while eating the deer alive. To date over 75 dead deer in Region 8 have been verified as dog kills and this total is increasing daily. Four deer were killed by dogs on a single 5,000 acre tract in a two day period.

The Conservation Department earnestly asks the cooperation of all persons to make sure that their dog is not running at large during this critical period. Under Section 240 of the Conservation Law, owners are reminded that they can be prosecuted for allowing their dog to hunt deer and in accordance with Section 186 of the Conservation Law, all game protectors, forest rangers, state police and other authorized law enforcement agents are directed to kill dogs pursuing or killing deer from December 1 to May 1.

Celtics Seeking Record of 60 Wins

The Boston Celtics are goin' like 60 and with three more victories they'll be there.

The Celts, aiming for a season record total of victories in the National Basketball Association, won their 57th Thursday night—a 108-102 decision over the Chicago Packers, who wound up setting a record in reverse. The loss was the 59th for the new Packers, topping by one the low mark of 58 for one season established by New York last season.

Boston, tuning up for a defense of its NBA title, has three games left and by winning all three can top its own record total of 59 triumphs set two years ago.

Mazur Leading Pensacola Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Peter Mazur, a man who never has won a pro golf tournament, was in a rare position today as play entered the second round of the $20,000 Pensacola Open Tournament.

The 39-year-old Tonawanda, N.Y., pro was at the head of the pack by a three-stroke margin after shooting a 31-32—63 in Thursday's opening round.

Mazur started with a bogey on the first hole and wound up with 10 birdies on the par 36-36—72, 6,700-yard Pensacola Country Club course.

He has played all tournaments so far this year and only made the cutoff at Baton Rouge. He finished out of the money there.

His round was a stroke better than the recognized course record of 64 set by Al Geiberger two years ago, but was a stroke over the 62 shot by Bob Rosburg in 1959 when the easier winter rules were in effect.

Bunched in back of Mazur were Arnold Palmer, winner here in 1960; defending champion Tommy Bolt; and Joe Campbell, all at 66.

A stroke farther back were Doug Sanders; Don Fairfield, Pensacola titleholder in 1956; and young Jerry Steelsmith, at 67.

Sixty-one players were under par, six at 68, nine at 69, and 18 at 70.

The field will be cut to the low 60s and ties after today's round.

Detroit Nearing New York Rangers

The Detroit Red Wings are within one point of overhauling the New York Rangers in the battle for the fourth and last playoff berth in the National Hockey League.

The Wings, getting some brilliant play from goalie Hank Bassen and two goals from rookie Larry Jeffery, whipped Boston 3-0 Thursday night and boosted their point total to 56. With eight games to play to New York's six, the Wings' hopes of making the playoffs are brightened considerably.

Montreal, toughest of the NHL lot, Thursday night salvaged a 1-1 tie with Toronto to hold their seven-point lead over the runner-up Maple Leafs.

Chicago Seeks Basketball Tie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Majors, who have been bouncing in and out of first place in the American Basketball League Eastern Division, can tie for the top again tonight.

The Majors and the Hawaii Chiefs are scheduled to play in Miami Beach as the new pro league invades Florida. A Chicago victory would give the Majors a 16-14 record for the second half race, exactly the same as the Pittsburgh Rens.

A layup by Jack Adams with one second left gave the New York Tapers a 108-107 victory over the Kansas City Steers, the Western Division leaders, at Commack, N.Y., Thursday night. Cleveland squeezed out a 100-98 victory over the San Francisco Saints at San Francisco on four free throws in the last 39 seconds.

Report Condition Of Boys in Sleigh Mishaps Same

The condition of two boys injured Saturday in sledding mishaps was reported unchanged at noon today, according to hospital authorities.

Donald R. Leard, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Leard of Blue Mountain was reported in fair condition at Benedictine Hospital.

Walter Steinlauf, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Steinlauf of Woodstock was reported in serious condition today at Kingston Hospital.

The Leard youth reportedly suffered five fractured vertebrae in a sledding accident near his home Saturday morning. It was reported his sled went out of control and he was thrown from the sled against a tree. Young Leard is a freshman at Saugerties High School.

The Steinlauf youth reportedly suffered a fracture at the base of the skull, a ruptured spleen and several broken ribs, when he lost control of his sled and hit a tree head-on while sliding down a hill of Wittenberg Road, Bearsville. The mishap occurred Saturday afternoon.

16,932 Are Served By Catholic Assn. During Last Year

A new high for the number of children and adolescents, 16,932, served last year by Catholic institutions and agencies, is noted in the annual report of Very Rev. Msgr. Michael F. Dwyer, director of the Child Care Department of New York Catholic Charities made public in connection with the organization's 1962 fund appeal.

Detailed statistics show 5,084 dependent and neglected boys and girls were provided for in 10 child caring institutions; 3,484 physically, mentally or emotionally handicapped and the delinquent, in 11 specialized institutions; 5,006 in foster and adoptive homes and 1,375 court committed girls in custodial shelters. Supervision following institutional discharge was given to 1,009 adolescents and 974 children were cared for in day nurseries.

St. Cabrini Home Included

One of the institutions for dependent children, St. Cabrini Home, located at West Park in Ulster County, last year cared for 232 girls between the ages of three and 16. The home was established in 1890 by Saint Francis Xavier Cabrini, America's first citizen saint, who founded the religious order which conducts the home, the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart.

The most significant advance in the field of child care, the report continues is the development of specialized services, particularly psychiatric and psychological, to cope with the emotional problems of the dependent and neglected children now being referred to the child caring institutions. To further meet this situation in-training programs have been initiated for all staff members who work directly with the children in order that they might better understand and handle their behavior problems and their emotional needs. Case conferences, consultations with clinical personnel, and group meetings are arranged and attended by staff members.

Family Grouping Used

More and more, Msgr. Dwyer states, these children are manifesting personality disorders that stem from the problems besetting immigrant families in trying to make their way in a new community and a different culture."

Another development is the growing emphasis on family grouping whereby children from the same family, stay together as a unit while living at the institution. Two of the homes have already adopted this plan to keep brothers and sisters from being separated, and others will follow.

Supporting and supervising the adolescents released from child caring institutions is the Catholic Guardian Society which helps them to obtain housing, medical and psychiatric treatment and employment and offers emergency financial assistance.

Recorder Found In Jamaica Bay

NEW YORK (AP)—The flight recorder of the American Airlines jetliner that crashed March 1 has been dredged from the water of Jamaica Bay and sent to Washington. Investigators hope it may provide clues to the cause of the crash that cost the lives of all 95 aboard.

The flight recorder—an orange-painted sphere about the size of a basketball—was designed to record automatically the speed, altitude, compass heading and other details of a flight.

Civil Aeronautics Board investigators said the device was relatively undamaged and may give some indication of why the jetliner plunged into the bay only three miles from Idlewild Airport. It had just taken off for a nonstop flight to Los Angeles.

CAB staff member Edward E. Slattery Jr. has cautioned that the recorder may be able to tell what happened but not why it happened.

Rocky Assails Defeatist Talk By Republicans

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says that, because an opinion poll indicates President Kennedy's popularity is high, this does not mean Republicans should "roll over and play dead."

The New York governor said Thursday night the Democrats are waging "skillful psychological warfare to persuade us to do that."

"And the worst of it is that some Republicans are falling for it," he said at a GOP fund-raising dinner.

To the contrary, Rockefeller said, "Republicans have no reason whatsoever to dabble in this do-it-yourself defeatism."

He said he was convinced that any Republican defeatist talk was silly because of "recent results at the polls—not the opinion polls but the voting polls, the polls that count."

In the only special Senate election since 1960, Rockefeller said, his party won, and it did better in eight out of nine special House elections since that year.

He cited GOP gains in his state and others.

Irish Holiday Is Evident in Some Upcoming Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ed Sullivan Show and, in its own way, "Dr. Kildare" will be wearing the green during the next few pre-St. Patrick's Day evenings, but there will be business as usual at most other television stands.

"The Milton Berle Show" tonight (9:30-10:30 EST) on NBC will ignore the approaching Irish holiday — the stars are Jack Benny, Lena Horne, Janis Paige, Laurence Harvey and Berle.

On Saturday night NBC winds up its three-part science series, "Threshold for Tomorrow" with more about atoms, computers and sea studies.

Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic has another 90-minute concert on Sunday (CBS, 5-6:30 p.m.). There will be another edition of NBC's debate series, "The Nation's Future" (5-6) when Democratic Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Republican Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa discuss the administration farm program. "Meet the Press" has lined up still another Kennedy —Edward M. (Ted) and the President's youngest brother — for a questioning session (NBC, 6-6:30).

Ed Sullivan's Sunday night CBS program (8-9 p.m.) will consist of an all-Irish program starring Maureen O'Hara, Rosemary Clooney and Pat Rooney Sr. "The Paradine Case" will be NBC's "Theatre '62" adaptation of another old movie, starring Boris Karloff, Richard Basehart and Viveca Lindfors (10-11).

Chet Huntley will narrate an NBC news special, "The Land," on Tuesday evening (10-11). A woman's special, "The Indiscriminate Woman" with Carol Lawrence in the title role will be broadcast by NBC Wednesday afternoon (3-4).

Thursday night's "Dr. Kildare" episode (NBC, 8:30-9:30) is called "The Roaring Boy-O," and is about a heavy-drinking Irish writer who lands in the good doctor's hospital.

Jackie to Leave Tonight on Her Overseas Jaunt

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy leaves by plane tonight for a 20-day trip to Italy, India, Pakistan and Britain.

The First Lady spent Thursday night at the Carlyle Hotel, where she and her husband have a penthouse apartment.

She was joined at the hotel Thursday by her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill of London who will accompany her on the trip.

Mrs. Kennedy arrived here Thursday on the family plane. The President saw her off at the airport in Washington. Secret Service men escorted Mrs. Kennedy on an auto drive from La Guardia Airport to the hotel. She had several trunks and hatboxes.

Mrs. Kennedy will spend the weekend in Rome, where her schedule calls for an audience with Pope John XXIII and a courtesy call on President Giovanni Gronchi. From Rome, she will go to India and Pakistan. She and her party expect to fly to London March 26 before returning to the United States.

Pierre Salinger, presidential press secretary, said in Washington Thursday that Mrs. Kennedy will pay her own travel expenses and those of her sister.

Salinger said Mrs. Kennedy will not pay the costs of others accompanying her. He gave newsmen no answer to questions whether the government would pay for the others. The trip will be by commercial and charter planes.

President Rules Out R. I. Offer For White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has declined with thanks the offer of Rhode Islanders to set up a summer White House at Newport, R.I.

"He did not think there was any need for a summer White House at Newport," Pierre Salinger, press secretary, said Thursday after Kennedy met with Rhode Island's Democratic senators, John O. Pastore and Claiborne Pell.

Rhode Island citizens had offered to buy an estate known as Annadale House to serve as a summer White House. The price tag was $250,000.

Pickets Continue

NORWICH, N.Y. (AP) — Production workers continued today to picket two plants of the Bennett-Ireland Corp., manufacturers of fireplace accessories, in a demand for increased wages.

Find Wreckage Of U. S. Plane

ALENCON, France (AP) — Wreckage of a U.S. Air Force transport, missing with 12 crewmen, was found today in heavy woods near Alencon. French police reported from the site there were no survivors.

The four-engine plane disappeared Thursday.

There was no indication what had caused the plane to crash.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman said names of the dead would not be announced until next of kin were informed.

The transport, at its last report, said it was in the vicinity of Alencon, which is 60 miles southwest of the plane's base at Evreux. The aircraft was on a routine training mission with five officers and seven enlisted men aboard.

The plane and crew were from the 322nd Air Division. The planes based at Evreux constitute a transport pool for U.S. operations in Western Europe. They also do much of the shuttling of U.N. troops and suppleis to the Congo.

Fewer Civilians Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of civilians on the government payroll decreased slightly from December to January, the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures reported today.

The committee said 2,428,691 civilians were working for the government in January, a decrease of 2,307, or less than one-tenth of 1 per cent, from the preceding month. Civilian agencies showed a decrease of 3,209 while civilians working for the military increased by 902.

Recorder Found In Jamaica Bay

NEW YORK (AP)—The flight recorder of the American Airlines jetliner that crashed March 1 has been dredged from the water of Jamaica Bay and sent to Washington. Investigators hope it may provide clues to the cause of the crash that cost the lives of all 95 aboard.

The flight recorder—an orange-painted sphere about the size of a basketball—was designed to record automatically the speed, altitude, compass heading and other details of a flight.

Civil Aeronautics Board investigators said the device was relatively undamaged and may give some indication of why the jetliner plunged into the bay only three miles from Idlewild Airport. It had just taken off for a nonstop flight to Los Angeles.

CAB staff member Edward E. Slattery Jr. has cautioned that the recorder may be able to tell what happened but not why it happened.

PERUVIANS VISIT ELECTROL—A delegation of trade unionists visiting the United States, which has been in Kingston this week, was welcomed Thursday at Electrol Incorporated on Grand Street, which manufactures landing gear systems for commercial aircraft. Emerson Rawding, field service engineer at the plant, points to one of the features of the manufactured parts, and Arthur Casciero, (in white shirt), president of Local Lodge 1562, National Association of Machinists, briefs group on collective bargaining. The trade union team composed of Peruvians in various commercial fields, is visiting here under auspices of the Agency for International Development, U. S. Department of State. Technical aspects of the project are arranged by the Department of Labor, Bureau of International Labor Affairs. (Freeman photo).

Rocky Assails Defeatist Talk By Republicans

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says that, because an opinion poll indicates President Kennedy's popularity is high, this does not mean Republicans should "roll over and play dead."

The New York governor said Thursday night the Democrats are waging "skillful psychological warfare to persuade us to do that."

"And the worst of it is that some Republicans are falling for it," he said at a GOP fund-raising dinner.

To the contrary, Rockefeller said, "Republicans have no reason whatsoever to dabble in this do-it-yourself defeatism."

He said he was convinced that any Republican defeatist talk was silly because of "recent results at the polls—not the opinion polls but the voting polls, the polls that count."

In the only special Senate election since 1960, Rockefeller said, his party won, and it did better in eight out of nine special House elections since that year.

He cited GOP gains in his state and others.

Irish Holiday Is Evident in Some Upcoming Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ed Sullivan Show and, in its own way, "Dr. Kildare" will be wearing the green during the next few pre-St. Patrick's Day evenings, but there will be business as usual at most other television stands.

"The Milton Berle Show" tonight (9:30-10:30 EST) on NBC will ignore the approaching Irish holiday — the stars are Jack Benny, Lena Horne, Janis Paige, Laurence Harvey and Berle.

On Saturday night NBC winds up its three-part science series, "Threshold for Tomorrow" with more about atoms, computers and sea studies.

Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic has another 90-minute concert on Sunday (CBS, 5-6:30 p.m.). There will be another edition of NBC's debate series, "The Nation's Future" (5-6) when Democratic Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Republican Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa discuss the administration farm program. "Meet the Press" has lined up still another Kennedy —Edward M. (Ted) and the President's youngest brother — for a questioning session (NBC, 6-6:30).

Ed Sullivan's Sunday night CBS program (8-9 p.m.) will consist of an all-Irish program starring Maureen O'Hara, Rosemary Clooney and Pat Rooney Sr. "The Paradine Case" will be NBC's "Theatre '62" adaptation of another old movie, starring Boris Karloff, Richard Basehart and Viveca Lindfors (10-11).

Chet Huntley will narrate an NBC news special, "The Land," on Tuesday evening (10-11). A woman's special, "The Indiscriminate Woman" with Carol Lawrence in the title role will be broadcast by NBC Wednesday afternoon (3-4).

Thursday night's "Dr. Kildare" episode (NBC, 8:30-9:30) is called "The Roaring Boy-O," and is about a heavy-drinking Irish writer who lands in the good doctor's hospital.

Jackie to Leave Tonight on Her Overseas Jaunt

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy leaves by plane tonight for a 20-day trip to Italy, India, Pakistan and Britain.

The First Lady spent Thursday night at the Carlyle Hotel, where she and her husband have a penthouse apartment.

She was joined at the hotel Thursday by her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill of London who will accompany her on the trip.

Mrs. Kennedy arrived here Thursday on the family plane. The President saw her off at the airport in Washington. Secret Service men escorted Mrs. Kennedy on an auto drive from La Guardia Airport to the hotel. She had several trunks and hatboxes.

Mrs. Kennedy will spend the weekend in Rome, where her schedule calls for an audience with Pope John XXIII and a courtesy call on President Giovanni Gronchi. From Rome, she will go to India and Pakistan. She and her party expect to fly to London March 26 before returning to the United States.

Pierre Salinger, presidential press secretary, said in Washington Thursday that Mrs. Kennedy will pay her own travel expenses and those of her sister.

Salinger said Mrs. Kennedy will not pay the costs of others accompanying her. He gave newsmen no answer to questions whether the government would pay for the others. The trip will be by commercial and charter planes.

President Rules Out R. I. Offer For White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has declined with thanks the offer of Rhode Islanders to set up a summer White House at Newport, R.I.

"He did not think there was any need for a summer White House at Newport," Pierre Salinger, press secretary, said Thursday after Kennedy met with Rhode Island's Democratic senators, John O. Pastore and Claiborne Pell.

Rhode Island citizens had offered to buy an estate known as Annadale House to serve as a summer White House. The price tag was $250,000.

Wall Breakers Jailed

BERLIN (AP)—Two young East Germans caught trying to escape through the Berlin wall have been sentenced to prison terms of 2 years 10 months, a private Western intelligence agency reported today.

Pickets Continue

NORWICH, N.Y. (AP) — Production workers continued today to picket two plants of the Bennett-Irejand Corp., manufacturers of fireplace accessories, in a demand for increased wages.

Irwin Smith, president of Local 297, International Molders and Allied Workers Union, said 108 members struck the company's plant here Thursday and eight others walked out at another plant in nearby Sherburne.

Find Wreckage Of U. S. Plane

ALENCON, France (AP) — Wreckage of a U.S. Air Force transport, missing with 12 crewmen, was found today in heavy woods near Alencon. French police reported from the site there were no survivors.

The four-engine plane disappeared Thursday.

There was no indication what had caused the plane to crash.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman said names of the dead would not be announced until next of kin were informed.

The transport, at its last report, said it was in the vicinity of Alencon, which is 60 miles southwest of the plane's base at Evreux. The aircraft was on a routine training mission with five officers and seven enlisted men aboard.

The plane and crew were from the 322nd Air Division. The planes based at Evreux constitute a transport pool for U.S. operations in Western Europe. They also do much of the shuttling of U.N. troops and supplies to the Congo.

Fewer Civilians Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of civilians on the government payroll decreased slightly from December to January, the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures reported today.

The committee said 2,428,691 civilians were working for the government in January, a decrease of 2,307, or less than one-tenth of 1 per cent, from the preceding month. Civilian agencies showed a decrease of 3,209 while civilians working for the military increased by 902.
